DRESSMAKING DEPARTMENT.

COSTUME ORDER DEPARTMENT.

Arrangements for this Autumn have been made with a view of meeting increased patronage. We have pleasure in announcing the engagement of A LADY OF LARGE LONDON EXPERIENCE TO SUPERINTEND THESE ROOMS, and our Patrons may rely not only on a perfect fit, but also on having the latest and most approved styles. Our staff of experienced workers leaves us with no anxiety as to the execution and finish of all garments entrusted to us, and we confidently ask a continuance of that support hitherto so generously given.

We have before remarked that every Lady can and should be well dressed, meaning thereby that every Costume can be well and artistically made. Our arrangements will confirm this statement.

In cases of extreme urgency, such as, for instance, for mourning orders which may admit of but little time for execution, we shall be happy to send an experienced fitter, wherever possible, to the residences of our patrons free of charge.

Fitting-rooms well ventilated and beautifully lighted.

FARMER and COMPANY.

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT.

Novelties here are of the most recherché character, and afford every possible scope for individual choice. No limit appears to have been fixed as a style or size for head adornments. For instance, IN BONNETS the shapes are varied, which means that every face can be becomingly suited. Close-fitting shapes and high trimmings, as also the lower crowns and small open fronts. These, with the Directoire or Empire, are the leading styles.

THE CHIEF COMBINATIONS are Velvets mixed with Tinsel and Oriental Laces. The New Armure Royale Ribbons, Crowns of Cloth to match Costumes.

THE NEW CLOTH EMBROIDERED BONNETS are of the latest style, and will safely command attention.

FEATHERS.—Ostrich, Wings, Birds, Leaves, and Flowers will be much worn.

FLOWER MOUNTING.—We desire to say this special department is under the management of an experienced lady recently from England. Any ladies can have their selections made up to their expressed wishes, in an artistic manner.

FARMER AND COMPANY.

MOURNING DEPARTMENT.

We are in receipt of the largest assortment of BLACK GOODS we have ever had the honour of submitting. We note several novelties of a general character in the manufacture of fabrics for this department, as well as many specially pleasing textures new to the trade.

OUR FRENCH CASHMERES and MERINOES are of Splendid Value, of good substantial dye, and approved weight.

46-IN. ALL-WOOL FRENCH CASHMERES, 1s 9d to 5s 6d yard

44-IN. ALL-WOOL FRENCH MERINOES, 1s 9d to 6s yard.

STRIPES will predominate this autumn, and this will be regarded as an agreeable change from the all too plain textures, which have now had a good run in public favour.

46-INCH STRIPED CASHMERE, 2s yard, extraordinary value. 35 different patterns to select from

46-IN. STRIPED ARMURE, 3s, 3s 6d, 3s 11d, 4s 6d yard

46-IN. CORKSCREW CLOTH, 3s 6d yard

46-IN. CREPE-DE-LAINE, 4s 6d, a fine Hair-cord material, well recommended for wear

27-IN. ESTAMINE SERGE, 10½d, 1s 9d, a good useful material for dresses or habits

48-IN. MOURNING CLOTH, 3s 6d

46-IN. BIARITY CLOTH, 3s 6d.

These goods are exceedingly rich in appearance, possess exceptional durableness, warm and light, drape elegantly, and require but little or no trimming to add to their beauty.

48-IN. ALL-WOOL STRASBURG, 4s 6d

60-IN. TWILL WATERPROOF CASHMERETTE, 4s 6d yard

46-IN. AMAZON or FACED CLOTH, 1s 9d, 2s 11d, 4s 6d favourably commented upon in all books on fashion

24-IN. ALL-WOOL CASHMERE TWILL, 1s, wonderful value

24-IN. CASHMERE SERGE, 1s 3d

24-IN. NUN'S VEILING, 1s, 1s 3d, 1s 4½d.

BLACK ROBES.

In these goods our buyers have excelled themselves. Our assortment is rich in the extreme, and we predict a large inquiry for our new goods.

BORDERED ROBES, 27s 6d to 84s

CASHMERE and SILK ROBES, from 35s 6d to 73s 6d.

A NEW AND POWERFUL DRAMA entitled
MADAME MIDAS
MADAME MIDAS
MADAME MIDAS
dramatised by Mr. Philip Beck, from the enormously successful novel of the same name, by Fergus Hume.
GRAND CAST OF CHARACTERS
and
RE-APPEARANCE
(after nine months' absence in England)
of
Mr. PHILIP BECK,
Mr. GEO. RIGNOLD
in placing before the public the above play, has much pleasure in calling attention to the following
UNANIMOUS OPINIONS OF THE PRESS:—

"The production of 'Madame Midas' at this theatre on Saturday evening is a landmark in the history of the drama in Australia. Thanks to the splendid enterprise of Mr. George Rignold, to the consummate skill, both as actor and playwright, of Mr. Philip Beck, to the artistic efforts of Mr. Alfred Clint, and to the combined exertions of an excellent company, 'Madame Midas' places Her Majesty's in the first rank of the theatres of the world".—EVENING NEWS.

"The play of 'Madame Midas' is a good one; it is full of exciting incident and well-drawn characters; it is brisk and stirring, and is full of interest. The scenery is a triumph of scenic art."—SYDNEY MORNING HERALD.

"Too much praise can hardly be bestowed upon the management for supplementing the higher forms of dramatic art with realistic adjuncts, and which has led to such excellent results at Her Majesty's Theatre in the past, and led in this instance to a perfect triumph of pictorial effect. The acting throughout was exceedingly good."—DAILY TELEGRAPH.

"On Saturday Mr. Philip Beck's much looked for version of 'Madam Midas' was staged in a manner befitting the reputation for excellent scenic effects which Her Majesty's has enjoyed for some time. Mr. Beck's creation of Gaston Vandeloupe is an absolutely powerful one."—THE ECHO.

"The play was magnificently staged, and is a decided success."—AUSTRALIAN STAR.

"Mr. George Rignold always does things well, but in his most recent production he may be said to have beaten his own record. The acting calls for unmeasured praise, and Mr. Philip Beck, who was greeted very cordially on his reappearance last night, plays with great skill."—WEEKLY NEWS.

SPECIAL NOTICE OF REMOVAL.

TO OUR FRIENDS AND PATRONS.

We beg most respectfully to inform you that, after 22 years of active business life in our old premises, we have had to make a change in our address.
We took steps at the termination of our Lease to secure the premises almost immediately opposite, formerly occupied by Lobb, Hambly, Westbrook, and Davis; these premises have been entirely remodelled, and we are now in possession and ready for business. We hope to see all our old constituents, and are sanguine that, with our greatly increased facilities, we shall largely widen our circle of customers.
We can conscientiously say, without boasting, that our NEW PREMISES are the best lighted, best arranged, and most commodious premises for a FIRST-CLASS GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING TRADE anywhere in the Southern Hemisphere.
We intend in the future to confine our business operations entirely to the MEN'S, YOUTHS', and BOYS' GENERAL OUTFITTING TRADE. All orders will be under the personal supervision and care of the proprietors, and no effort will be spared to please our patrons, and to give the very best value for money.

A CRUISE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC

TO THE SPICY ISLES.

IN TONGA.

FOR KING AND CONSTITUTION.

(BY OUR SPECIAL COMMISSIONER.)

VII.

In my last article I led my readers as far as the gate of the British Consul's house at Nukualofa. I shall now ask them to come inside and see how an European has, after the fashion of reasonable and intelligent beings, adapted his frigid northern life to the life of the tropical south. No staring white chapel is there here, but a large house built in native fashion, with reed walls and thatched roof, and with great open windows and doors, set in a cool recess of native trees and flowers. Let us not hurry to break the spell of this little Arcadia, for such it appears to be. Look round. Here is the lime and the bread-fruit, and the pomegranate, and the orange and the palm, over there hanging out its red cups grows the hibiscus. There is the sweet gardenia and the opulent passion-flower, and there shyly steals the jasmine in and out of the shade as the soft wind stirs it. Straight through the colonnade of natural beauty see the cool seclusion of the consul's office, and peering through and over the books and papers, and the maps and native mats, behold the green beyond through an open door. Go in; no one to be seen, no one to be heard. Speak; no one replies. At your left is a partition of native make running half way, nay one-third of the way, up to the lofty roof with its bamboo poles and its reeds and grass. The house is all one room—you can see that—and you are in the screened office. You go to the door, from which paths run back into the green. At the left there is a cottage, and in it are natives moving about. You catch a glimpse of a figure in white coming through the trees. That is the Consul, grey-bearded, cool, and deliberate. He answers the summons, you clasp hands, and soon you are in the midst of an interesting talk upon matters generally in the South Pacific. Of course one must not go to an officer such as a consul for detailed information on political affairs in his consulate, so I do not press any questions which he would find difficult to answer; but there is much that we can speak about which is to my benefit and edification. And the information about life in the islands is none the less welcome because it is given over a delicious breakfast served in the large living room of the consulate in native surroundings, the consul's daughter presiding. Here are beautiful tappa cloths, cocoanut shells finely polished, cool, delicately woven mats, native weapons, fans, and fly-flappers; and there moves about with stately steps and slow a native girl of about 16 attending to our wants. "Stately steps and slow." That is it. I did not see a Tongan move quickly while I was there. I do not believe they do so save when at war or when dancing. I was struck with the beautiful glossy hair of the girl, with the aristocratic way in which it was done up. I mentioned the hair. "Ah, yes, that is the glory of the Samoan women—and men too for that matter now," said the consul, "they have nothing else to think of but Sunday and their hair, and they spend all the week in getting it ready for the Sabbath." On all sides I was told that the Tongan and the Samoan regard the Sunday as their holiday, their great festival, when fearfully and wonderfully arrayed in European costume they are marshalled at the white conventicle for praise and prayer. "They live for Sunday," said one man to me. "But," said I, "what is the motive of their expectation and their hope?" "Ah, well, you know," he said, "it is the correct thing to say piety, but I should say it is something of a religious amusement." Now I am not inclined to believe always those who are doubtful of religious motives and habits. The doubt often springs from an unwholesome antipathy to religion which is not based upon anything but individual feeling. But it is astonishing what amount of good-natured criticism is passed upon the later-day missionary effort by the most sensible and kindly-dispositioned men, that one meets. Much of it I doubt not is undeserved. But I believe nevertheless, that the missionaries have on many matters drawn the lines of outward form so tight that form has become the end and not the means. From what one observes, and hears, and reads, I should say that with the natives there is a nonconformist ritualism which is fatal to a practical piety.

A practical piety! I mean a Christian practical piety, for after their fashion they had a piety before the Christian came, one common to many savage races, but in the Tongans and Samoans a more genial and gentle thing than in any other heathen races. Though vexed by civil wars, they have always been at heart and in practice a domestic people. They have been communistic in the sense that the early Christians were; their hospitality has been an unbounded thing, so much so that in old days there never was a chance of an individual waxing rich. If a member of a family made gain, it was at once dispensed to all—to even his poor relations. They endeavoured to preserve chastity and the sanctity of marriage. Their methods of proving chastity would be horribly obscene to us, but they did not seem so to them. Death was the punishment for adultery and for murder. They had severe laws against theft and assault, against filial disobedience, against disrespect and false-witness or perjury. They turned no man away empty, they gave out of a hearty and noble fulness. These practical virtues must be taken into account in estimating how much noble Christian effort should have done for them. I saw two instances of their religious habits—one in Tonga and one in Samoa, which are vivid pictures in my memory. Passing through Nukualofa I dropped into several native houses. In one I saw a sick woman with large, sad eyes, looking languidly at a young girl who, kneeling beside her, was praying. I could not tell what she said, because the prayer was in the Tongan language, but the simplicity of the scene was touching. In a corner a couple of naked children were playing with some bright pandanus flowers, trying to weave them upon a string; a very old man sat mumbling gently to himself with a cocoa-nut shell in his hands, from which ever and anon he would take a sip of the milk; a horse browsed near the door; far off the bell of the King's chapel was striking the hours, while the sensuous summer weather filled the scene with a strange languor. I wished I had not entered. What should I be doing there? but, having entered, I could not abruptly leave, and so I stayed. We could exchange a few English words, I myself had been suffering from a touch of tropical malaria I should call it, and having a cooling powder in my pocket, I got the old man to open a cocoanut for me, and I mixed the powder in the milk and gave it to the woman to drink. Before I left she slept like a child. As I passed the threshold the old man sat looking at her drearily with the empty cocoanut-shell in his hand, the children had wound about their necks the red pandanus flowers and leaves of creepers about the loins, and the girl, in her soft voice, was saying to me the usual Tongan farewell 'Ofa.' Out here upon this boiling sea as I write the scene rises between me and the far horizon, and is it strange that the thought should rise "Is the poor native woman no more here—has she said her last 'Ofa'—has the white conventicle opened and closed its door, and the green coverlet of the earth been lifted up once and then shut down again, and another member of a fading race fled this busy scene? Perhaps she would but add another to those thousands of her people who have swiftly passed before the tread of the Anglo-Saxon, whose through the thunder of the world they rest and are quiet, and who see not neither understand the cloud of oblivion that is falling upon their nation.

But I have wandered far from the Consul and his pleasant home, so far that I am afraid I cannot take up the thread again, and so must leave him with the gratitude that every stranger must feel to one who shows him kindness in a strange land. But that is a land of hospitality as I have said before. One caught the flavour of something patriarchal, something rural about the people. And speaking of the patriarchal, to show how certain customs have been common to many primitive races I would note the fact that both Tongans and Samoans had cities of refuge to which the criminal could flee, and be safe from those who thirsted for his blood. I say thirsted for his blood, in a literal sense, because though the Tongans and Samoans were not cannibals in the sense that the Fijians and the inhabitants of the New Hebrides were, they partook of some of the roasted flesh of slaughtered enemies for whom they had especial detestation and hatred. There was never, however, it seems, a decided taste for human flesh among them. I do not believe there could be. One could think it possible of the black, thick-lipped, woolly-headed negro of some of the other of the Pacific Islands, but not of the Tongan or Samoan. They look too Caucasian for that. For the same reason I cannot believe that the Hawaiians were cannibals, though it was said that they ate Captain Cook. When in the Sandwich Islands I found an old native who said that his father was present at the massacre, and that only the heart of the intrepid navigator was cooked, and that it was simply tasted by the chiefs. That may be taken for what it is worth.

THE KINGDOM OF TONGA.

I have here beside me as I write a Tonga Government Gazette, published in 1883, and containing the Constitution of Tonga. After the statement as to when the Constitution was granted, then follows the "Declaration of Rights," which begins with this marvellous sentence:—

"Seeing it appears to be the will of God for man to be free as He has made of one blood all nations of men, therefore shall the people of Tonga be for ever free and all people who reside or may reside in the kingdom. And the lives and bodies and time of all people shall be free to possess and acquire property, all doing as they like with the fruit of their hands, and using their own property as they may deem fit."

Let us analyse this composition a little. Laying aside the utter disregard of the proper uses of conjunctions, what is the meaning of the first two clauses? Plainly, that because God has made all nations of men of one blood, therefore it is His Will that man shall be free. The construction of the rest of the sentence would get a third-form boy a thrashing. Their "lives and bodies and time" are to "be free to possess and acquire property, all doing as they like with the fruit of their own hands," &c., that is, "lives and bodies and time" are to have this permission. Was it hoped that the Scriptural flavour of this Declaration of Right would sanctify all the monstrous English in it? For let us go a step further. Clause 2 says that—"No one shall be obliged to work as servant to another except he is willing to do so, saving in breaches of the law. And any slave running away from any country to Tonga (if he is not running away from the law of any land in consequence of being a murderer, thief, or guilty of any crime, or debt) shall at once be free on putting foot on Tongan soil; for no one shall ever continue to be a slave under the protection of the flag of Tonga."

Let us see. If a man is willing to work for another, he shall be obliged to do so except in breaches of the law. That is the meaning of the first sentence, and a pretty mess comes of that last phrase, "breaches of the law," in connection with the preceding phrases. And we see further that this constitution holds that a man is a criminal who is in debt, for it speaks of being "guilty of any crime or debt." What a world of sinners we are, if we are to be judged by that law! And so this stupendous constitution runs through its 32 clauses. Let us pick one or two sentences at random:—"No laws shall be made, enacted, for any special class to the detriment of another class; but one law equally the same for all persons residing in this land." Again:—"But the Royal Family shall be considered to have arrived at the age of maturity at 18 years." I turn to the last page of this document and I find beneath the last sentence the names of George Tabou, R.; William Tugi, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly; Shirley W. Baker, Premier, and Josatiki Toga, Clerk of the Privy Council. Perhaps Mr. Baker is only responsible for the elevated Pentateuchical atmosphere of the constitution, and not for its meaning. We must deal gently with the persecuted. And the King! Ay, there's escape there. Let us lay it on the King. Our warranty? Get you to the play of Henry the Fifth, and see what Harry of Monmouth says on the eve of the battle of Agincourt:—

> "Upon the King; let us our lives, our souls,
> Our debts, our careful wives,
> Our children, and our sins lay on the King.
> He must bear all."

So let me lay it on the King. I'm surely safe there. Yet not so, for turning over the pages of this constitution idly my eye falls on these words, "The person of the king is sacred." Still there's not much in that, is there? "Ay, by St. Patrick, but there is, Horatio," for I have here also beside me notes of a case tried the other day in Nukualofa, from which I gather the true interpretation of this august sentence, "The person of the king is sacred." This is the case. There was a big chief in Tonga whose name was Ahio. His chieftainship and name were taken away by the King. The reason assigned by those with whom I talked was because he was a Wesleyan, and would not turn Free Church. His name now is Paita. He was brought before a magistrate at Nukualofa on January 29 to be tried for saying "the Wesleyan Church would live for ever." At the trial it was brought out that he supplemented this by saying the Church would live for ever because it was under the protection of His Majesty—that is, under the law. At this the magistrate—a native—from his place on the bench, said, "Do you mean to say that the Wesleyan Church has entered into an agreement with His Majesty? I absolutely deny that his Majesty is under any agreement, written or verbal. It is absolutely a lie." This is cheerful from a magistrate on the bench, and, as any one can see, serenely logical. But now the judgment. The magistrate continues:—"You are not found guilty for speaking, but for using his Majesty's name, which is holy. It is only in Tonga that the King's name is mentioned; you couldn't mention the King in any other nation. Slander means taking a man's character away. You have taken away the King's character. You have interfered with the King's work." The court was adjourned for lunch then, it being noon, and the Chief was to receive judgment when it met again. He, thinking it met at 2 o'clock as usual, went to the courthouse at that time, to find that it had met at 1.30, and he not being there, the Court had adjourned for a week, and he was consigned to the blackhole for that time. Sentence has not yet been passed, the knowing ones saying that the authorities are waiting to hear from the Premier, who is in Auckland. He, kind man! will no doubt advise gentleness and leniency. It was only the other day, the story runs, that two men who had been doing a long sentence at hard labour, that labour being the building of the turtle fence I spoke of in the last article, sought their release. It was pleaded by some one high in power that the work was poorly done. Straightway the men were condemned to work out their sentence again. Let us see how this justice and this leniency on the part of the authorities were rewarded. The two wicked prisoners on the Saturday night before I got there stole the best Government boat they could find, filled it with provisions and tools, and started for Samoa. Then one hears such unpleasant things as this in Tonga, that a creditor getting judgment against a debtor, and securing a warrant for seizure, cannot get the police to enforce the warrant until after the collections are made for the Free Church. Of course, this sort of report is not new. We are so accustomed to regarding the Government of Tonga as mixed up with the interests of the Free Church as to feel nothing of surprise when these—as the Baker party call them—these slanders are cast abroad. Whether or not it is true, there is a feeling abroad that the administration of justice in Tonga is tainted, that there is an Inquisitorial atmosphere about it which sorts not with ideas of modern monarchical administration. It will take time to eradicate this; it will take an exceedingly long time to heal the breach between the parties, and to soften down the soreness. This I know has nothing to do with the constitution, the text with which I started, since the august document was not based upon any conception of religious differences. Note rather this liberal clause:—"All men are free to perform their worship, and to worship God as they may deem fit in accordance with the dictates of their own conscience, and to assemble to perform their worship in such places as they may appoint to do so." Despite the confused form of this portion of the clause, its intention is clear. It goes on to say, however, "But it shall not be lawful for them to construe this privilege (liberty) to commit evil and licentious acts under the name of worship; acts which are not in accordance with the law and peace of this land." It appears to me there is a rather broad margin there, and that this portion of the clause is liable to pretty free translation. The last few years in this petty kingdom have been, as we all know, lively ones, too lively for the sake of decency, too boisterous, and too lined with depredations to reflect anything but disgrace upon the cause of Christianity. I think the root of the difficulty lay in ambition—ambition to make a mere handful of land and a handful of people into a kingdom with empty dignities, and loud-sounding titles, and to have a State Church, with George Tabou Rex Defender of the Faith, and all that sort of thing. What has it all wrought? A toy kingdom; and its great seal has been set upon its constitution in blood. We have been used to look upon Hawaii as a toy kingdom, but it is a great power besides Tonga. Here is a handful of people, growing less and less every year with the paraphernalia of an European Court and constitution. The whole population that of a country town, and yet with a "sacred Majesty" with a Privy Council, a Cabinet, a Legislative Assembly comprised of Nobles and Representatives, and a Judiciary. The form of government in itself is not the source of the evil, but the vainglory and the emptiness of the titles, and the elaborateness of the functions—functions of paste and tinsel, of gingerbread—give the people false ideas and rob them of their natural simplicity of thought, while their lives run on in the same old grooves of labour, and with the petticoats of civilisation flapping about their emasculated customs. No better evidence can be seen of this barren gaud of state nonsense than the constitution holds. Inflated language is its chief characteristic. Thus: "The king is the sovereign of all the chiefs and all the people. The kingdom is his." Another: "The king shall appoint a privy council to assist him in his work in great and important affairs. (The italics are mine.) Great and important affairs! Shade of Lycurgus and Pericles! The labour and duties of a county council elaborated, elongated, blown out, puffed up to the spurious dignity of a kingdom. But I shall be told that the great chiefs were in the past much the same as kings and their rule as that applied to a kingdom. True; but their Government was formed upon a simple basis, and the administration of justice was simple. The Government of Hawaii is one of the biggest examples of the toy kingdoms, and it is honeycombed with corruption and burdened with an expense of administration which is beyond all reason. It is not native Government, it is not white Government, it is an unwholesome and pernicious mixture, it is ostentatiously paltry and and ludicrously assertive. As an example, regard the Hawaiian legation to the Samoan Islands the other day to secure a political confederation with them. Accompanying the embassy was a "Hawaiian man-of-war," an innocent little vessel with, on the authority of the Ambassador himself, drunken worthless marines and cadets. This ostentation of government has spoiled the Hawaiian race, and it would spoil any race, just as the Tongans stood in danger of being spoiled, and as the Samoans will be spoiled when the evil grows as it has grown in Hawaii.

I inquired about the moral condition of the people while in Tonga. The report was not very encouraging. It seems to me that the natives themselves under their old laws must have achieved more desirable results. There are laws in Tonga against the two main criminal crimes for which the English law has directly no punishment—adultery and that other. Well, one week's police record in Tonga is 24 of the former and 30 of the latter. Consider the amount of informing must go on to secure this record and what the general morality of the islands must be. Here is another example of Tongan law. A girl went—against the law—to visit her father, who was a prisoner working in the fields. She was fined 60dols. Thus does justice flourish in the wake of civilisation. But I shall be told that the Government of Tonga is a native Government. It is, but it is a native Government working with machinery too big for it, and behind that machinery is a one-man white influence which directs, controls, as the righteous will—let us hope it is such—whispers.

GLIMPSES OF THE NATIVES AND THE TOWN.

But all this abnormal state of things does not appear to the casual visitor who simply comes to see a curious people and a curious place. He will only see as I saw. First, a sleepy silent town, where are no signs of life until he pierces the trees beyond the white barricade of civilisation, that is, the Government buildings. When he does that he will get a glimpse of Tongan native life not very busy, let us be sure, but still animate. Dismissing therefore unpleasant thoughts I wandered back through the palms and ti-trees, and gave myself up to a short study of Nukuolofa life. There was a hollow sound in the air, like that of wooden hammers. Piercing the trees I found some women making the tappa cloth, a process called "too-too." Four-sided grooved mallets are used to beat out the bark of the white mulberry, and when it is beaten out then comes the staining and painting, and after awhile—days, weeks perhaps—there appears the really-beautiful gnatoo cloth. I cannot say that I was received by the natives of Tonga with that utter frankness with which the natives of Samoa greeted me, but I was still kindly received. It seemed to me that they had lost heart somewhere, and somehow. There was an element of pathos, or perhaps of subduedness, about them, which struck me at times painfully. Yet I was kindly treated—most kindly treated. I sat with native men and women around me, knowing nothing of their language, but eating their bananas and oranges, suffering myself to be decked with what the Hawaiians call lias of leaves and flowers, and lazily studied the beautiful sinnet-plaiting in the walls, the fine rafters of bamboo in the roof, and the pretty mats; but most of all the faces of those about me, and the young men and women preparing for that dance of which I wrote in my first article. They were decking themselves with the pandanus flowers, with the hibiscus, with wreaths of leaves about the head and shoulders, with girdles of grasses and with kneelets and anklets of the same. I passed on to several houses, and at all of them was received with warmth, but the most pleasing reception I met with was from a group of five young fellows sitting under the trees in full gala costume, smoking the native cigarettes and drinking kava. These fellows might have drunk so much picnic lemonade for all the intoxicating effect it had upon them. They wished me many a hearty ofa when I left them, and one pressed upon me a tortoiseshell ring, which is my only visible remembrance of Tonga—besides this curious constitution. Before I left I visited the house of the principals of the Government school. I had not time to visit the school itself, but I was told the boys were well up in many things, among others, binomial theorem. I believe this would be considered a very good thing by most educators, but to me it had little that was prepossessing. My remembrance of the binomial theorem is confined to a stiff examination at College, when it and trigonometry nearly floored me, but I do not know that it has ever been much help to me in the matter of earning bread and butter. Had one seen a good industrial school in Nukuolofa, or even a model farm, one would have been much more impressed. There are many queer ideas about education in the minds of educators, particularly when they are of a religious turn. I am not sure that drawing, photography, working in wood, or tailoring, if they are bound to civilise the native utterly, would not be of more use to him than the binomial theorem.

I wanted to get admission to the bulangia, or prison, but I was informed that I could not be admitted under any circumstances. I had been told as much before by one who had some queer stories to tell, unreliable, I hope, of men kept in chains and half-starved for trivial offences and flogged almost to death for stealing. This surely must be a mistake, for nobody looked bloodthirsty in Nukuolofa. I visited the chief representative of the Free Church there, and I could not think such things would occur within his view without protest. But all this, true or false, is saddled upon his chief. Said one man on the boat to me, "It would seem that the Premier hated the natives with an undying hatred, if we may judge by his rule and treatment of them." I could see nothing inquisitorial about Mr. Watkin. He is a quiet, deliberate-looking man, whom one would never suspect of mixing up State and Church affairs, and stamping sectarian differences upon the administration. He volunteered me the information that there is peace now in Tonga, and that it is likely to continue. He asserts that the Free Church is no longer an effort—it is a substantial, overpowering fact; for they have one hundred chapels now built and paid for, and, as he says, have carried the islands. It would certainly appear, from such information as I could gather, that the Free Church is overwhelmingly victorious in the conflict. Mr. Moulton's college—a not informidable array of buildings—still exists, and there are 25 or so students there nominally; but the back of the Wesleyan mission is undoubtedly broken. Aside from the merits of the claims of the two parties, it seems to me that there should in all reason be an independent conference for Polynesia, if not for each group of islands alone—in affiliation, of course, with the parent conferences. If it is true that native labour and native money built all the churches, the claims of the Australian conferences must be feeble. I should say that a policy of expediency and temporisation is one which should be pursued in this matter. Though there is an outward peace, there is without doubt an undercurrent of bitter hostility, the most active of which, so far as we can read from investigations and reports, lies with the Free Church party.

But the time came when I had to leave Tonga and its troubles behind, and sauntering to the wharf—everybody saunters in Nukualofa—I found two parties of natives making for the Lübeck. There were no boats to hire; there was no chance for me with the larger party, so I appealed to the other, which consisted of the pilot Friday and his henchman. He, with his leather bag under his arm and a bad cigar between his teeth, gave me a hearty permission, and I entered the boat. We were just starting off when we heard shouts, and we turned back to take in an old native woman, with a young naked baby across her hips, and a poor old fellow with elephantiasis. I have seen this disease in many forms in these islands, and it is not pleasant to look at. This case interested me because of the man himself. He seemed an intelligent kindly old fellow. When we got to the ship I kept track of him, and I discovered that he was going to Samoa and was leaving behind a couple of daughters. Their parting was very touching, because so quietly sad. Big tears rolled down the old man's cheeks as they rubbed noses (it sounds like bathos, but it wasn't such), and the girls ran down the stairs with wet eyes and were rowed off to shore. And now our vessel began to ride out between the shallows of coral to the wide ocean again, and soon there was nothing to be seen of Nukualofa but a white conventicle ring upon the shore; while overhead upon the bridge the pilot Friday did his little duty in his little pompous way; but he, too, had his day, and running down the rope-ladder to the shouts of his henchman, he dropped into his boat, they hoisted sail, and their bronze bodies were lost, too, in the lazy hazy evening, and we were off for Samoa. These articles have not run in the order of the voyage, as I wrote about Samoa first, but perhaps they will not be incomprehensible for all that. And with these words they end.

THE COURT-MARTIAL.

The General Court-Martial appointed to inquire into certain charges of embezzlement made against Warrant-officer William Webster, of the New South Wales Artillery, was continued yesterday, at Dawes Point Battery. There were present:—Colonel Bingham, R.A., president; Colonel Penrose, R.E., Major H. P. Airey, D.S.O., Captain Baynes (New South Wales Artillery), and Captain Cuthell (General Staff). Major Lassetter appeared as Judge Advocate, and Lieutenant-Colonel Mackenzie, A.A.G., prosecutor. Mr. Heydon, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, represented the military authorities; and Mr. G. B. Simpson, Q.C., instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Jaques, and Stephen, appeared for the defence. Mr. Heydon, who commenced his address on the previous evening, now continued it. The sum of £9 12s. 2d. engaged his attention at the outset, and he contended that it did not follow, because the prisoner could account for a portion of the money, that he was guiltless in the eyes of the law. It was enough for the prosecution to show that a deficiency existed, for which the prisoner was responsible. He called attention to the statements made by Webster at the board of investigation, particularly the answer given by prisoner, to the effect that the £9 12s. 2d. represented his own compensation added to Henderson's cheque, as a convenient method of paying him. Other statements were made by the prisoner, with a view to explaining the matter away, and it was not until the court-martial was initiated that Webster had been able to say to whom he had paid a portion of the sum of £9 12s. 2d., while all along he had been utterly unable to account for it. The statements made were a succession of untruths told in the hope of extricating himself from a difficulty. The negligence admitted by the Attorney-General in respect of the books amounted in his (Mr. Heydon's) opinion to culpable negligence. It was proved that the contractors had obtained one-third of the compensation money without having any right thereto, and without having given any value for it. The prisoner under charge 10 was accused of conniving at this, concealing the fact from his superior officers and assisting the contractor to obtain the same. The whole thing was a swindle in his eyes, and no cloud in the matter of custom could obscure its real character from him. The money was obtained under false pretences. If the officers of the Treasury had been made aware that no contract existed under which the compensation money was obtained, and that no clothes had been supplied as shown in the voucher, they never would have advanced the money. The contractors, he contended, should refund to the Government the moneys they had obtained in a dishonest manner. There was no doubt in his mind that the prisoner was aware of the fact that the contractor was obtaining the one-third compensation money without giving any value for it. The custom of allowing the contractor that money had not been proved in the defence put forward. If it had been shown that Colonel Roberts or Major-General Richardson had known of it of their own knowledge or authorised it in any way, then there would be some grounds for the assertion of his learned friend that the prisoner was being made the scapegoat. But nothing of the kind had been proved, and none of the witnesses were aware of the custom in the manner that the prisoner and contractor were aware of it. Mr. Heydon made a reference to the manner in which Colonel Airey was cross-examined by the Attorney-General regarding a misapprehension as to his cognisance of the custom, and his ability to put an end to the charge against Webster. The conversation that Colonel Airey was said to have had with Colonel Roberts and Colonel Murphy was found upon enquiry of these officers to have no existence at all, it being upon another subject altogether. It was only fair to Colonel Airey to say that he was improperly treated. In conclusion, he contended that the charge of embezzlement had been established. It was evident, he urged, that Colonel Roberts passed the vouchers under a misapprehension, but the prisoner could not have been under any misapprehension. The Court had evidence before them of the fact that the master tailor had made a very large sum of money in overcharges, and the question arose whether that could have been done without the prisoner's knowledge, bearing in mind that the tailor's shop was under the supervision of Webster. He submitted that the prisoner had allowed the practices to exist with a full knowledge of them. The Court then adjourned till Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, when the Judge Advocate will sum up the evidence.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—TUESDAY, MARCH 26.

In Divorce.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice WINDEYER.)

BLACKLEY V. BLACKLEY.

Mr. Ralston appeared for the petitioner (the husband) and applied that service upon George Patterson, the co-respondent, might be dispensed with, and that service might also be dispensed with in regard to another co-respondent whose name is unknown. Every effort had been made to discover both parties, but without success, and the citation had not therefore been served upon Patterson. An affidavit was read stating that inquiries had been made in Melbourne, and a reply had been received that Patterson had left Melbourne in a vessel which had been chartered by a representative of the King of Siam to load horses. Respondent had been served with citation and petition and notice of the present motion, but she had not appeared.

Service was dispensed with as moved for, and the issues were settled as marriage on the 5th December, 1883, adultery with co-respondent, Patterson, on or about the 12th January, 1884, and adultery with some person unknown during the months of January and February, 1889. The hearing was fixed for the 4th June without a jury.

BRADSHAW V. BRADSHAW.

Mr. Mann appeared for the petitioner (the husband) and moved to settle issues. The wife had appeared, but had not entered any statement of defence. The co-respondent had appeared and filed his defence.

Mr. Ralston appeared for the wife to oppose the application, and asked that the suit should not be set down for hearing until the petitioner furnished means for the wife's defence.

His HONOR, after hearing argument, refused to make any order settling issues until the costs already incurred by the wife were paid by petitioner, and he also postponed the hearing for the same reason. As he had said over and over again, a person seeking redress in a divorce court must count the cost. He must provide funds for his wife's defence, and if he did not do so he could not be allowed to go on. It was, no doubt, an unfortunate position for both parties, but the wife could not be left without means to defend herself.

DREW V. DREW.

On the motion of Mr. Whitfeld, who appeared for the petitioner (the husband), service of further proceedings upon the respondent and co-respondent was dispensed with, and the issues were settled as marriage on the 1st September, 1882, adultery with co-respondent on the 30th September, 1883, and on several occasions during the year 1888. The hearing was set down for the 4th June, without a jury.

JEUNE V. JEUNE.

Mr. Ralston appeared for the petitioner (the wife), and moved to dispense with further service on the respondent, who had been served personally with the citation, but had not appeared. An affidavit was read stating that respondent, who had been a hotelkeeper in Sydney, had left the colony and gone to Lord Howe Island.

Further service was dispensed with, and the issues were settled as—marriage on the 10th December, 1882, and adultery between 1885 and 1889. The hearing was set down for the 4th June, without a jury.

CARTER V. CARTER.

On the motion of Mr. Foster, who appeared for the husband, further service of the proceedings upon the co-respondent was dispensed with.

M'RAE V. M'RAE.

Mr. Whitfeld appeared for the petitioner (the wife), and Mr. Rolin for the husband. It was announced that the suit, which was one for judicial separation, had been abandoned, as the parties were living together again, and the record would, therefore, be withdrawn. Order accordingly.

BUTTON V. BUTTON.

His Honor made the decree nisi for dissolution of marriage, granted on the 13th August last, absolute, and declared the marriage accordingly dissolved.

In Equity.—(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice OWEN.)

WINCKLER V. SMITH.

Mr. C. J. Manning, with Mr. Gordon, instructed by Messrs. Slattery and Heydon, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Walker, instructed by Mr. Matheson, for the defendants.

This was a motion for an injunction. The defendants, Clive Smith and G. M. Matheson, were stock and share brokers, carrying on business in the city, and as such they had been employed by the plaintiff, A. R. Winckler, to do business for him. In September, 1888, the defendants purchased a number of shares in the Sunny Corner Silver-mining Company, which shares were either held by them in their own names, or in the names of clerks in their employ. On the 6th September, the plaintiff, upon defendants' representations, bought 1000 shares in the Sunny Corner Mining Company, at £3 per share, and he gave in payment two promissory notes for £1501 10s. 6d. The shares began to fall, and plaintiff secured other 500 shares at £2 10s., giving two promissory notes for £1375. The first two notes became due on December 12th, 1888. He renewed them by paying defendant £500, and £76 7s. respectively in cash, and giving two promissory notes for £1251 10s. 6d. Subsequently he discovered that the representations made by the defendants when he purchased the shares were untrue, and as there had never been any transfer of the shares to him, plaintiff refused to pay the amount of the second pair of promissory notes, £1375, when they became due. The defendants commenced an action against plaintiff at common law to recover the amounts of these notes, and at the same time a second action was instituted by Phillip Sheridan, and Bensusan (a director in the mining company) to recover the amounts of the first promissory notes which it was alleged had been passed to them by the defendants. Plaintiff asked the Court to set aside the two contracts, and to order the defendants to deliver up for cancellation the promissory notes for £1375, and to refund the sums of £500 and £76 7s. paid to them. He further asked that the defendants might be ordered to pay him £1251 10s. 6d. his liability to Sheridan and Bensusan as holders of the two promissory notes, or to indemnify him from all liability incurred on account thereof; and, further, that the defendants might be restrained by injunction from further prosecuting their action against him at common law.

The defence was a general denial of the allegations in the statement of claim.

His HONOR reserved his decision in order to look up the authorities.

STEPHEN V. ROBERTS AND OTHERS (PART HEARD).

His HONOR gave judgment in this suit, which was concluded by him on the previous day. He said: In this case one J. W. Thurlow, on the 31st January, 1837, assigned the equity of redemption, subject to a mortgage of a long term of years, to one William Carr, of certain lands near Bankstown. He also conveyed, at the same date, a parcel of land of 50 or 60 acres, now in dispute, to William Thurlow upon trust to sell the two properties and out of the proceeds to pay off the mortgage debt, and to pay certain promissory notes, and after making those payments the residue was to go to William Pitt Burne. About two months after the date of this deed the mortgage debt appeared to have been paid, and the property was re-assigned to J. W. Thurlow without any notice of the trusts of the present deed. In the year 1848 William Pitt Burne became insolvent, and his official assignee was Mr. King. Nothing appeared to have been done with the property until the year 1885. In the schedule of Burne there was no mention made of the trusts in favour of the insolvent. His official assignee appeared to have taken no action in respect to the property, nor had any of his family made any application in respect of it from that time until the present suit. In the year 1885 the defendant Roberts in some way or another ascertained that this property was unclaimed land, but that it stood in the name of William Thurlow, and upon search he discovered the memorial of this deed. He then obtained a conveyance from the administratrix of William Thurlow, thinking that would give him a title to the land. Upon that conveyance he made application to the Real Property Office to bring the property under the provisions of the Real Property Act. His title was rejected. Then he was told that it would be necessary to get a conveyance from the trustee of the deed, and for that purpose, as the original trustee was dead, it would be necessary to have a new trustee appointed. Application was made to the defendant Hund to allow himself to be nominated trustee, and he was appointed trustee under the will by the administratrix of the deceased trustee, Wm. Thurlow. It was when he was appointed that there was some discussion as to the price which should be given for this land, and without taking any steps to ascertain the real value of the land, the purchasers themselves, Roberts and Jones, suggested the sum of £50. It was stated by one of the examiners under the Real Property Act that it should be a considerable sum, and they fixed at random the sum of £500. That was taken to be the purchase-money, and accordingly Hund conveyed the property to the defendants, Roberts and Jones, nominally for the consideration of £500. Then the title was again submitted to the officers of the Real Property Office, and they raised the point that seeing such a long time had elapsed since the execution of the deed, it would be necessary to obtain the sanction of the person beneficially interested. Now the person beneficially interested under the deed was William Pitt Burne. Further search was made, and it was ascertained that he had become insolvent in 1848. Roberts then tried to ascertain who was the representative among the official assignees of the original official assignee of the estate of Burne, and he was told by Mr. King that the representative was Mr. Lyons. Accordingly Mr. Lyons went through the form of putting up the property for auction, and for the sum of five guineas sold all his right, title, and interest. It was impossible for him (his Honor) to treat this purchase as a real and bona-fide exercise of the power of sale under this deed. No doubt by the conveyance from Hund the defendants had got the legal right, but to suppose that a transaction of this kind really was a bona-fide exercise of the power of sale for the purpose of paying the debts and handing the balance over to William Pitt Burne would be simply absurd. There really was no consideration given for the purchase. The only object of paying any sum was for the purpose of making a title. All throughout the defendants, finding this property derelict, were trying to get in all the equitable and legal rights that they could, in order to make a sufficient title to get a certificate from the Real Property Office. But there was no bona-fide purchase under the deed from the beginning to the end. To show that the purchase money was simply nominal for the purpose of making a good conveyance, as soon as the action at common law, as soon as the issues under the Real Property Act were tried, the money was handed back by the purchasers to Hund, in order to keep up the appearance of a valuable consideration. The title, such as it was, that the defendants had got in this way was submitted again to the Real Property Office, and apparently passed the examiners, and passed, also, the board, subject of course to the searches being made, and it being ascertained that the title was a perfectly valid one. Previous to this application a man in the name of Ross, who, so far as he could gather, claimed a possessory title to the land, applied for a certificate. But his title was rejected. The authorities in the Real Property Office, knowing Ross had some claim, gave him notice of the application of defendants, and Ross thereupon filed a caveat. Upon that caveat being filed, issues were stated for trial at law, and on the first day of the trial Ross and the defendants Roberts and Jones came to a compromise under which Ross agreed to withdraw the caveat in consideration of receiving the sum of £1250. While the trial was going on, it appeared to have been ascertained that Lyons, the official assignee, who had conveyed his right, title, and interest to Roberts and Jones, was not the real official assignee who represented the original official assignee of the estate of William Pitt Burne, but that Mr. Stephen was the proper official assignee. Whether that was the reason of the compromise or not he did not know, but at any rate it gave to the parties who were interested in this estate an opportunity of seeing whether any flaw existed in defendants' title, and upon that Mr. Stephen was induced, he supposed by the parties who represented Wm. Pitt Burne, to get himself formally appointed by the Chief Justice official assignee of this estate; and in that character he came in now, at the eleventh hour, to get the benefit of the title of Burne. He did not think there could be any doubt that Mr. Stephen did represent Burne, and he must assume that, as a period of 20 years had elapsed since the date of the deed, the debts referred to must have been paid; and as Burne was to take the whole property after the debts had been satisfied, he must take it Burne or his representatives were entitled to this property absolutely. Therefore, the plaintiff had a right to come into court and ask the Court to give effect to the trust of this deed in his favour; and he (his Honor) was satisfied also that the defendants' title was imperfect, that the defendants, in point of fact, had no title at all to this land. But the only question he had any difficulty about was whether in consequence of the action which was taken by the defendants against Ross, they had not conferred a benefit upon the estate. It might be that Ross had a very good title. He might have had a possessory title, which would have enabled him to succeed in any action at common law; and if a claim of that kind had been satisfied by the action taken by Roberts and Jones, he thought the plaintiff coming into Equity ought to be compelled to do equity by recognising the title, because he thus got the estate free from a claim which, under any circumstances, he would have had to meet, and which, if he had met, he might possibly have been unsuccessful in overcoming. He had no means of ascertaining whether that action was beneficial or not, and he thought the best course to adopt would be to refer it to the Master to ascertain whether the compromise affected by Roberts and Jones with Ross was beneficial to the estate. If it was, then he was clearly of opinion that the plaintiff ought only to be entitled to get the land on condition of his making good the expenditure by the defendants for the benefit of the estate. If, on the other hand, the Master found that this was not beneficial, then it was simply the action of the defendants in trying to buy in an outstanding claim just exactly as they were trying to buy the interest of the administratrix and of the trustee. Of course, people who found property derelict and tried to make a title as best they could must take the risks which were involved. If they were successful they possibly got a valuable property for a small sum; if they were unsuccessful they must lose the money they had expended. If the action taken by the defendants was merely buying up Ross, who was a claimant to the estate, and if Ross really had no title that could affect the interest of the plaintiff, then the defendants were not entitled to be recouped; but if, on the other hand, it was a really bona-fide interest, then the plaintiff was not entitled to get the estate without bearing the burden which had been cast upon him by the action of the defendants. His Honor reserved costs in the matter.

HORSLEY AND ANOTHER V. RAMSAY AND OTHERS.

Mr. Lingen, instructed by Messrs. Dibbs and Gibson, represented the plaintiffs; Mr. C. J. Manning, instructed by Messrs. M'Dowell and Moffitt, the defendants Ramsay; and Mr. Simpson, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Hamilton, the defendant Weir.

The plaintiffs were Richard Frederick Horsley and Herbert Edward Cox, and the action was instituted by them against Jane Ramsay, Wm. Samuel Ramsay, and R. D. Weir, to recover damages for breach of guarantee. It appeared that James Ramsay, Ross Ramsay, and Weir carried on the business of graziers in partnership, and as such partners they held, under pastoral lease, certain lands known as Coobang and Coobang West runs, and also certain freehold and conditionally purchased lands in connection with these runs. At the same time one Oliver Scott Stewart was in occupation of 640 acres within the boundaries of the runs, as conditional purchaser; but the conditions of residence had not been fulfilled, and the lands were not legally transferable. In July, 1883, the plaintiffs purchased all the right, title, and interest in these lands from the Ramsays and Weir, they guaranteeing that the conditions required by the Acts should be completed by Stewart in respect of the 640 acres. The plaintiffs paid the whole of the purchase-money, but the 640 acres had never been transferred; on the contrary, they had been forfeited in consequence of the nonfulfilment of the conditions by Stewart. Plaintiffs therefore claimed that it might be ascertained what damages they had sustained by reason of the breach of the promises of James and Ross Ramsay and the defendant Weir, and that the defendants might be ordered to pay the amount ascertained to be due. If necessary, it was asked that the Ramsays' estate might be administered by the Court.

The defence was that no guarantee had been made that the conditions should be fulfilled, and that the contract was void under the 9th section of the Land Act, 1884.

His HONOR, in giving judgment, pointed out that the vendors had really had no control over the conditional purchase, and the only way they could protect the purchaser was by giving a guarantee that when the proper time came for the transfer the selection would be transferred. They took upon themselves to make good to the purchasers by that guarantee the loss that they would incur if the selector for any reason was unable at the proper time to transfer the property to them. That evidently was the view taken by the Ramsays themselves in reference to this selection, because at the time when they were called upon to show cause why the selection should not be forfeited, they wrote a letter to their agents in Sydney, from which it was clear that they looked upon the guarantee as one which bound them to make good the loss to the purchasers, the plaintiffs in this case, in the event of the selection being forfeited. It was contended by counsel for the defendants that the guarantee only referred to the full period of five years' residence, but the guarantee must be taken as a whole. And what the guarantee did say was this: There were only three years' residence completed, but that the vendors guarantee that the full term of residence would be completed, and they went on to use the words, "and transfer." At the time of the contract only three years had elapsed, and two things were consequently necessary. It was necessary that the remaining two years of the full period of five years' residence should be completed, and it was necessary, also, that the selector himself should transfer the selection. Those two things were distinctly and clearly guaranteed by the vendors. Then when they were called upon subsequently to show cause why the selection should not be set aside on the ground that it was an illegal selection under the 9th section of the Lands Act, the Ramsays wrote to their agent in Sydney to look after it, because the selection was guaranteed by them. It was contended also that the guarantee was illegal within the meaning of the 9th section of the Lands Act. He was clearly of opinion that the contracts and agreements there referred to were contracts and agreements with the selector himself. There was no other way in which sense could be given to the section, except by limiting the contracts there referred to to contracts with the selector. It was clear the section did not refer to the case of a guarantee given by a third person that the selector would carry out the provisions of the Act in person. That being so, and admitting that the guarantee had been broken, he was of opinion that the plaintiff was entitled to that for which he prayed. He referred it to the Master to ascertain the damages, and made no order as to costs.

In Bankruptcy.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice DEFFELL.)

CERTIFICATE APPLICATIONS.

Re Alexander M'Kenzie Murray and John Henry Alexander Lee, ex parte Alexander M'Kenzie Murray. His Honor stated that, as the bankrupt had not complied with the necessary regulations of the court, he would order the application to stand over for six months, the bankrupt to comply with an order made on the 19th February last within six weeks.

Re William Henry Brooks and Henry Herbert Brooks. The bankrupts were ordered to file a statement under rule 20, also a supplementary schedule, and the hearing of the application was ordered to stand over for three months. William Henry Brooks was also ordered to call a special meeting of his creditors, and to attend thereat in order to account for his insolvency, and for proof of debt.

Re John William Peck. The insolvent was ordered to file an affidavit of explanation within 14 days, and the application was ordered to stand over until the 23rd April.

Re Richard James Coombes. The application was ordered to stand over for two months, the insolvent to file an explanatory affidavit with regard to his insolvency within six weeks.

Re Francis Scally. The application was ordered to stand over for a fortnight.

Re Edward Arthur Nurcombe. His Honor refused to grant a certificate in this estate, on account of the manner in which the insolvent had distributed his assets prior to his sequestration.

Re Thomas Main. A certificate of discharge was ordered to issue in this estate.

SPECIAL MEETINGS FOR PROOF.

Re Allan M'Vean. One debt was proved.

Re Andrew Hardie M'Culloch. Two debts were proved.

SEQUESTRATION ON DEBTOR'S PETITION.

Charles M'Kew, of Park-avenue, Birkenhead, contractor. Mr. A. Morris, official assignee.

CREDITORS' PETITIONS.

John Cole Yeo, of Yass, storekeeper, v. James Davis, of Mundoonan, near Yass, grazier. Petition to be heard on April 4th next.

William Bakewell, of St. Peter's, Newton, v. Albert F. Myers, of Pitt-street, Sydney, architect. Petition to be heard on April 4th.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

TUESDAY.

(Before Mr. District Court Judge FITZHARDINGE.)

FOTHERINGHAM V JAMISON.

Plaintiff in this action was a boarding-house keeper, his residence being "The Mansion," Bayswater-road. He sued defendant, a merchant of the city, for £3 12s., as one week's rent due for apartments alleged to have been engaged for Mrs. Jamison and her two daughters. Defendant is at present in England, and in the action he was represented by Mr. Pigott, solicitor, through whom £2 had been paid into Court as settlement of the claim. Mr. Pigott asked for an adjournment of the hearing for six months. This was objected to by the other side, and his Honor decided to hear evidence on behalf of the plaintiff. Mrs. Fotheringham was examined regarding the contract between the parties, after which his Honor adjourned the case until September 30, conditionally that the full amount of claim and 10s. 6d. costs be paid into Court.

DAUNT V. METCALFE AND ANOTHER.

In this case Mr. Lyons appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Butterworth, instructed by Mr. Bingham Thomas, for the defendants. The action was brought to recover the sum of £63 16s., the amount of a promissory note given by the plaintiff to the defendants on December 12, 1887, and discounted by the plaintiff in January this year. The promissory note was given in part payment of a share which the plaintiff agreed to take in a syndicate which was formed for the purpose of forming a company to be called the Sydney Ore-reducing, Refining, and Phosphor Bronze Foundry Company, Limited, to purchase and work certain smelting works at Waterloo. Plaintiff sought to recover the amount of the promissory note on the ground that he had been induced to take a share in the syndicate by the defendant's misrepresentations.

The hearing of the cause occupied the Court the greater part of the day, and it resulted in his Honor giving a verdict for the defendants with costs.

POLICE.

Mr. T. K. Abbott, S.M., disposed of a large number of cases in the Charge Division of the CENTRAL POLICE COURT yesterday. Samuel Read, for stealing two pairs of trousers, a collar, and a necktie, was sentenced to four months, with hard labour. Maurice M'Bride, for using insulting words towards Constable D. W. Smith, in the Central Police Court whilst open to the public, was fined 20s., or seven days. Robert Edmends, a dealer, was sentenced to two months' hard labour for having a family Bible in his possession reasonably suspected to have been stolen. Mary Ann M'Dermott, for having insufficient means of support, was sentenced to four months' hard labour. A labourer named Henry Walker, for unlawfully deserting his infant female child, was ordered to pay 7s. 6d. a week for 12 months to support the child. Joseph Martin, for maliciously injuring a police uniform jumper to the extent of 25s. 6d., was fined 10s. and ordered to pay 25s. 6d. damages. A number of boys, varying in age from 11 years to 15 years, named William Williams, John Strong, John Thane, and Henry Penson, were ordered to be sent to the industrial ship Vernon for having been found wandering about with no ostensible lawful occupation. A young man named James Morgan was sentenced to six months' hard labour for embezzling two small sums of money from his employer, Philip Hurley Sullivan. William Stanley, for assaulting Robert M'Cleery, was fined £3, or two months. In the Summons Division, Mr. O'Malley Clarke imposed a fine of £5, or three months, on William Cosgrove, for using obscene language in a public place.

Mr. A. M. Fisher, S.M., presided in the Charge Division of the WATER POLICE COURT; and Mr. G. W. F. Addison, S.M., disposed of a number of cases in the Summons Division. Henry Ward, 53, carpenter, was found guilty of stealing two planes, value 8s., the property of one F. H. O'Connell. He was further found guilty of purloining a brace, pair of compasses, and a screwdriver, value 10s., the property of William Dewett. The articles were stolen from a building in course of erection in Queen's-place. The accused received a sentence of six months' imprisonment, with hard labour, on each charge, the sentences to be concurrent. Edward Adams, 17, cook, was fined 40s., or 21 days' gaol, for travelling by the steamer Burwah from Melbourne to Sydney without having previously paid his fare, 25s., and with intent to avoid payment thereof. Thomas Wade and George Thompson, on remand, were charged with being concerned with others in stealing a sack of corn and about 3 dozen empty bags, value in all about £2, the property of William Somers, a contractor, residing at No. 11, Taylor-street, Surry Hills. The articles in question were stolen on the 14th instant. Wade was sent to gaol for two months, and Thompson, who is an old offender, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. William Lloyd, 68, jeweller, charged by warrant with neglecting to pay the sum of £1 17s. 6d., due for the support of his deserted wife, was ordered to be imprisoned until the order is complied with. Owen Hutson, 49, labourer, was charged with having criminally assaulted a little girl named Margaret Smith. The girl, who is only 10 years of age, said she resided with a Mrs. Grant, in Kent-street. On Sunday evening last she was on the Flagstaff Hill, in company with other children, when the prisoner spoke to her, and induced her to go to a lonely place, where she alleged he assaulted her. The girl said she was positive the accused was the person who had ill-treated her. The prisoner said he never saw the girl on Sunday last. Dr. Strong gave evidence to the effect that the little one had been injured. Mr. Lowe, who appeared for the defence, said that the accused was an army pensioner and bore an exemplary character. He had witnesses to prove that Hutson was not at the place named at the time stated. The further hearing of the case was adjourned until to-morrow. Prisoner was allowed bail. A young man named Henry D. Thomas, on remand, appeared in answer to a charge of stealing on the steamer Konoowarra, whilst in Port Jackson, a cashbox containing 30s. in silver, a bank receipt for £20, an IOU for £5, a gold watch, Masonic jewel, and other articles, value in all £37, the property of Giacomo Montegazza. The prosecutor said he was forecabin steward on the Konoowarra; prisoner was also a steward on board that vessel; about a fortnight ago witness left the steamer, which was then lying in Port Jackson, to go on shore for half an hour; knew the prisoner was on board when he left the ship; left his cashbox, containing the articles enumerated, in his cabin; within two hours he returned and found that the whole of the property had been stolen; later on in the day he saw the prisoner, who said he was very sorry to hear that witness had lost his property; information was subsequently given to the police, and the prisoner was apprehended; when in custody the accused admitted that he had stolen the property and thrown the cashbox overboard; witness also stated that he had recovered nearly the whole of the property. As the accused bore a good character previous to committing the robbery, the magistrates gave him the option of having his case dealt with at once or of going on for trial at the Quarter Sessions. Prisoner elected to be dealt with by the Bench and pleaded guilty. He received a sentence of six months' imprisonment, with hard labour.

Mr. Whittingdale Johnson, S.M., presided at the REDFERN POLICE COURT. William Parnell, 17, labourer, and Robert Thompson, 18, dealer, on remand, were charged with being concerned with others in stealing 18 cornsacks, value 6s., the property of Edward Cussen. From the evidence it appears that on the 13th instant accused, with some others, took the bags from the prosecutor's stable. When arrested they denied the charge. Prisoners were sentenced to 14 days' imprisonment each. Kate Gordon, 27, servant, on remand, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing £5, the property of William Bannerman. On the 21st instant prosecutor gave his child, Jessie, £5 to put away. This she did by putting it under a box in a bedroom. Prisoner, who was a servant in the employ of Bannerman, left on the morning of the 22nd without notice, and at about dinner-time the money was missed. When arrested, accused said, "It is all right; I have some of the money here. If he" (alluding to Bannerman) "had not been so sharp I would have given it back to him." On being searched, £3 was found on accused. In cross-examination, Bannerman admitted that he and accused had been living as man and wife. A sentence of two months' imprisonment, with hard labour, was awarded to the accused. William Forter, 14, labourer, on suspicion of causing the death of Agnes Vaughan, was remanded to the Coroner's Court. George Anderson, 36, labourer, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for being found on the enclosed premises of John Hunter, Douglas-street, Redfern, for an unlawful purpose, to wit stealing. Edward Dorrington was fined £5, with 5s. 6d. costs, in default to be imprisoned for one month, for keeping his licensed premises, the Rosehill Hotel, Rosehill and Boundary-streets, Redfern, open on Sunday, the 24th ultimo. It would appear that the police entered the house at about 10.10 p.m. on the date mentioned, and saw defendant behind the bar, and about six men in front of the bar. No liquor was seen to have been served, but the constable saw defendant throw two glasses of liquor into a tub, and some of it fell on the counter. Mr. Gannon, who appeared for the defendant, gave notice of appeal. James Arnott, 11 years of age, and Charles Love, 13 years, on remand, were charged with stealing, in company with others, a cashbox containing about £30, the property of George Arnott. On the 21st instant, at about 4 p.m., Constable M'Lean arrested prisoners in Buckingham-street. They had in their possession a bay pony. On being charged with the offence, they replied, "It was the other boy took the money," meaning an elder brother of Arnott, who had been brought up on Thursday last on the same charge, and whose case was withdrawn. In Love's pocket was found a receipt for a bay pony from Kiss, the auctioneer. Another receipt in Love's name was handed to the police by Mr. Arnott. On the 20th instant Love bought a horse, saddle, and bridle from a man named Arthur Mancer, at Kiss's Bazaar, for £2 10s. On the same date Love also bought another horse at Kiss's Bazaar from a horse-dealer named William H. George, and paid £2 for it. John Arnott, an elder brother of the first prisoner, stated that on the 10th instant he and the two prisoners went down on the park, and there Love told him that if he (Arnott) ran away from home he would have to take the cashbox. The younger Arnott then took the cashbox and gave it to Love. They went down to Sydney and slept during the night in an eating-house. On the 15th instant James Hamilton Arnott, father of the first prisoner, missed a cashbox from his home, 74, Pitt-street, Redfern. The box and contents were the property of his son George Arnott. Prisoners, who elected to be summarily dealt with, pleaded guilty, and were ordered to be detained in the cells for six hours.

Mr. Marsh, S.M., presided at the St. Leonards Court. Trisby Johns was fined £2, or 14 days' gaol, for cruelty to a horse. Frederick Anderson was charged on two summonses with cruelly ill-treating a horse by striking it with a back chain. George Wynch deposed that he saw the defendant strike the horse severely with the chain on each occasion. The defendant admitted using the chain, but said that the number of blows had been exaggerated. The magistrate remarked that the public was greatly indebted to Mr. Wynch for his activity in putting down cruelty to animals. The defendant was fined £2 for the first offence and £1 for the second. James Furneyhaugh was charged with being on the premises of Charles Cridland, at Gore Hill, with intent to commit a felony. Constables Farsley and Locke proved the arrest of the accused. When arrested he had on him a file and a number of peculiar kind of keys. Charles Cridland deposed that he was a grocer residing at Gore Hill. The accused had been in his employ for about a week on one occasion 12 months ago. Last Friday morning at twenty minutes to 1 o'clock witness was aroused by a noise. He opened the window, and then saw prisoner kneeling down by the dining-room window. He appeared to be trying to get the window open. Witness dropped a boot on to his head. Witness fired at him with a revolver which he had in the room, but the ball passed over prisoner's head. Witness then ran down stairs, and recognised the prisoner, who said he was looking for the place where a friend of his was camped. He noticed that prisoner had no boots on at this time. He persuaded prisoner to go away at the time, and the next day he gave information to the police. H. Fall and G. M. Veal gave corroborative evidence. Prisoner was sentenced to seven days' gaol. Carl Von Meyer proceeded against a number of persons for neglecting to send their children to school, and fines were inflicted, G. Sheppard 5s. and 8s. 8d. costs, W. Montgomery 10s. and 6s. 10d. costs, Patrick Donnelly 10s. and 6s. 10d. costs, Bromly (three cases) 5s. and costs in each case.

LICENSING COURT.

The weekly meeting of the Licensing Court was held at the Central Police Court yesterday before Mr. Abbott and Mr. Macintosh. Transfers of publicans' licenses were granted from David M'Faul of the Pyrmont Bridge Hotel to Charles Anderson; from Jno. Siamon of the Aurora Hotel, Alexandria, to Thos. Scollin; from Hy. Thornton, holding conditional license for premises at Kogarah to Charles S. Love; from Thos. Stewart of the Salutation Hotel, Botany-road, Waterloo, to B. Bowling; from Maud Boland of the Lalla Rookh Hotel, Newtown-road, to Ernest A. Van; from David Small of the Darling Harbour Hotel, Harbour-street, to G. K. Eastway; from Patrick Kilmartin of Lloyd's Hotel, Bromby-street, to Jean Louis Lesbies. The application of Francis Boshell for the license of the Golden Anchor Hotel, George-street West, was refused; and the license of the West Botany Hotel, Gannon's Forest, in the occupancy of Susan A. Clime was renewed. Colonial wine licenses were issued to Samuel Simmonds, Ed. Walton, and Samuel Kine; and a number of music permits, booth, billiard, and hawkers' licenses were granted.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

DEATH BY BURNING.

Mr. W. T. Pinhey, J.P., held a magisterial inquiry at the Prince Alfred Hospital yesterday, relative to the death of a man named Alexander B. Black, aged 75 years, who died at that institution on the previous day from the effects of burns received on Sunday morning. Evidence showed that the deceased resided at No. 71, Boundary-street, Waterloo. He had been an invalid during the past nine months, suffering from bronchitis and heart disease. Shortly after 3 a.m. on Sunday the deceased's wife awoke and found the bed curtains all ablaze. She called for help, and her two sons ran in and endeavoured to get deceased out of the room, but he resisted. Constable Emanuel then entered the room, and the fire was extinguished by means of buckets of water. The deceased was extricated with his clothing on fire, having sustained severe burns. He took an opiate every night by the doctor's orders, and must have been partially under its influence at the time, or he would have been rescued sooner. Clara Black said that she saw her father standing beside the burning bed apparently stupefied, and she attributed this to the morphia he took to obtain sleep. The deceased was taken to the Prince Alfred Hospital in company with his son Henry, who was badly burned while rescuing him. On the way to the hospital he told the constable that he struck a match and the curtains caught. Dr. Hinder deposed that death was due to exhaustion consequent upon the burns, and his Worship found that the case was one of accidental death.

MISS MARY ANDERSON, our beautiful cousin, is good enough to say of PEARS' SOAP: "I have used it for two years with the greatest satisfaction, for I find it the very best." Pears' Soap for toilet and nursery. Specially prepared for the delicate skin of ladies and children.—[ADVT.]

MEETINGS.

WATER AND SEWERAGE BOARD.

Yesterday afternoon the weekly meeting of the Water and Sewerage Board was held in the board-room, Circular Quay. Mr. T. Rowe presided, and the other members present were—Messrs. Graham, Palmer, Young, Bennett, and Lander.

The abstract of cash receipts for the week ending March 23 showed an income in regard to water service of £680 2s. 6d., making a total of £89,310 19s. 5d. since the board commenced operations, and £14,221 9s. 6d. since the beginning of the year.

The progress report showed that the number of pipes laid during the week ending March 23 was 689, through 1 mile 364 yards of land.

A letter was read from Michael Cahalan, who wrote to the board stating that he had been in the habit of drawing daily from the standpipe in Liverpool-road, Ashfield, a load of 400 gallons of water, for which he had to pay 6d. to the key-holder. Recently he discovered that the standpipe was locked, and he was precluded from obtaining water. Several persons with keys in their possession were able to get water, and if the board would allow him a key he would be willing to pay 6d. per load to the board, or such other charge as they might see fit to make. The board decided to communicate with Ashfield Municipal Council and ask them to take charge of the standpipe. If they do not comply with this request, the water supply will be cut off.

Mr. HERBERT J. BEAUMONT, the Board's Assessor, reported that he had commenced the service of the rate notices for the current half-year. Having only just received the new city assessment, he had been unable to make a start with the city wards.

A report was submitted to the board showing that no fewer than 90 stables and dairies in the city and suburbs were being supplied with the board's water other than through meter. Discussion took place on this report, in which it was stated that probably many water consumers were unaware of the penal clauses of the act in regard to using water other than through meter under the supervision of the board's officials. Others too, there were who had in all probability received no notice of the regulations in operation regarding the use of water for horses and cattle. On the motion of Mr. Palmer, the board decided to place in the hands of the board's solicitor a list of the persons who had been served with the necessary notices for using water other than through meter, with instructions that he take what action he deemed to be necessary.

The Board's Engineer reported that it will be immediately necessary to import from England by mail steamer two 36in. sluice valves for reservoir outlets.

The Board's Engineer reported that some person or persons unknown had opened a valve 9in. in diameter, on a main formerly laid to give water to the Eveleigh running sheds, and thereby admitted the pumped water into the low-level mains wholesale. He would recommend that the Railway Commissioners be communicated with, inquiring whether any of their employees opened the valve, as one of the railway operatives was able to inform the turncock that the opening had been done for three or four days, although the water and sewerage offices had not been notified of this serious offence. The Railway Commissioners had been communicated with, and it was decided to await their report before the board took further action.

The Board decided to employ a boy to affix in all conspicuous situations where necessary painted devices indicating the position of fire plugs, hydrants, &c., as many plugs and hydrants in the city and suburbs were still unmarked.

The Board's Engineer reported that the new Paddington outlets had been so far completed as to admit of the water being turned on for the benefit of Darlinghurst and Surry Hills, but the valve-house only was approaching completion, though all the valves were set in position. The 24-inch trunk main in Begg-street, as well as the 20-inch in Glenmore-road and Liverpool-street, were also completed in a most satisfactory manner, and are now giving that relief to the above districts that they were designed for.

The Board's Engineer presented a further report for supplying Rushcutter Bay district with water, with various estimates of cost for different schemes. It was, however, decided to postpone the consideration of the report.

The following is a list of streets in which it is proposed to lay watermains as soon as pipes are available:—Six-inch mains, Pile-street, Marrickville, Livingstone-road to Wardell-road, 440yds., or 146 6-in. pipes. Four-inch Mains, Boronia-street, Redfern, Marriott-street to Young-street, 110yds.; Marriott-street, Redfern, Zamia-street to Cooper-street, 290yds.; Elizabeth-street, Ashfield, Wallace-street to Orpington-street, 154yds.; Railway-avenue, Marrickville, Sydenham-road to Marrickville-road, 330yds.; Mount-street, Randwick, from Belmore-road northwards, 260yds.; Highgate-street, Strathfield, Kingsland-street to Boulevard, 242yds.; Kingsland-road, Strathfield, Highgate street to Fairholm-road, 132yds.; Fairholm-road, Strathfield, Kingsland-road to Homebush-road, 484yds.; M'Laren-street, St. Leonards, Miller-street to Walker-street, 200yds.; total, 2202yds., or 734 4-in. pipes, at an estimated cost of 440yds. of 6-in., £220; 2202yds. of 4-in., £660 12s.; total, £880 12s.

Accounts amounting to £1931 0s. 11d. were examined and passed for payment.

CAN A PROTECTIONIST BE A LAND NATIONALIST?

The question "Can a Protectionist be a Land Nationalist upon the lines laid down in Progress and Poverty?" was debated last evening before the members of the city branch of the Land Nationalisation League. The meeting was held in the St. James's Parish Hall, and was presided over by Mr. E. F. Foxall, a vice-president. There was a considerable attendance, and the utterances, pro and con., were listened to with close attention. At a previous meeting of the league opinions were expressed by one member who declared himself to be a protectionist, and the debate that was held last night was the result of those remarks. Mr. W. J. M'Closkie, who took the affirmative view of the question, led off the debate, supporting his views with quotations from Henry George, Mill, and Spencer. At the close of the address the chairman called upon Mr. Garton to continue the discussion. That gentleman declined to debate the question in the form before the meeting. No man could be a believer in Henry George and be a protectionist. He had been a land nationalist for years; he had always supported a land tax, but he was a protectionist first. (Hear, hear.) It was submitted by a member in the meeting that, as the Georgian principle was the single tax, and as the protectionist policy was one of taxation, there was no ground for debate. If the wording of the question were altered to accommodate some of the protectionists, the result might be a good debate. "Can a protectionist believe in a land tax?" was the alteration he suggested. The suggestion was not adopted. The thread of the discussion was taken up by Mr. Harcus, who contended that there was no reason why those who believed in a protective policy should not advocate a tax upon land values. The argument of the land nationaliser was that such a man could not be a consistent member of the league which believed in a single tax only. Mr. Hamings, taking the same side, urged that if the protectionists voted for a tax upon land values they would be acting in a way which would never be realised in advocating protection merely—a way to benefit the labourers. A protectionist might be a land nationalist, on the lines of Wallace, said Mr. Cotton, who followed, but there was a difficulty in the way of his adopting the platform of Henry George. The real question was, "What is our platform as a society?" He could quite understand a man voting for anything to remedy the present condition of the colony, a condition which, considering our wonderful opportunities, was a disgrace. There was an urgent and bitter need for reform, but should they seek that reform by putting additional burdens upon the people, or by taking off the burdens that oppressed them? He was sure a protective tariff would not solve the question. The present rate of production was sufficient for requirements; the difficulty was its distribution. What possible good could there be in shifting the basis of production? The real trouble was the monopoly which prevented this just distribution. On the other hand, it was argued by a member who declared himself to be a protectionist, that he could not see why a protectionist should not be a land nationaliser in the country and a protectionist in the city. There was no reason why they should worship blindly at the throne of Henry George. A land tax was the necessary corollary of a protective tariff. He admitted universal protection would be universal barbarism; and went further, and said universal free trade would bring universal blessings. Mr. Hogarth having spoken in the affirmative, the debate was adjourned.

NATIONAL PORTRAIT GALLERY.

A public meeting to advocate the foundation of a national portrait gallery in connection with the National Art Gallery, was held at the Royal Society's rooms, yesterday afternoon. The Chief Justice presided, and seated on the platform with him were the Primate, Dr. Garran and Mr. Edmund Barton, Ms.L.C., and Mr. Alexander Oliver. The meeting was a small one, there being in all about 25 persons present.

The CHIEF JUSTICE said that anyone who considered the movement for which they had met must be of opinion that it would be a great advantage to the colony. Such men as Wentworth, Dr. Bland, Dr. Lang, and last, but by no means least, Mr. Dalley, should have a place in our National Portrait Gallery, and amongst living men he might mention Sir Alfred Stephen and Sir Henry Parkes.

The PRIMATE moved,—"That in the opinion of this meeting the time has arrived when an effort should be made to secure faithful and artistic portraits of men who have distinguished themselves by long and eminent services rendered to this colony." He said it seemed to him that the preservation of history was one of the most characteristic privileges of our humanity. In all departments of human science the historical method had vindicated itself as the true method. He was glad to see that the Sydney University was at last, through the munificence of Mr. Challis, about to establish a chair of history, and in that respect to take its place amongst all the other great universities of the world. But whilst he said this he did not shut his eyes to the fact that it was a far greater privilege to make history. The preservation of history here seemed to him a matter of essential importance to the wellbeing of the community to which they belonged. The biographical element in history was of the largest and highest importance, and the history of a country in a very true sense was the history of its great men. There was a very profound truth in hero worship. If we were to study the history of the country we must do it to a large extent through the preservation of the memories of its great men, and he could see no way so satisfactory for preserving these memories as that of the creation of a National Portrait Gallery. He was quite sure that there was no class of pictures of such deep human interest as a series of portraits of men who were worthy of portraiture. Holding these views, he had much pleasure in submitting the resolution. (Hear, hear).

The motion was carried unanimously.

Dr. GARRAN said there was an old English proverb which said that whatever was worth doing, was worth doing well. It had stood the test of time, and applied to the matter now in hand. Was it a desirable thing that generations to come should have available for them true, speaking portraits of the men who were the founders of the colony? If we did not value such portraits highly, it was certain posterity would; and if this thing were to be done, well it should be done in the lifetime of the men themselves. He begged to move,—"That the proper place in which to exhibit such portraits is, in the opinion of this meeting, the National Art Gallery, a building entirely supported by State endowment."

The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. ALEX. OLIVER moved,—"That the Government be requested to appoint a committee not exceeding five in number, who, together with the trustees of the National Art Gallery (not being professional artists), shall be charged with the duty of procuring the portraits referred to in the first resolution, as opportunities may be offered, and of providing for their public exhibition."

The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. R. BURDETT SMITH moved,—"That a deputation be appointed to wait on the Premier not later than next Friday, for the purpose of submitting to the Government the resolutions carried at this meeting, and of urging him to make annual provision, in such sum as Parliament may think fit to grant, for the foundation and maintenance of a National Portrait Gallery, and that the chairman of this meeting be empowered to convene the deputation.

The motion was carried unanimously.

The following gentlemen were appointed as the deputation, the convener having power to add other names:—The Chief Justice, Dr. Garran, Mr. John Lackey, and Mr. P. Gidley King, Ms.L.C., and Mr. R. Burdett Smith.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

PROTECTIONIST MEETING AT LEICHHARDT.

With the object of nourishing the policy of protection in Leichhardt a public meeting was held in the Town Hall there last evening, under the auspices of the Local Protection Association. Mr. W. Inglis was the chairman, and with him on the platform were Messrs. J. Osborne, W. Edmunds, M.L.A., E. H. Buchanan (Mayor of Balmain), J. Colbron, R. Howard, H. Taylor, John Buchanan, E. Taylor, and W. M. Burns, J.P. (ex-Mayor of Balmain). The audience numbered about 200 persons.

Mr. JOHN OSBORNE was the first speaker. He prefaced his remarks by some reference to the importance of politics, and then took up the subject of free trade and protection. He considered this subject would be best treated by dealing with the facts. He could not go with Sir Henry Parkes, who quoted England as an example to Australia. The conditions of the two countries were entirely dissimilar, but in America they had a country whose conditions were similar to those of Australia, and he preferred to take that country as an example. The facts that he would give them were to be found in Bancroft's History of America, or in any other good history. One hundred years ago the American republic, then only in the proto-plasmic stage, adopted a protective policy, and adopted it because the rulers of America felt that under the free-trade principle that then prevailed there was no probability of the people attaining to national distinction and developing the great resources of the country. Those men who established the protective policy in 1779 were amongst some of the greatest men that ever lived. (Applause.) In those days the United States of America were not much greater than what he would like to call the United States of Australia. (Applause.) This change to protection brought about a period of unexampled prosperity. In 1816 a Congress of free-traders was elected, and the result was the abolition of the protective policy and the substitution of free trade. Almost immediately after this depression came on, and men lost their employment, and numbers of unemployed were found walking about the streets of New York and other cities of the United States. And it was on record that the great Henry Clay testified that in consequence of the re-introduction of the free-trade policy America depreciated to the extent of 50 per cent. In 1824 the people of the United States felt that they were going to the bad under the free-trade policy, and they re-established protection. The result was that the factories were re-opened, that business prospered, that the national debt began to be reduced, that there was plenty of money in the national exchequer, and prosperity all over the land. This went on till 1832, when free trade came back again and with the same effects as before. In 1842 protection was once more introduced, with the result of renewed prosperity. In 1846 free trade was brought in again, and again the country suffered from depression. Trade became fluctuating and uncertain, and in 1861 free trade was finally hurled from the land and protection was again established, and had lasted to the present day. (Loud applause.) Since then the United States had passed through one of the greatest wars the world had seen, but the country had gone ahead by leaps and bounds under protection, and now stood as the richest and most prosperous country in the world and that the world had ever known. The same experience was had in the dominion of Canada, which was now a most proserous country under protection. Then Victoria was an example of prosperity under protection. New South Wales was three times as large as Victoria, had resources far in excess of hers, and with all these natural advantages freetraders were only able to boast that this colony was on an equality with Victoria. This colony should have a population three times as large as that of Victoria, and should be three times as wealthy. (Applause.) There was a general election going on in Victoria now, but there was no section of the working men there calling out for free trade. (Applause.) What they wanted was a protectionist Government instead of a coalition Government. (Applause.) He contended that the protective duties did not fall on the working classes either in Victoria or America, and that the working classes in those countries felt no oppression whatever in this respect. Having dealt with this subject at some length, Mr. Osborne moved—"That, in the opinion of this meeting, the time has arrived when measures should be adopted to develop the resources of the colony, and give employment to our people." (Applause.)

Mr. WALTER EDMUNDS, M.L.A., second the motion, and delivered an eloquent address on the advantages of protection. Free trade, he said, regarded the whole of the world as equal; free trade was merely an ideal theory, and if true at all would only be true with the whole world on an equality. Protection did not tend to reduce wages, for the rate of wages depended on the amount of employment. Wages would be kept up by organisations amongst the working men; but free trade rendered such organisations impossible. He ridiculed the idea of calling the free-trade banner the banner of freedom, and concluded amidst very warm applause.

The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. BUCHANAN, the Mayor of Balmain, proposed a vote of thanks to Messrs. Osborne and Edmunds for their addresses—a motion which was seconded by Mr. CALBRON, and carried by acclamation.

THE PETERSHAM ART CLASSES.

The annual distribution of awards in connection with the art classes held at Petersham, under the supervision of the Board of Technical Education, took place at All Saints' Schoolroom, Crystal-street, Petersham, on Monday evening. The building was crowded. Mr. John Wheeler, M.L.A., presided. Mr. Wheeler considered the large attendance an evidence of the interest taken by the people of Petersham in the acquisition of knowledge relating to the arts and sciences. The large attendance of children showed great zeal, while that of the adults was evidence of the parents' good wishes and interest. Apart from the utility of the knowledge the youth were acquiring, the mental training was of incalculable advantage. In the classes there the young people could be trained in the rudiments of art and science, and in Sydney they had a grand opportunity of perfecting themselves. He was glad to notice their success, which he trusted would increase in the future. Mr. W. J. Thomas, art master, read the annual report, which showed that the classes were established in the Town Hall in October, 1885. By the instrumentality of Mr. Edmunds, the present premises were subsequently engaged. The attendance for the 1885 quarter was 26. For the four quarters of 1886, 108 students were enrolled; for 1887, 161; for 1888, 210. In view of these eminently satisfactory results it would become necessary for the Board of Technical Education, or the local corporation, to secure premises more suitable to the requirements at an early date. The number of schools of arts in the colony was large; but the name had been misapplied, in fact we had no art schools in the colony, and it did appear that the work was falling upon the Board of Technical Education. During 1888 25 students passed the board's examination, as against 30 in 1887, and 16 in 1886. The small decrease was in consequence of the subjects in which the students passed being much higher than previously. Seventeen exhibits were sent to the Melbourne Exhibition. Mr. W. H. Edmunds reviewed the progress of technical education and claimed that the action of the Trades' and Labour Council, in bringing pressure to bear upon the Government when the system was neglected, should be remembered. He trusted that they would yet hear of a prize known as the Mayor's prize. (Applause.) At this stage the Mayor left, to attend another meeting, and gave £2 2s. towards the prize fund.

Mr. John Henderson having taken the chair, Mr. Edward Dowling, secretary of the Board of Technical Education, addressed those present. It had recently been his privilege to visit the old country. When there he was struck with the progress made in England, Ireland, and Scotland in science and art, every little town and village had its class under the Technical Education Board. If in Australia the people did not advance as the mother-land was advancing, they would soon have to take a back seat. The Australian people did not want to be for ever "hewers of wood and drawers of water." (Applause.) Their motto was "Advance, Australia"—(applause) and they must keep pace with the times. (Hear, hear.) It was sometimes thought that technical education was a thing of the past, but that was a mistake. In the year 1833 a number of Scotch mechanics were brought to this colony by the late Revs. Dr. Lang and Henry Carmichael, and by these men were erected a number of the splendid buildings to be seen in Sydney to this day. When in Edinburgh he viewed with a sense of admiration the noble structures in modern Athens, and he saw at once where the Scotch mechanics in Sydney received their training. When they looked upon the splendid buildings which had given way to the huts of the early days of the colony, they ought to remember with gratitude the names of Dr. Lang and other pioneers. (Applause.) It was easy to travel by road and rail, and to mark with pride the progress of our civilisation, but in doing so they should not forget the men who had borne the burden and heat of the day. (Hear, hear.) Petersham had progressed apace of the times. He might say he had repeatedly played cricket on paddocks which now teemed with houses. When it was proposed to establish art classes at Petersham, people "threw cold water" on the idea, saying that the lads there were larrikins, and that those who did not come within that category were only fit for football and cricket. (Laughter). Look at the result. (Applause.) Mr. J. H. Harris also addressed the meeting. The following received awards, in addition to which several free studentships were presented, available for one year:—General progress, Noble Carter, George Daniels, Miss F Flashman; general progressive work, Miss Mary Gent; elementary perspective, David Johnstone; shaded work from cast, Mr. A. Woodhead; shaded ornaments, Frank Shenstone; general elementary progress, David Lorimer; punctual and regular attendance, Misses L. Rainsford, M. Gent, Cooper; freehand progress, Walter Rayment; ornament from cast, Hubert Gardiner; mechanical drawing, E. A. Mowle. In addition to the above awards, a number of prizes awarded at the Sydney examination were presented.

PROPOSED RAILWAY FROM PARRAMATTA TO CASTLE HILL.

A large and representative meeting was held in the Church of England schoolroom, Castle Hill, last night, to take steps to urge on the proposal to construct a railway line from Parramatta to Castle Hill and Dural. Mr. G. T. Hunt, president of the Railway League, occupied the chair, and on the platform were Messrs. Hugh Taylor, John Nobbs, R. A. Ritchie, and J. R. Linsley, Ms.L.A. Apologies were read from Mr. Frank Farnell, M.L.A., and Mr. R. Hardie, expressing their full sympathy with the object of the meeting. A resolution, appointing a large and influential deputation to wait upon Sir Henry Parkes to urge the construction of this national and reproductive work, was moved by the chairman, and supported by Messrs. Nobbs, Ritchie, Linsley, and Taylor, and carried unanimously. Each speaker urged the residents of the district to agitate until the proposal was favourably entertained and acted upon. Mr. Linsley stated that Sir Henry Parkes had expressed himself personally in favour of the line, and that he had not had time to read the Commissioners' report upon it. The resolution was carried unanimously, and votes of thanks to the members of Parliament and the chairman, and cheers for free trade brought the meeting to a close.

A preliminary meeting of freetraders was held at the School of arts, Ashfield, last evening, for the purpose of taking steps to inaugurate a Free-trade and Liberal Associations. There was a large attendance. A series of resolutions was adopted, to be submitted to a public meeting to be held on Friday next, at which Sir Henry Parkes, Mr. G. H. Reid, and others have been invited to speak. A selection of officers was also decided upon.

On Thursday evening last the thirty-sixth meeting of the Articled Clerks' Association was held in St. James's Parish Hall, Phillip-street. The meeting took the form of a mock trial, and in addition to causing considerable amusement, was the means of affording to those who took part some instruction in the practice involved in a regular case at law; the whole of the proceedings being carried out according to the rules of the Supreme Court. The subject of the trial was an action for breach of promise of marriage, the role of plaintiff being sustained by Mr. O. J. Phillips, and that of defendant by Mr. F. R. Cowper, the witnesses were represented by Messrs. D. L. Aitken, H. Hale, O. E. Norris, and A Ross, for the plaintiff, and by Messrs. J. Howarth, R. B. Parry, H. A. Russell, and Herbert Brown, for the defendant. Mr. E. P. Field, barrister-at-law, filled the position of judge, and Messrs. A. Hale, and M. J. Brown appeared as counsel for the plaintiff, instructed by Messrs. Boyce and Robertson. Messrs. R. G. Martin, and L. C. Ford, instructed by Messrs. Ash and Dawson, appeared in a similar capacity for defendant.

At a large meeting of the Liverpool Free-trade Association, held on Saturday evening, at the Liverpool Town Hall, to adopt rules, &c., the objects of the association were unanimously accepted as follows:—"To maintain freedom of trade and to oppose, by all constitutional means, any attempt to benefit one part of the community to the detriment of the other, and to uphold the rights and liberties of the people."

The quarterly meeting of the No. 9 Lodge, L. O. L., was held at Protestant Hall, Myrtle-street, W. M. Bro. J. Anderson in the chair. After the usual routine of business, the lodge held a social amongst the members, and after justice had been done to the good things provided some excellent songs were rendered, the following being the vocalists. Bros. T. Fellew and Reden, duet; Bro. Morgan, sang the comic song, "Killaloo;" Bro. T. Fellew, "The Little Error;" a recitation was given by Bro. T. Cartledge.

A meeting of members of the Australian Mutual Provident Society opposed to the appropriation of the funds of the society for pensions to their employees was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening. Mr. John Bridge, J.P., was voted to the chair. Messrs. M'Elhone, John Wearne, R. Broughton, S. B. Redgate and the chairman spoke pointing out the disadvantages the members in the country districts and adjoining colonies laboured under in not being able to obtain ballot papers, which deprived them of their votes, and in consequence only about one-fourth of the members could exercise their right to vote. Several subscriptions to the defence fund were handed in, and it was resolved that the committee should continue its existence to watch over the interests of the society. The secretary, Mr. S. B. Redgate, was requested to convene a meeting at any time he might think desirable. A resolution conveying the thanks of the meeting was carried unanimously to Mr. M'Elhone for instituting and carrying to a conclusion the equity suit M'Elhone v. A. M. P. Society.

A preliminary free-trade meeting was held on Monday evening in the Redfern Town Hall, at which 70 residents of the electorate were present. Mr. Berry occupied the chair, and on the platform were Aldermen Williams, Anderson, and Beveridge, and Messrs. Pulsford, Stephen, Wade, and Haynes. Apologies were read from Hon. J. Sutherland, Alderman H. Ramsay, (North Botany). Messrs. W. White, West, Harris, J. Ralph, and Henderson. It was carried unanimously that a branch free-trade association should be formed in the Redfern electorate. After which fifty-two residents enrolled themselves. Those present formed themselves into a committee.

THE SINGLE TAX OR LAND NATIONALIST LEAGUE AND THE CHINAMEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I take it that the basis on which the Single Tax League is formed is the doctrine of Henry George, "That the land is the free gift of the Creator to man, and therefore no individual has a right to property in land." "That, as land is not created or produced by the labour of any individual, therefore property in land by an individual is a robbery of the landless majority by the landed minority." Suppose for the sake of argument, we accept this as absolutely true, does it not follow that if no individual can with justice hold property in land, neither can any company, corporation, or syndicate hold such property, as the rights of a company, corporation, or syndicate cannot be greater or different from the united rights of the individuals forming such company, corporation, or syndicate, and the multiplication of nothing, no matter how far carried, still amounts to nothing. If no company, corporation, or syndicate can hold property in land, then no community or nation can hold property in land as a community or nation is only a larger corporation associated for mutual interest. The land belongs to the human race, and the rights of every individual born into the world are equal and identical with the rights of every other individual. Now I would ask does it not follow from this that the Chinamen have a right to the land of Australia equal and identical with the right of Australians? The single tax theorists are nothing if not logical. Are they prepared to accept in full, and act on the logical conclusion to be derived from their own doctrine? If they are, of course they get rid of the difficulty so often pointed out, that a property in land devised to the landholder by the Government as representing the community must be a good and indefeasible title; but they raise a still greater difficulty, which would stop progress and civilisation, and make all Government impossible. I would very much like to hear from the exponents of the new theory on this point.

I am, &c. W. E. ABBOTT.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

Those interested should bear in mind that all horses left in the H. R. C. Rowley Mile and Autumn Handicap after 4 p.m. to-day will be deemed acceptors, and incur the usual liabilities.

Nominations for the leading events to be run for at the annual meeting of the Narrandera Turf Club close to-morrow afternoon.

The following scratchings were notified yesterday in connection with the autumn meeting of the Hawkesbury Race Club: Rowley Mile: Oxenham, Esperance, Soldier's Wind, Stockwell. Autumn Handicap: May Queen, Esperance, Stockwell. All engagements: Cardigan, Faith, Locksley. Claret Stakes: Hazley Lea colt.

Faith was struck out of all A. J. C. autumn engagements yesterday.

Liverpool race meeting was granted registration by the A. J. C. yesterday.

Owners of trotting stock, ponies, and galloways should not forget that the programme issued by the Sydney Driving Park Club, Limited, for the meeting which has been fixed for the 6th proximo demands attention to-morrow, for at 4 p.m. entries close with the secretary, Mr. F. R. Motley, for the following events:—Handicap Pony Race, 13 hands and under, of 10 sovs., 4 furlongs; Selling Race of 25 sovs., w.f.a., winner to be sold for 30 sovs., selling allowances, 4 furlongs; Handicap Pony Race, 13.2 and under, of 20 sovs., 4 furlongs; Moore Park Handicap, 14.2 and under, of 30 sovs., 1 mile and a furlong; Time Handicap Trot of 50 sovs., second horse to receive 10 sovs. from the prize, 2 miles; Handicap Pony Race, 14 hands and under, of 25 sovs., 4 furlongs; and Handicap Hurdle Race, 14.2 and under, of 40 sovs., second horse to receive 5 sovs. from the prize, about 1¼ mile. All nominations must be accompanied by the entrance fee of 1 sov., and further particulars can be seen in our advertising columns.

For the convenience of those who nominate for the S. D. P. C. Handicap Hurdle Race several brushed hurdles will be fixed on the inner track at Moore Park in the course of a few days, so as to enable them to school the horses previous to the meeting.

The secretary of the Canterbury Park Racing Club announces in our business columns that the new trotting track at Canterbury is completed, and will be opened for training purposes on Monday next. The Canterbury Park proprietary have spared no expense in the formation of the track, which is, without exception, the best of the kind in the colony, and will be materially improved by use.

The following scratchings have been posted at the office of the Moorefield Racing Club in connection with the meeting which takes place on Saturday next:—Tramway Handicap: Hazel. Kogarah Stakes: Audacious. Moorefield Handicap: Rosebud II., Capricornus. Stewards' Mile: Wanda II.

The St. Marys Jockey Club hold a meeting to-day, and the metropolitan sportsmen who intend taking part in the reunion will, in addition to the ordinary traffic, be accommodated with a special train, which leaves Redfern at 11.50 a.m., and starts on the return trip from St. Marys after the last race, stopping at the principal stations on the outward and return journeys.

Monaghan was astir early as usual yesterday morning, and after some of the younger members of the team had done some spurting on the course proper, Glen Elgin, Tuscarora, and Pentagon each put in a fast mile, while Cimaron worked steadily. Mitre had more to say than Parthenia over a smartly run six furlongs, and Soldier's Wind went at an average pace on the inside track. Joe Cook treated Yabba to a strong mile and a quarter, which he wound up nicely with Fenella. Party and another accomplished a serviceable once round, and the former is coming on well. Little Birnie, Test, and another rattled along for five furlongs, the former showing to advantage; while Lonely went through a satisfactory solo task. Lady Marion, All Sorts, and Phaon were spun along for a mile, and the latter seemed to have the best of it. The much-improved Scatterfield ran a strong mile; and Euclid went well. Fast Asleep and Home Rule performed their usual tasks; and Hugo and Artisan did a useful gallop. Lamond treated Pearlshell, Braemer, and Pastmaster to fair work, and the latter ran a fast six furlongs. Poet seemed to have the other youngsters of the string in trouble at the end of a fast three-quarters of a mile. Little Lady and Sophy covered five furlongs pretty smartly, and Blucher, Maggie, Titus, and Wallaby also went through their studies in a satisfactory manner. Duggan sent Annua a pretty fast mile, and Seagull and another ran a fast three-quarters of a mile. Raynor sent the much-improved Meloe a strong once round; while The Australian Peer did a couple of turns on the inside track. Theorist and Wycombe were treated to a couple of useful turns, and Touchstone and Colenso went the same journey, but at an improved pace. T. Payten has his numerous string in very good trim; and, after cantering, Cranbrook and Plutarch broke away for a solid once round. Ianthe and Escort cast a fast five furlongs behind, and the latter performed especially well. Spice cantered, and so did Volley; while Dreadnought and Sinecure ran a fast five furlongs. Aberorn and Carlyon cantered and brushed home at a good pace on close terms. Among the others that worked were Willeroo, Re, Clogs, Here's Luck, Miss Alice, Jeremy Diddler, Minstrel Boy, Paddy, Too Soon, Fernandez, Volcano, Kiora, Eclipse, and Steel Arrow. By the way, the latter has left Fielder's stable, and will in future be trained by J. Noud, who has been somewhat successful of late.

A meeting of the members of the newly-formed Wingecarribee District Turf Club was held at Moss Vale on the 23rd instant, when the principal business to be transacted was the appointment of office-bearers for the current year, to arrange a programme, and fix the date of the inaugural meeting, and make other necessary arrangements. Mr. J. S. Badgery (president) occupied the chair. It was decided to hold the first race meeting on May 15, and a sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. P. H. Throsby, S. Miller, and J. Cullen, was appointed to report on the cost of fencing in a saddling paddock half an acre in extent. The election of office-bearers resulted as follows:—Judge, Mr. P. H. Throsby, J.P.; starter, Mr. A. D. Badgery, J.P.; clerk of the course, Mr. G. P. Gilbert; clerk of the scales, Mr. W. Houston; stewards, Messrs. S. Miller, H. E. Lord, F. Badgery, T. Ferguson, T. W. Lackey, J.P., and Mr. Rice. A six-event programme, with £150 added money, was adopted for the coming meeting, and it was resolved that the club should be registered under the A. J. C. rules, and that Mr. Scarr be requested to act as handicapper.

The Brushgrove (Clarence River) sportsmen are in the field with a six-event programme, to be played out on the new course on the Queen's Birthday, when over £70 will be distributed in stakes.

The annual races under the management of the Monaro Jockey Club took place on the 20th and 21st instant and were favoured by fine weather, though the high wind and dust militated against the comfort of the visitors. Only three faced the starter for the Opening Handicap, once round, and Mr. W. Miller's Lena, 8st. 6lb., had no trouble in disposing of Pathfinder, 9st., and Nellie Grey, 6st. 12lb. On the second day Lena further distinguished herself by securing the Publicans' Purse, ¾ mile, with 9st. 10lb. in the saddle, from Moor, 6st. 10lb., Ivy Queen, 6st. 7lb., and five others; and later on she followed up her success in the Selling Race, 1¼ mile, which, with 8st. up, she won from her only contestant, Recovery, 9st. 2lb. Mr. Miller was also fortunate in appropriating the two leading events with his grey gelding Jack, who carried 8st. 8lb. in the Jockey Club Handicap, and easily defeated Opera, 6st., Goldleaf, 7st. 6lb., and Pathfinder, 7st.; while, with 8st. 10lb. up, he came home in front of Flying Fish, 6st. 5lb., Pathfinder, 7st. 2lb., and Goldleaf, 7st. 8lb., in the Cooma Town Plate, 1½ mile. After a capital contest Mr. W. Wallace's Hurricane, 10st. 13lb., won the Corinthian Race, once round, from Asphodel 10st. 13lb., Greytail, 10st. 13lb., and three others. Mr. M. Shanley's Flying Fish, 8st. 2lb., never left the issue of the Cooma Handicap, 1 mile, in doubt, beating Pathfinder, 9st., Cardiff, 9st. 7lb., and Nellie Grey, 6st. 12lb., hard held. The Trotting Distance Handicap, twice round the course, brought out four competitors, and Mr. Peisley's Ned, who started from scratch, was never headed, and won by 50 yards from Viola and Freetrader, each 350 yards behind scratch. The Corinthian Race Handicap, 1½ mile, fell to Mr. P. Crimmins' Union, 10st., after a good finish with Mr. E. H. Harnett's Anembo, 10st. 11lb.; and the Forced Handicap, 1½ mile, was annexed by Mr. F. Pooley's Pathfinder, 7st. 3lb., with Gold Leaf, 6st. 12lb., and Opera, 7st. 1lb., in the other places. At the settling the sum of £259 was paid away in prizes, of which Mr. W. Miller received £164 5s.; Mr. M. Shanley, £39 5s.; Mr. F. Pooley, £16; Mr. P. Crimmins, £19 10s.; and Mr. G. Peisley, £10. The meeting resulted in a net profit of £60 to the club.

A most successful and enjoyable reunion was held at Coraki on the 16th instant, under the auspices of the local Amateur Turf Club. The gathering took place on the prettily-situated racecourse near the township, and the handicappers, Messrs. D. M'Phee and E. M'Maugh, were very happy in estimating the qualities of the horses engaged, the finishes having been close and interesting. The proceedings opened with the Trial Stakes, 1 mile, for which 13 started, and which was won by Mr. C. Page's br m Cymbal, by Captivator, who carried 8st. 11lb., and was followed home by Charon, 8st. 11lb., and Blaithwaite, 8st. 6lb., heads separating the placed horses, and the distance was covered in 1 minute 53½ seconds. A field of 11 faced the flag for the Auction Stakes, 1 mile, for which Mr. J. Carroll's gelding Spondulix, by Fernhill, 8st. 12lb., was in most request, and he repaid the confidence of his party by winning easily from Slowboy, 8st. 12lb., and Sunlight, 8st. 12lb., in 1 minute 54½ seconds. The Coraki Amateur Turf Club Handicap, 1½ mile, attracted eight competitors. Mr. J. Williams's gelding Waverley, by Waverley, 7st., divided the honours of favouritism with Jessie, 7st. 12lb.; but Waverley and Maud, 8st. 12lb., joined issue at the turn, and a great race ensued, ending in a victory for the former, who only got home by a bare head, the journey having occupied 2 minutes 46 seconds. Mr. T. J. Brandon's Charon, a son of Captivator, with 9st. 12lb. in the saddle, secured the Members' Gift, 1 mile, from a field of half-a-dozen, with Little Demon, 8st. 10lb, and Azalia, 10st. 10lb., to see him home. The Pony Race, three-quarter mile, fell to Mr. J. O'Connor's Firefly, who defeated seven others in 1 minute 27½ seconds. The meeting was brought to a close with the Farewell Handicap, 1 mile and 1 furlong, for which a baker's dozen were saddled up, and the winner turned up in Mr. J. Jordan's Jessie, by Italian, 8st., who cut out the distance in 2 minutes 3 seconds, with Waverley, 7st. 10lb., half a head away second, and three lengths in advance of Freedom, 8st. 9lb. The sum of £104 10s. was paid over in prizes during the evening.

At the Sedgefield races on the 21st instant, the Flying Handicap, 6 furlongs, and Farewell Handicap, 6 furlongs, were won by Mr. J. Graham's Westbrook, who carried 9st. 3lb. and 10st. 7lb. respectively; Mr. H. Brooker's Stranger, 8st. 11lb., was victorious in the Maiden Plate, 6 furlongs; and Mr. H. Kenny's Milton, 11st. 7lb., was successful in the Sedgefield Handicap, 1 mile.

Our Auckland correspondent telegraphs that the racehorse Sultan has broken down, and will not go to Sydney.

FOOTBALL.

The annual meeting of the Rosedale Club was held on Tuesday evening, at the Redfern Town Hall. Mr. G. Braund occupied the chair, there being a large attendance of members. The annual report stated that during the past season the club gained the second place in the list of seniors; the first 15 played 11 matches, of which eight were won, two lost, and one drawn; the second 15 played eight matches, three were won, three drawn, and two lost; owing to the international and intercolonial matches, the club was compelled to remain idle for no less than eight Saturdays. The thanks of the club are due to the Redfern Council for allowing the use of the Redfern Park for matches. At the last meeting of the union one of the club's delegates pointed out that they had not been fairly treated in the selection of teams for representative matches. This action had a satisfactory result. As far as was known, club football would not in any way be interfered with this season by visiting teams, but it was the intention of the union to send a team to Queensland, and it was hoped that members would endeavour to gain places in it. The balance-sheet showed a small credit. The report and balance-sheet were adopted. The following office bearers were elected:—President, Alderman J. Crowe; vice-presidents, Messrs. J. Coyle, J. B. Black, J. M'Mahon; secretary, Mr. J. Endicott; assistant secretary, Mr. R. Lewis; treasurer, Mr. G. Braund; general committee, Messrs. T. Hanley, J. M'Mahon, D. Honniball; selection committee first 15, Messrs. J. M'Mahon, T. Hanley, and J. B. Black; second 15, Messrs. D. Honniball, W. Honniball, and R. Lewis; delegates to the union, Messrs. G. Braund and J. Endicott; captain of first 15, Mr. J. M'Mahon; second 15, Mr. D. Honniball. A vote of condolence was passed to Mrs. Black on the death of her husband, one of the vice-presidents of the club. A vote of thanks was accorded the Redfern Council for the use of the park for football matches. It was decided to play the Advance Club, at Newcastle, on May 25, and the Maitland Club, at West Maitland, on the Queen's Birthday. A vote of thanks to the chairman then closed the meeting.

COURSING.

A meeting of the committee of the New South Wales Coursing Club was held on Tuesday at Messrs. Clark and Rowley's office. Mr. Morgan occupied the chair. The report of the sub-committee respecting the appointment of Mr. Gatenby as judge was confirmed. The following new members were elected:—Messrs. C. C. Budock, E. A. Park, G. D. Woods, W. Nixon, T. Lanning, Lord St. Leonards, R. Pollard, H. James, J. Taylor, J. Higgins, G. Cobcroft, J. Y. Mills, C. Watson, J. W. Couper, and E. M'Donald. The meeting then adjourned.

The annual meeting of the Kent Brewery Coursing Club was held on Tuesday evening at the Crown Hotel, Bank-street, Chippendale. Mr. J. Lawson occupied the chair. The annual report stated that 20 hares had been placed on the ground at Eridge Park, and it was expected that the ensuing sport would recoup the committee for the outlay. It was anticipated that during the season satisfactory arrangements would be made for increased sport. The balance-sheet showed a credit of £27 17s. 11d. The report and balance-sheet were adopted. The following office-bearers were appointed:—President, Mr. R. L. Tooth; vice-presidents, Messrs. W. B. Mitchell and A. E. Tooth; committee, Messrs. Lawson, Jacombs, Rugg, J. Gannon, Moles, and Mahoney; secretary, Mr. H. Skipper; treasurer, Mr. J. Fogg. The meeting then adjourned.

PEDESTRIANISM.

The acceptances for the Sir Joseph Banks Handicap closed with the large number of 145 runners. The drawing for divisions for the first and second days' running, will take place at the committee rooms this morning at 10.30. There has been a large amount of speculation over the event, Furlong being first favourite at 10 to 8. F. Nowland, on the 23 yards, was backed yesterday for £5000, at an average of 1000 to 40. The handicap will be run next Monday and Wednesday, and the final day will be Saturday, April 6. The following are the non-acceptors:—

J. M'Garrigal, R. D. Layton, C. E. Warn, J. A. Parker, T. Liddle, W. Kennedy, W. Pearson, J. Connor, A. R. Hume, G. N. Warn, J. M. Yates, G. A. Studdart, F. Rogers, J. Malschi, G. Bowen, J. Clarke, E. Hillyard, J. F. Byrne (Collector), W. Widders, M. J. Learnihan, S. Bowen, W. C. Allen, J. J. Gately, T. Geddes, W. J. Flanagan, A. R. Tewkesbury, S. E. Buchanan, R. W. Turner, J. T. Keane, T. M. M'William, L. Burns, J. Chalmers, H. O. Pursehouse, T. E. Bond, J. T. Bliss, W. Collier, T. Collins, D. M. Thomas, W. J. Willard, J. H. Williams.

The running of Slowgrove's Handicap will be concluded this afternoon.

Nominations for the Carrington Easter Handicap will not close until 6 p.m. on Saturday, the 30th instant.

AQUATICS.

SYDNEY AMATEUR SAILING CLUB.

A general meeting of the members of the Sydney Amateur Sailing Club was held last evening, at the Exchange Hotel. Mr. P. R. Pedley, vice-commodore, occupied the chair, in the absence of Mr. T. Marshall, commodore. The attendance was only moderate. The chairman, made several presentations, by cheques, to the owners of successful boats in the many club contests which have taken place during the season. A discussion ensued as to what way the season should close, and it was resolved that a dinner be held down the harbour on Saturday, April 13, a committee to make all necessary arrangements. As regards the Consolation Race, to take place next Saturday, it was resolved that any boat can compete that has not won a race this season. The following were the prize-winners:—Genesta, Mr. E. Cameron; Irex, Mr. N. A. Johnson; Xarifa, Mr. H. H. Pickering; Varuna, Mr. W. Paul; Ellis, Mr. J. M'Murtrie. The total amount paid away was £49. Several owners, however, were not present to receive their respective amounts.

The boat which we referred to in Saturday's issue as having arrived by the R.M.S. Ormuz, has, on personal inspection and further inquiry, been found to be the Nellie, owned by Messrs. N. and G. Clark, of the Clyde, who were passengers by the Ormuz. She is 15ft. overall, and the same length on the load waterline. Her beam is 5ft. 6in., draws 4ft. 6in. of water, and has 1¼ ton of lead on her keel. She is about three-quarters decked. The rudder head goes out 18in. or 2ft. from the stern, on account of the rake in the stern-post, the tuck being plumb with the water. She is built of all-length planks, which have a cotton wick between each, instead of being caulked. She carries a lug mainsail and jib, the mast being 22ft. from the deck, the boom 19ft., and the bowsprit 9ft. out-board. She was built by Fyfe, of Fairlie, about two and a-half years' ago; and has beaten all the boats of her class built by Watson. She is said to be 5 minutes' faster in a twelve-mile course, than any other boat of her class on the Clyde. The first season she raced, out of 22 contests she secured 18 first prizes. She has had several spins in the harbour this week, and seems to go to windward somewhat better than our boats, but on a run would not have much show with them. Her owners intend leaving for England by the R.M.S. Victoria in May.

The following entries have been received for the Maiden Double Sculls Open Race at the East Sydney Rowing Club's regatta, to be held on Saturday next:—Seven club crews, namely—Mercantile: C. T. Morath, Geo. Warre; Leichhardt: H. Richards, C. C. Marshall; North Shore: J. Thomson, A. Thomson; Parramatta: L. Wickham, A. Davey; Balmain: F. Hooker, S. J. Porter; Manly: G. E. Easies, J. Dorward; East Sydney: E. W. Nash, W. E. Jacobs. This entry should produce a great struggle, and the event will no doubt be hotly contested by the Mercantile, East Sydney, and North Shore crews. For the other races 40 members are in training, which has the effect of making the clubhouse very lively. The steamer Birkenhead will act as flagship and follow the races, leaving Cowper Wharf at 2.30 and 3 p.m.

The sailing race in connection with the Manly Rowing Club Regatta was the only item of the programme which took place on Saturday. The committee, deeming the weather too threatening to start the rowing events, decided to leave them over until Saturday, April 6th. The competitors for the sailing race were: Frolic, scratch, Thetis, 1m., Haidee, Phyllis, Lizzie, 5m., Zephyr, and The Gift, 10m. The course was from a line between starter's boat and R. S. Y. S. buoy, round the Lightship and Sow and Pigs, back round the buoy at Manly, thence round Lightship again, and back to starter's boat. At the start the light wind favoured the lighter boats, The Gift and Lizzie taking command, but when out in the breeze the Haidee soon drew on the leaders, and before the Lightship was rounded had established a long lead, which she increased to the finish, thus scoring an easy win. The Thetis secured second place, with The Gift third. The winner was sailed by Mr. C. Warburton, the Thetis by Mr. W. Farmer, and The Gift by Mr. E. Towns, whilst the other boats were piloted by their respective owners. Mr. M. G. Anslow officiated as starter and timekeeper, and discharged the duties with all satisfaction.

LAWN TENNIS.

A match was played on Saturday last between the A teams of the Devonshire and Stanmore clubs on the courts of the latter, with the result that the Devonshire Club gained a decisive victory. The following are the scores:—

DEVONSHIRE.		STANMORE.
J. M'Phie and Skinner	v.	Russell and Lake ...	4-6
J. M'Phie and Brennand	v.	Cooper and Watson...	6-1
Skinner and Brennand	v.	Russell and Lake ...	7-7
Skinner and J. M'Phie	v.	Cooper and Watson...	6-1
Skinner and J. M'Phie	v.	Russell and Lake ...	6-2
Skinner and Brennand	v.	Cooper and Watson...	6-3
J. M'Phie and Brennand	v.	Russell and Lake ...	6-3
J. M'Phie and Skinner	v.	Cooper and Watson ...	6-3

Result.—Devonshire, 6 sets, 47 games; Stanmore, 1 set 26 games.

On Saturday last a match was played between the B teams of the Devonshire and Stanmore Clubs on the courts of the former, and it resulted in a victory for the Devonshire Club by 13 sets 102 games to 5 sets 65 games.

AMUSEMENTS.

SYDNEY LIEDERTAFEL CONCERT.

A more than usually agreeable concert was given last evening at the Exhibition Building, by the Sydney Liedertafel Society. By way of signalising the entry upon a new year—the eighth—the committee arranged the concert somewhat upon a new plan, and announced the same as a grand "promenade" concert. However, the style of entertainment might have been almost better described by the term "social," for the comfortable seating arrangements and the various tables set about the hall for the accommodation of groups and parties, left the promenade comparatively unneeded, as people preferred, for the most part, to enjoy the quiet company of their friends. It is, therefore, only natural that such agreeable conditions rendered the concert especially enjoyable, for since even indifferent music has a certain charm amid social surroundings, so in the case of good music the influence of a pleasurable social atmosphere could hardly fail to make the good seem almost more than good. The committee is to be commended for this new departure, and as the audience seemed well pleased with the successful efforts of the genial secretary, Mr. A. Edward Harper, to secure their comfort, it may be taken for granted that increased popularity of the society will be the outcome of last evening's experiment.

The society, as is proper, had the largest part of the programme to itself, performing no less than six part songs, besides the orchestral overture with which the concert commenced. The overture on this occasion was Gurlitt's "Marionetten," a work which is chaste in style, though light in character, and it was given with commendable effect under the leadership of Mr. Delany, the society's conductor, who, of course, wielded the baton also in the choral numbers. Adolphe Adam's "Comrades in Arms" was the first chorus, and was admirably rendered in every respect, save that the pianissimo passages were over-delicate for the large building in which the concert was given. Elsasser's vocal arrangement of Strauss's once popular "Blue-Danube" valse came next, and the performance was so warmly applauded that it may be assumed that the public has not even yet tired of its strains. A very charming though somewhat severe part-song by Abt, entitled "Vineta," was heard later on, and gained well-deserved notice; a larger share, however, being given to a new and clever setting of "A wet sheet and a flowing sea," by C. Harford Lloyd, with which it was coupled. Beschnitt's serenade, "Slumber soft," was perhaps the best song of all the choral items, and had the advantage of the solo part being admirably rendered by Mr. L. G. A. Cork. By way of finale was given Suppé's "Fatinitza" March, which, of course, gained general applause, this perhaps being intensified by reason of the effect of the electric-drums erected for the occasion under the superintendence of Mr. Kopsch, the Government electrician. In addition to the members of the society, there were vocal solos by Signor Dimitresco and Madame Lablache, a duet by both artists, and piano solo by M. Kowalski. Signor Dimitresco gained a well-marked encore for Flotow's "M'appari" (from "Martha"), although he did not sing therein as successfully as in opera, where his fine dramatic talents also are brought into action, but his "La Donna e Mobile," which was the encore contribution, was a far better exhibition of vocalisation, and would have been quite enjoyable had the piano accompaniment been more sympathetic. Madame Lablache gave a highly artistic performance of "Ah! figlinol, mio figlinol," from Meyerbeer's "Il Profeta," and was deservedly rewarded by a vociferous encore, in response to which, however, she only attempted the popular "No, Sir!" ballad. Both artists were admirably heard in the duet "Ma chi vien," (Gioconda), by Ponchielli. Mons. Kowalski was almost overwhelmed by applause after the performance of his piano solos, despite the fact that he chose nothing newer than Gounod's "Le Printemps," and his own "Tambour Battant;" but perhaps he was wise in choosing popular items for performance in a building where pianoforte solos are so rarely heard, and at any rate in his encore piece (a "Hungarian Fantasie" by Liszt) he played something more worthy of his artistic powers. On the whole the concert was good, and was certainly generally enjoyable. The same programme is to be repeated this evening, when the "B" subscribers are to have their concert.

An entertainment of a vocal and instrumental character was given last evening in the hall of the Industrial Blind Institution, Woolloomooloo, in aid of the workers' sick fund. The proceedings were of a gratifying nature, and were presided over by Sir Alfred Stephen. The programme, which included a series of musical and vocal contributions, was received by a large and approving audience, and the various items were rendered with more or less success. Miss L. Fay sang with much expression "It was a Dream," while Mr. J. W. Lane gave a correct and pleasing interpretation of "The Powder Monkey." "The Miller and the Maid," by Mrs. W. J. Baker, met with warm applause, as did also the euphonium solo, "The Death of Nelson," by Mr. E. R. Pennell. This was accompanied by a trumpet obligato, and formed one of the features of the evening. Mrs. Finch's vocal effort "Hail to the sweet Summer Bird," was one of the acceptable items which added to the success of the programme, those of Mr. S. Smith, Mrs. W. Gemell, Mr. F. Beard (whose contribution took the form of a recitation), and Mr. J. Stewart, being equally appreciated. In the second part a number of quaint ballads and instrumental pieces, in which Misses E. Doran, C. Newman, and Everingham, and Messrs. T. H. Fellew, J. Saunders, and A. Allen took part, tended to complete a most enjoyable evening. The S. B. I. Brass Band rendered several spirited selections. Mr. S. Austin and Miss E. Doran made efficient accompanists.

The representation of "The Last Days of Pompeii," by Mr. Pain, will be repeated in Phillip Park this evening.

A large and appreciative audience gathered in the main hall of the Bondi Aquarium last night, when an entertainment was given by the Austral Amateur Minstrel Company. The numbers on the programme were gone through in a brisk manner, and, judging by the frequent applause, found favour with the visitors. Special mention may be made of Mr. Ritchie's speciality, and Mr. Williams's rendering of the "Old Rustic Bridge." The final song and dance, "Kitty Lee," fairly brought down the house.

Speaking at Chester on the subject of sick nursing, the Duke of Westminster said that for some years his attention had been directed to the subject, in connection with the National and Metropolitan Nursing Institution in London, for nursing the poor in their own homes. This principle of going to the sick poor had received a great stimulus from the gift of the surplus of the Jubilee Fund by her Majesty the Queen towards the establishment of district nursing institutions in the United Kingdom.

A public welcome was last night tendered to the Rev. John Fordyce, M.A., the newly-appointed pastor of the Congregational Church, Point Piper-road, Woollahra.

In commemorating the close of the colony's first century the various religious denominations performed their part. Some portions of the celebration were of temporary interest, and passed into the regions of forgetfulness months ago; but we have been reminded at the beginning of the present year, and again within the present week, that in two cases the commencement of the new era was marked by the initiation of movements which will lead to permanent results. We refer to the initiation of the Centennial Church Extension fund in the Church of England, and the Centennial Thanksgiving fund in the Wesleyan Conference. At the annual meeting of the Wesleyan Conference, at the close of last January, a year's progress was reported, and it was stated that up to that time contributions to the Centennial Thanksgiving fund amounting to nearly £25,000 had been paid or promised. At the first annual meeting of the executive committee of the Centennial Church Extension Fund on Monday last it was announced that the total amount promised in the whole province of New South Wales was £62,000, that is to say, £38,000 in the diocese of Sydney, and £23,000 in the dioceses of Newcastle, Bathurst, Goulburn, Grafton and Armidale, and Riverina. We are not aware whether the raising of any specific sum was named in the Wesleyan Conference as the object to be striven for. In the Church of England the sum of £200,000 was suggested by the Primate with great boldness, although, as he now remarks, some churchmen of high authority and large experience shook their heads in apprehension. It is to be remembered that according to the original plan the collections for the fund were to extend over a series of years. In movements of this kind, it is customary to find the maximum of enthusiasm displayed at the outset. It is then that the large contributions fall in. After that success depends upon systematic and persistent effort. The first year's results are not to be taken as a standard for the years to follow; but although there is a wide gap between £62,000 and £200,000 there was room for the protest made by Mr. Justice Owen at the meeting on Monday against the adoption of pessimistic views on the subject. It may be interesting to note that the Jubilee Fund raised by the Congregationalists a few years ago was obtained by means of contributions spread over a period of three years, and within that time the sums actually paid amounted to between £30,000 and £40,000. Adding together the totals of the three funds, we have some test of the willingness of the people to support and extend the ministrations of religion in the country, because these contributions are for the most part supplementary to the ordinary contributions for religious purposes. The effort made in behalf of the Church Extension Fund in the Diocese of Sydney has not, it is said, affected the local contributions or regular diocesan work to any appreciable degree.

At the same time, it is manifest that a feeling of disappointment, though not, perhaps, of discouragement, has been produced by the records of the progress of the movement in the Church of England within its first year. It was well, therefore, that due account was taken at the meeting of the depressing circumstances under which that progress had been made. As the Bishop remarked, a drought of almost unexampled severity has nearly ruined many of the pastoral and agricultural districts, and has told especially on classes on whom the Church of England very largely relies for support. But whilst making full allowance for these uncontrollable influences there is reason to believe that they do not of themselves explain the whole of the facts. According to the report, "in many parishes organised canvassing for contributions has been commenced and carried on. In almost every instance where this has been done the work of the fund has been successful. In some parishes little has been attempted, and in others practically nothing." It can hardly be doubted that a far larger degree of success would have been attained had local efforts everywhere been well organised, energetic, and persistent.

Mr. Justice Owen, who took a hopeful view of the case, said he did not regret the withdrawal of State aid from the Anglican Church in Australia. It is not at all improbable that if that step had not been taken the necessity for raising sufficient funds by other means, not only for stationary but also for progressive work, would not have been so fully recognised. As matters now stand, it may be doubted whether the practice of canvassing for contributions and the habit of giving them have been so fully developed amongst the members of the Church of England as in some other religious organisations. Perhaps it would be better in all cases if liberality were spontaneous, and the visit of the collector were not required. But the probability is that where the most money is raised the most practical endeavours are made to procure it. Amidst the pressure of modern life and the engrossing demands of business on the one hand and pleasure on the other, money is often withheld from religious purposes not simply because it is wanted for others, but also because people forget to give it, or postpone their gifts and require to be reminded and brought to the point by personal application. This principle is understood and acted upon by those bodies which have never looked outside the voluntary system, but it is liable to be overlooked in some degree in the midst of traditions of reliance upon State support. It will have to receive attention on all sides.

Some support is given to this view of the case by some of the facts already mentioned. Let the sum raised for the Congregational Jubilee Fund be compared with the sum already raised or promised for the Church Extension Fund, and then let it be remembered that according to the figures for 1887 (the last published) the estimated number of adherents to the Congregational body was 19,000, and the number of adherents to the Church of England was 474,000. But amongst the Congregationalists the proportion of adherents to clergy was 1 to 311, whilst in the Church of England it was 1 to 1464. This fact alone goes to show how much greater scope there is in the one case than in the other for direct personal influence. The time is coming when by the effect of natural causes all the religious bodies will be self-dependent. Considerable strides have been made in that direction within the last 25 years. The Act providing for the abolition of State aid to religion was passed in the year 1862. The grant for religious purposes in 1863 was £32,000. In 1887 it was £10,000. The sum paid to the Church of England in 1863 was £17,000. In 1887 it was £5000. Yet within that quarter of a century there has been a very great expansion both of work and contributions. When the remaining £5000 now granted by the State has passed away the Church should be prepared to dispense with it; and to provide against that time is one of the purposes of the Centennial Church Extension Fund.

Although the wool year ends on 30th June, the season is practically so far at an end in March that leading firms give annual reviews at this time. We recently published that of the New Zealand Loan and Mortgage Agency Company, and Goldsbrough's Review has since appeared, carrying the record a few weeks later. It is needless to say that to Australians generally, and to the people of this colony in particular, the wool industry is, of all industries, the most important. It furnishes three-fourths of the export wealth of the country, and provides the bulk of the money which gives vitality to the occupations of city and town life. At the present moment a fall of six inches of rain in the grazing areas of the colony would do more than anything else to revive languishing trade and industry.

The wool season of 1888 was a fairly good one. The effects of the drought, though serious, culminated about shearing time. Some sheep and many lambs, when shorn, had to be destroyed. The quantity of wool produced in New South Wales and Queensland, where the drought has been most calamitous, was nevertheless larger than in the previous year. The export from New South Wales to the 26th February amounted to 412,234 bales, an increase of no less than 76,505 bales on the figures of the previous year. The increase, however, has to be read in the light of decreases in the export from South Australia and Victoria of 25,272 bales and 14,229 bales respectively. This was not owing to the fact that the drought was more serious in those colonies than in New South Wales. Our western districts suffered more than the wool-growing areas of those colonies. But the large increase in our figures and the diminution in theirs were due to the fact that the River Darling was not so navigable this year. Our railways carried the wool, which was shipped from our ports instead of from Melbourne and Adelaide. They were constructed at the urgent request of the western graziers, and ought every year, under good management, to secure all the trade. The wool exports from Sydney should not be subject to the fluctuations shown in the returns. From the three colonies the export was 842,158 bales, showing an increase of 37,004 bales. In Queensland the increase in the exports is given as 5701 bales, in West Australia as 4308 bales. In Tasmania there is a decrease of 3092, and from New Zealand the returns of export show a total decrease of 11,217 bales. The total Australasian export to the beginning of March was 1,139,952 bales, an increase of 32,704 bales on the previous year. It is thought that by the end of the season the total export may exceed the figures of 1888 by about 60,000 to 70,000 bales.

While the figures show the comparatively greater expansion of the exports from Sydney, there are two very unsatisfactory features. Victorian export tables include New South Wales wool; and British import returns credit Victoria with a still larger proportion of our fleece. Though we have, roughly, about four times as many sheep as Victoria, Goldsbrough and Co., in their export tables for the past four years, show a total of 1,369,370 bales of wool from New South Wales, as against 1,325,428 bales from Victoria. This gives a slight, instead of nearly a fourfold, advantage to New South Wales. But when we come to the firm's statistics of importation into the United Kingdom, we find that in the four years—1885-8—New South Wales is credited with only 1,048,644 bales, as against 1,403,609 bales from Victoria. Probably so much more is returned as Victorian owing to the inclusion of most of the Sydney wool shipped via Melbourne, this surmise being borne out by the fact that Adelaide gets credit for rather more than she exported. Some steamships load at the three ports. By virtue of the fact that Victoria counts as Australia, she naturally secures credit for the lion's share of the trade. As Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co. are now a Sydney as well as a Melbourne firm, the interests of New South Wales in a matter of this kind ought to be considered, and we would suggest that in future they should publish with their wool statistics a brief note, explanatory of the position, for otherwise the figures are calculated to mislead. Ten years ago some people said Sydney must always hold a second place in the wool trade. But it has now far overshadowed the southern port, and it is too bad that the kind of influence which tended to keep it from its natural and right position should still have weight. Our railways want the best management to bring the trade to the port; our local wool merchants must be equal to the emergencies of the expanding trade; our unrivalled shipping facilities must be made available to meet the necessities of the business; and our representatives in England must see that the colony is credited with its full measure of trade and importance; for on such considerations depend to some extent the estimate in which we are held when we go to the money markets of the world. If nearly 50 per cent. of our wool exports from Australia, and nearly 90 per cent. of our wool imports into England, are to be credited to our neighbours, the colony is likely to suffer. We have more than two and a-half times as many sheep as Victoria and South Australia, and yet in the import returns in question we are only credited with 321,154 bales in 1888, out of a total of 827,000 bales from the three colonies.

With pastures so different in character and in such varying climates, of course the quality of the wool clip differs. The Sydney portion is described in a general way as having been finer and softer than last year; but not so well grown; the effects of the drought being apparent in the condition of such as came from the Western districts. The Melbourne portion of the clip was most satisfactory, and, so far as regards quality, softness of growth, freedom from burr and seeds, and (in some instances) lightness of yolk, was an improvement on last year's yield. In the Adelaide wools the severity of the season was apparent in the fleece from the north-east; the clip from the north was better, while the districts nearer to Adelaide produced wool of exceedingly good quality. The get-up of the wool was better. The need of more attention in the preparation of the wool for market generally is rightly insisted on, for we have seen many complaints in England on this subject.

The season's wool clip has on the whole brought satisfactory prices, at any rate in comparison with those of the previous year. Messrs. Goldsbrough and Co. say: "Values have had an evenly upward range; competition has been keen; the demand strong and steady; while growers on the whole have assisted operations by their willingness to accept true value." That will be accepted as a correct review of the course of events. Faulty lambs and inferior wools, heavy with earth and sand, are the only sorts that have not gone up in value, all other descriptions being from ½d. to 1d. better, according to condition and quality. An all round advance of a halfpenny per lb. is equal to more than half a million sterling to the three colonies. The increasing number of foreign buyers tends to give greater competition, which, of course, ensures a better market. Recent correspondence shows that Continental manufacturers have not for some time been satisfied with the ways of the London wool trade, and in consequence are sending their representatives to the colonies in larger numbers, pointing to the time when the bulk of the wool trade will be done here. It is said that this season 456,961 bales have already been sold in the three markets, within a few thousand bales of the half of the present production of the four principal Australian colonies. In Sydney alone the sales to the date of the report had been 213,399 bales against 150,203 bales in the previous year. Sydney is now the leading wool-sale mart, as well as the principal shipping port, in the colonies.

It will be seen that steps are being taken to absorb the surplus labour of which signs have been apparent within the last few days. The deputation of the unemployed which waited on the Premier the other day directed the attention of the Government to the fact that the difficulty was on the point of once more reaching that acute stage that drove us last year to the expedient of relief works of not an absolutely necessary character. But the day of relief works is at an end, and it is not likely that public opinion will again tolerate such a device. Although the more important public works authorised by the Parliamentary Standing Committee are not yet in a sufficiently forward condition to employ the surplus labour, it has been found possible to set the men at work in the meantime on a number of undertakings of practical utility. A statement in another part of this issue will show what the nature of these works is, and by this means occupation will be provided for from fifteen hundred to two thousand men, for periods ranging from three to twelve months. By that time, doubtless, larger works will have been got under way, so that no difficulty will be experienced in the gradual absorption of the surplus labour. At the same time it might be remarked that the very credit due to the Government for its prompt action suggests a question as to why some action of the kind was not taken a little sooner. The fact that so many men are out of employment just now is due as much to the completion of the public works which gave occupation to so many hands as to the bad season we have just passed through; and that circumstance itself might have suggested the taking of some steps to supply these discharged railway and other contracts. One good feature about the measures taken is that they will in some cases give employment to men in the country districts, and thus prevent their congregating in the metropolis. The programme of the Government in this particular seems to be well devised. It will do away with the necessity for the relief works that have been so universally condemned, and relieve a threatened difficulty. So long as the works are absolutely necessary, the Government cannot go very far wrong in pushing them on.

Mr. WESTGARTH is not to be daunted by the opposition given to his advocacy of 3 per cent. loans. He visited these colonies, and laid his proposals before several of their Governments, but so far without success. Victoria and South Australia have since negotiated new loans at 3½ per cent., not at 3 per cent. Despite this fact and the recent adverse deliverance of Mr. BILLINGHURST, manager of the London and Westminster Bank, and said to be one of the highest authorities in the United Kingdom on the subject, Mr. Westgarth continues his advocacy before the Royal Colonial Institute. To colonies frequently going to the money market, of course, the subject is an ever vital one. The only justification for floating a loan at 3 per cent. would be the obtaining of a higher relative price than could be secured for an issue at 3½ per cent. The contention in favour of the lower rate was that stock issued at a discount would be more attractive to investors than stock raised at a premium. But Mr. BILLINGHURST observed that "it was doubtful whether the theory held good in practice, at all events with regard to colonial stock; all one's experience goes to show that the issue of stocks at a discount is simply for the benefit of dealers." Undoubtedly the experience of this colony was that before the Consols Conversion scheme our 3½ per cents. were issued at a serious loss as compared with the Victorian issues at 4 per cent. Then also in the case of stocks issued at a discount, all the cost of issue is charged on the nominal amount, and not on that realised; and, further, the full nominal amount of the stock has to be provided by the colony at maturity. The colony has to pay about a million and a half more than it has received from past loans, and if further loans, amounting to £10,000,000 at 3 per cent. are raised, the result at present market prices would be the receipt of only about £9,000,000, adding thus another million sterling to the amount short-raised, and hereafter requiring a special loan of £2,500,000 to provide for the deficiency. Eventually the statute-book will need a special loan to cover the amounts short raised, and for a much larger amount than the one raised a few years back. But these points, no doubt, may be safely entrusted to the new TREASURER, who is no more likely to be led from the paths of sound finance than the Treasurers of Victoria or South Australia, or than Mr. BURNS, who has come in for unmerited censure at the hands of Mr. WESTGARTH. In demanding the shortening of the currency of the loans—a course also approved by Mr. BILLINGHURST—Mr. BURNS had to accept the condition of payment of interest on the 1st March and 1st September, instead of in April and October, for the convenience of the Bank of England. Looking at the higher charges claimed by that bank than were paid to the Bank of New South Wales, a very serious mistake was made in leaving the colonial institution, which was more obliging, as well as cheaper, than the English institution.

HIS Excellency the Governor, accompanied by the Hon. Rupert Carrington, returned to Sydney yesterday from Melbourne, where he attended last week a Masonic celebration. The Governor presided over the meeting of the Executive Council yesterday, and to-day he will proceed to Moss Vale.

AT yesterday's meeting of the Executive Council the Crown prosecutors were appointed as under for the Circuit Courts which are about to take place:—Wagga, 29th March—Mr. E. Bennett. Albury, April 3; Deniliquin, April 8—Dr. Sly. Maitland, April 1—Mr. Coffey. Mudgee, April 4; Dubbo, April 8; Bathurst, April 15—Mr. Harris. Hay, April 11; Young, April 15—Mr. Dawson. Yass, April 11; Goulburn, April 15—Mr. Butterworth. Tamworth, April 11; Armidale, April 16; Grafton, April 22—Mr. Browning. Broken Hill, April 16—Mr. B. R. Wise. The sittings of the Circuit Court, it may be explained, have been changed from Silverton to Broken Hill to meet the convenience of the public.

THE Minister for Justice has received a petition in favour of the mitigation of the sentences passed on the shearers who were convicted of having taken part in the riots at Brookong. Mr. Gould has not yet been able to deal with the matter, but he will receive a deputation on the subject in the course of the next few days.

A DEPUTATION was to have waited upon the Postmaster-General yesterday with reference to the renewal of the contract for the San Francisco mail service. Arrangements had been made for the interview by Mr. Kembell, who sailed a few days ago by the R.M.S. Alameda. Since then Messrs. Parker and Lacey placed themselves in communication with the department, saying that the gentlemen who intended to be present were not properly prepared; consequently, the date of the interview has been indefinitely postponed.

IT is the intention of the Postmaster-General to take at an early date some definite action with reference to the Post Office-street. The proposals of the last Government of Sir Henry Parkes with reference to the widening of the Post Office-street and the difficulties that stood in the way of the accomplishment of the object are well known to the public. Mr. O'Connor means to get thoroughly seized with the whole of the facts regarding the case, and if the difficulties in the way of the opening of the street are not absolutely insurmountable, he hopes to have it opened for the public in the course of a very short time.

THE complete set of new postage stamps, intended to commemorate the centenary of the colony, has been issued from the Government Printing Office, and is now in use. The set consists of the penny, twopenny, fourpenny, sixpenny, eightpenny, shilling, five shillings, and twenty shillings stamps. A correspondent (Mr. W. H. Armytage) complains that, although the earlier issues of the stamps displayed fair engraving and printing, the execution was not what might have been expected, considering the special occasion which prompted the change in design. But when the stamps for the higher values were issued, instead of there being an improvement by practice, each succeeding production presented a lamentable appearance of rough engraving and printing which do anything but justice to the original designs. Mr. Armytage adds that "If whoever has this matter under control would take the trouble to obtain specimens of the stamps issued by the United States and some of the Central American Governments, in which the engraving and printing combine to produce a result almost equal to photography, and compare these with our despicable smudges, surely a trial might be made of having the designs (or at any rate one of them) engraved across the water, as we do not apparently possess an engraver capable of doing justice to either the artists or the colony." With regard to this the Government Printer informs us that up to the present time the department has been obliged to use for the later issues of the stamps what is known as the 5s. paper, which is now very old. New 5s. paper with a special water mark has been ordered, but has not yet come to hand. When it arrives it is expected that an improvement will be noticeable in the stamps. With regard to the engraving, the department has been obliged to engrave the die in relief and from that to electrotype; but much better results could have been obtained from the American system of engraving on copper. The department had not the means here, however, of printing them in that manner with sufficient expedition to meet the public requirements. The only man in the colony, we are informed, who could do the work at all—Mr. William Bell—has been engaged upon it. The work has been done cheaper and more expeditiously than it could have been done outside the colony.

THE last of the series of articles, by the special commissioner of the Sydney Morning Herald, on his cruise in the South Pacific, appears in to-day's issue. The article deals with Tonga. It contains a sketch of the manners and customs of the people, notices the constitution under which the people live, and also deals with the religious difficulty that has been experienced there.

SIR SOMERS VINE, the accredited agent of the Imperial Institute, has just arrived in this colony from Queensland. His mission is to explain the aims and objects of the institute, and to endeavour to secure the co-operation of the Australian colonies. An abstract of Sir Somers Vine's account of the scope of the Imperial Institute will be found in another column.

IN the results of the University examinations, published in yesterday's issue, the scholarship list for the first year's examination in Arts should read thus:—Lithgow scholarship for classics, E. M. Stephen; George Allen scholarship for mathematics, E. M. Stephen.

MESSRS. CULLEN and BURNS, members for the electorate of St. Leonards, have, in answer to an inquiry made by them, received a letter from the Minister for Public Works, stating a report of a favourable character had been received from the Railway Commissioners in respect of the extension of the North Shore Railway from its present terminus to the waters of Port Jackson at Milson's Point, and that no time will be lost in bringing the project of this extension, with other lines which have been similarly dealt with, before the Cabinet.

MR. G. W. F. ADDISON, S.M., sitting at the Water Police Court yesterday, fixed the public places at which the electoral lists for East Sydney and Paddington are to be exhibited. He also appointed Wednesday, the 8th day of May, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, as the time for holding the Revision Court for such districts at the Water Police Court. All persons claiming to have their names inserted on the list, or objecting to the retention of the name of any person thereon, must lodge such claims or objections with the clerk of petty sessions, at the Water Police Court on or before the 14th April next. The list will be exhibited from the 1st to the 14th proximo at the different police stations and council chambers in the localities named.

TO-DAY'S outgoing North German Lloyd's imperial mail steamer's berthing list shows her to have some 60 saloon passengers and close upon 200 in the second saloon and steerage from Sydney, Melbourne, and Adelaide. In the Sydney list are several names of prominent German residents. The route taken by the N. G. L. boats includes a call at nine ports between here and the terminal port, Bremen. The principal ports of debarkation booked by the steamer to-day are Genoa, Southampton, and Bremen. Since her arrival here nine days ago the Nurnberg has undergone the usual polishing up, and Captain Engelbarb is hoping to overtake his contract time on the run to Fatherland this trip.

A PRELIMINARY meeting was held at Rockdale last evening to form a liberal and free-trade association. Mr. Charles Bull was elected president. A public meeting is to be held on Friday evening, when Sir Henry Parkes, Mr. M'Millan, Mr. Reid, and the four members for Canterbury will probably deliver addresses.

A MEETING will be held in the Town Hall at 4 p.m. on Thursday, for the purpose of publicly inaugurating the movement for holding a hospital bazaar. This movement is being promoted by a number of ladies, and it may be added that the project has nothing to do with the so-called "national fair." The hospital bazaar is a movement totally distinct from that referred to. The Mayor will preside at the meeting on Thursday.

A UNANIMOUS public meeting, though it only numbered some 25 persons, was held at the Royal Society's rooms yesterday afternoon to advocate the foundation of a national portrait gallery in connection with the Sydney Art Gallery. The Chief Justice, who presided, mentioned the following as worthy of a place in such a gallery—Wentworth, Dr. Bland, Dr. Lang, Mr. Dalley, and amongst living men Sir Alfred Stephen and Sir Henry Parkes. The Primate, in moving the first resolution, advocated the foundation of such an institution on account of its advantages from an historical point of view; and Dr. Garran, M.L.C., who moved the second resolution, spoke in favour of the interests of posterity. It was decided that it was a desirable thing to have a national portrait gallery in connection with the Art Gallery, and the Chief Justice, Dr. Garran, Messrs. Lackey and P. Gidley King, M.L.C., and Mr. R. Burdett Smith were appointed a deputation to wait on the Premier not later than Friday next to submit the resolutions carried at the meeting, and to urge him to make provision for the foundation and maintenance of a national portrait gallery.

AT a meeting of the executive committee of the Trades and Labour Council, held at the Trades Hall last evening, it was decided to offer a protest to the Government and the City Council against the proposed leasing of the streets of the metropolis for tramway purposes to any person or persons.

AT the weekly meeting of the Shamrock Club, held at the rooms, 15, Church-hill, on Monday, 25th instant, the following letter was read from a brother of one of the victims of the Wentworth House fire on Christmas Day last:—"London, 6th February, 1889. To the Secretary, Shamrock Club, Sydney. Sir,—On behalf of my father, Mr. R. O. Armstrong, of Monkstown, county Dublin, and also upon my own behalf, I beg to thank you, and through you all the members of your club, for the kind expressions of sympathy which we received through the medium of the Sydney Morning Herald, upon the sad death of my brother G. C. T. Armstrong, who was killed at the fire at Wentworth Hotel, on the 25th December last. If anything can mitigate the grief parents and relatives must feel at the loss by so tragic a death of one dear to them, it is the knowledge that sympathy, even from personally unknown friends, is extended, and that although many thousands of miles distant from home, the dear one had at his last moments the kind sympathy, and, so far as possible, the friendly attentions which it was impossible for us to give. The sad news reached us on Monday last. Again thanking you, I remain, Sir, yours faithfully, H. R. ARMSTRONG."

A LARGE congregation assembled at St. Andrew's Cathedral last evening to hear the Primate deliver the third of his series of lectures on the English Reformation. The lecture was of a most interesting and instructive character, the Primate dealing in an able and exhaustive manner with the events which occurred during the reign of Edward VI., and showing the great progress which the religious movement had made during the life of the youthful monarch. The following lecture of the course, which will be delivered on Tuesday next, will deal with the reaction which took place during the reign of Mary.

THE Rev. John Fordyce, M.A., who recently arrived from Belfast by the Orient Company's Ormuz to take charge of the Congregational Church, Point Piper-road, Woollahra, was welcomed last evening by the congregation, the welcome taking the shape of a tea and public meeting, held in the schoolroom and church respectively. Addresses were delivered by Mr. J. R. Fairfax and the Revs. Dr. Jefferis, J. G. Fraser, G. Campbell, J. W. Davies, T. E. Owens Mell, and S. O. Savage, and the guest of the evening, who in a short but effective speech touched upon his departure from the old country, his reception here, and the work he proposed pursuing in the future. The addresses were most congratulatory, and the proceedings of a highly entertaining character.

THE case of Stephen v. Roberts was concluded in Equity yesterday. A question of land title was involved, Mr. E. M. Stephen, as the official assignee of a bankrupt estate, seeking to get possession of certain property at Bankstown. Mr. Justice Owen, in giving judgment, declared plaintiff's absolute title, as the representative of William Pitt Burne, a bankrupt, to the estate under dispute. The plaintiff, he said, had a right to come into Court and to ask the Court to give effect to the trusts of the deed under which assignment was originally made. He was satisfied also that the defendant's title was imperfect. The only question he had a difficulty about was whether the defendant, in purchasing the interest of a man named Ross, also a claimant to the "derelict" estate, had not conferred a benefit upon the estate. He having personally no means of ascertaining this, therefore referred it to the Master. If the purchase was beneficial then the defendant must be recouped: if Ross had no title then the defendant must take the risk.

HIS Honor Mr. Justice Windeyer yesterday dealt with a number of formal matters in the divorce jurisdiction. The hearing of the suits Blackley v. Blackley, Drew v. Drew, and Jeune v. Jeune were fixed for the 4th June next: but in Bradshaw v. Bradshaw his Honor refused an application to settle issues until the husband, who is the petitioner, had provided the necessary funds to enable the respondent to file her defence. In Button v. Button, the decree nisi, which was granted on the 13th August last for the dissolution of the marriage between the parties, was made absolute, and the marriage declared dissolved.

THE business of the Supreme Court being over, as far as the trial of causes is concerned, the Judges are about to leave for the various Circuit Courts. His Honor the Chief Justice will start about the 2nd April and sit at Dubbo, Mudgee, and Bathurst, and Mr. Justice Windeyer will take Tamworth, Armidale, Maitland, and Grafton. The Broken Hill, Wagga Wagga, Albury, and Deniliquin Circuits are to be attended by Mr. Justice Stephen, and Mr. Justice Foster will visit Hay, Young, Yass, and Goulburn. Mr. Justice Stephen will leave for Wagga Wagga this evening, and Mr. Justice Foster for his circuit on Monday next.

THE visitors to the Art Gallery on Monday numbered 1783, making a total for three days and a half of 10,230.

A VERY cordial meeting was held on Monday evening at Melrose, Cleveland-street, Redfern, the residence of Mr. Stedman, who was presented with a very handsome silver and gold embossed cigar case, suitably inscribed, and also a very handsome silver and gold embossed card case, similarly engraved, to Mrs. Stedman, on the occasion of their departure for Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Stedman's health was drunk, and with hearty good wishes for their happiness and pleasant voyage, and a safe return.

WE have received communications from residents of the neighbourhood of the Sydney Tramway and Omnibus Company's stables, Glebe, complaining of the nuisance caused by the smell of the manure from the stables. We have sent a representative to visit the spot, and he finds that the nuisance, which at one time it is said was intolerable, has been considerably abated since the residents have complained to the company. The principal grievance at the present time is that the manure is removed about 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and when this takes place the stench is such that the neighbours have to keep their doors and windows closed. They think that if the manure were removed at an early hour in the morning their grievance would be reduced to a minimum.

IN the report of a University senate meeting held on Monday last the word "geology" was accidentally substituted for the word "biology" in clause (e) of the report of the Challis Chairs Committee. The clause should have read as follows:—(e) That the present lectureship on biology be abolished, and that a Challis professorship of biology be established; and that the duties of the professor should include the teaching of botany and zoology; and that the title of the present chair of natural history be changed to that of geology and physical geography.

A MEETING of the Glebe Free-trade Association will be held on Friday evening in the local Town Hall.

MR. G. WATT, the Mayor of Gosford, informs us that the banquet to Sir Henry Parkes at Gosford will take place on Friday week, not next Friday, as stated on Monday.

A MEMORIAL service will be held this evening in the Centenary Hall, York-street, in connection with the death of the Rev. W. B. Boyce.

THE following is the order of musical service at St. Andrew's Cathedral this afternoon, at 4.30:—Magnificat, Goss, in A; Nunc Dimittis, Goss, in A; anthem, "Therefore with Angels and Archangels, and all the Company of Heaven" (Novello.)

FROM our advertisement columns it will be seen that the annual meeting of the New South Wales Auxiliary of the London Missionary Society will take place this evening, at the Pitt-street Congregational Church. Rev. Dr. Jefferis will preside. The Revs. J. Fordyce, M.A. (just arrived from the old country), G. Rayner, T. E. Owens Mell, J. Buchan, M.A., Mr. R. W. Hardie, Captain Turpie, and three native teachers from New Guinea will take part in the meeting.

IN connection with the Boys' Brigade, Mr. E. K. Satchet will this evening, at the Y. M. C. A., lecture on a "Run Round London."

THE Permanent Artillery Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Devery, will perform the following programme in Botanic Gardens this afternoon, commencing at 3.30 o'clock:—Overture, op. "Guillaume Tell" (Rossini); selection, op. "I Lombardi" (Verdi); gavotte, "Marjorie" (Devery); air varie, "Alpensehnsucht" (Hartmann); minuet (Boccherini); serenade, "Farewell" (Herfurth).

THE following is the report for the week ended March 23 of the number of pauper patients under treatment in the metropolitan hospitals at the Government expense:—Coast Hospital—Admissions, 34 males, 11 females; discharges, 21 males, 19 females; deaths, 2 males, 2 females; number remaining, 145 males, 61 females. Sydney Hospital—Admissions, 19 males, 6 females; discharges, 24 males, 10 females; deaths, 2 males; number remaining, 87 males, 44 females. Prince Alfred Hospital—Admissions, 3 males, 3 females; discharges, 12 males, 5 females; deaths, 0; number remaining, 33 males, 25 females.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, TUESDAY.

To-day the President of the Legislative Council issued a writ for the the election of a member in the room of Mr. D. C. Sterry, who resigned his seat for the Northern Province. The day of polling is April 16.

The Premier has received a communication from the Agent-General in regard to the Victorian Wine Kiosk at the Paris Exhibition. The proposed site is 110ft. long by 80ft., on rising ground and in a commanding position. Part of the site will be occupied by the United States for kiosk purposes, the Victorian proportion being about 300 square metres.

The Defence Department does not expect to receive the supplies of the new magazine rifle until 1890.

At the weekly meeting of the Victorian Orchestra provisional committee to-day it was stated that the amount already collected was £2750. The guarantee fund had reached £4075.

The agents of the Messageries Maritimes Company have received information that owing to a slight accident to the machinery the steamer Oceanien has been detained at Mahé, and consequently will arrive at Melbourne a few days later than was expected.

Information from Byaduk states that many cattle in the neighbourhood are suffering from partial or total blindness. The cause of the affection is unknown. A white film covers the eyeball, and in some instances the eyes close.

Early this morning the house of Mr. J. L. Purves was burglariously entered for the third time during the past seven years. The thieves were disturbed, and apparently left in great haste, only carrying off a portion of their plunder. Burglaries are of very frequent occurrence in the city.

A meeting of the unemployed which was convened for this morning at the Burke and Wills statue ended in a fiasco, only about a dozen attending at the advertised time.

Mr. Charles Le Cren, Secretary of Public Works, is very ill, and is not expected to survive.

Dr. and Mrs. Rose have instructed their solicitors to issue a writ for £5000 against the Age for publishing to-day an advertisement containing defamatory matter.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning, shortly after the train passed the railway gates at the Walker-street crossing on the Heidelberg railway, the gatekeeper discovered the body of a man on the line. The head was severed from the body, the chest was crushed in, both arms were fractured, and the legs were mangled. The deceased has not yet been identified.

The report of the wine committee at the Centennial Exhibition states that the Victorian wine bars proved successful. There was a return of 10s. per dozen, or 8s. per gallon, for all wines consumed at the bars, excepting Victorian champagne. The total receipts amounted to £1442 11s. 2d., less expenses £505 11s. 6d., leaving a balance to be divided amongst the vendors of wines. The results bear a flattering comparison with the exhibition of 1880, and are considered by the committee as very satisfactory.

Mr. A. Crawford, manager of the Government travelling dairy, has furnished statistics of the yields of butter and cream from milk, showing that milk from 19 different places in the colony gave butter at an average rate of 1lb. to 2·67 gallons of milk, while the general average of cream was 11·04 per cent. Mr. Crawford states the results are better than are obtainable from the bulk of grass-fed cows in Great Britain.

A fire in Sturt-street, Ballarat, to-night, destroyed Buleh's music shop, Sanders' haberdashery, and other places.

Chief Justice Way left by express to-day for Adelaide. At Geelong he was met by a number of Freemasons. An adjournment was made to the refreshment room, and Chief Justice Way's health was drunk.

The cricket match Ormond v. Queen's College ended to-day, and was won by the Ormonds in one innings and 91 runs.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, TUESDAY.

Mr. H. Latow, Imperial Japanese Commissioner, is now in Brisbane. He will shortly proceed to the other colonies, where he intends staying some time.

There has been no further rainfall since last night. The weather is still unsettled, but shows signs of clearing. The rainfall has been fairly general, except in the north and far west. Many portions of the pastoral districts have benefited largely by the downpour.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, TUESDAY.

Arrangements have been made by the postal authorities for a weekly mail service by coach from Farina to Haddon Downs, which is about 100 miles north of Innamincka, and on the border of Queensland. The service will begin on April 7, and coaches will leave Farina every Sunday and Haddon Downs on the return journey every Tuesday. The up journey will take eight days and the down trip nine days. The chief object of the service is to facilitate trade with South-west Queensland, and the new arrangement will also facilitate the erection of a telegraph line to Innamincka. Moderate fares will be charged, considering that from Farina to Haddon Downs is over 400 miles.

The action brought by the City Land Company against Mr. Thomas Bent, of Victoria, was continued for the seventh day to-day before Mr. Justice Bundey. Mr. Henry Downer occupied the whole time of the Court in his address for defendant, urging that a non-suit should be entered. He argued that the plaintiff company had not fulfilled the conditions precedent to the defendant's completing the contract, that they were still unable to show a good title, and that as the Courts of Equity limited the time in which such contracts were to be completed, it would be inequitable to require defendant to complete, seeing that considerable time had elapsed since the contract was made, and the property was of a fluctuating character in respect to its value. Mr. Downer continues his address to-morrow.

A deputation, representing the Australian Natives and Aborigines' Friends Association, waited upon the Mayor to-day, asking him to convene a public meeting to consider the organisation of a fund for the family of the late Mr. Taplin. The Mayor arranged to call a meeting on Wednesday.

At a meeting of the committee of management of the Great Northern Gold Syndicate this morning, it was decided, if possible, to obtain the return of the manager, Mr. Dalton, to the colony. The Commissioner of Lands is doubtful whether the case is one in which the State should interfere further.

TASMANIA.

HOBART, TUESDAY.

H.M.S. Egeria leaves to-morrow for Sydney, proceeding thence to New Zealand. She will probably take up survey work on the Pacific cable route.

Sir W. Jervois ex-Governor of New Zealand, is a passenger for Melbourne per the Wairarapa leaving at 11 o'clock to-night.

The Church of England Diocesan Synod commenced its annual sitting to-day.

This afternoon Sir William Jervois inspected the Alexandra battery protecting Hobart, and expressed a high opinion of the effectiveness of the battery. He also praised the Maxim gun.

PAPER ON COLONIAL LOANS.

LONDON, MARCH 25.

Mr. William Westgarth read a paper before the Colonial Institute on colonial loans. He advocated the issuing of 3 per cent. loans. He blames Mr. J. F. Burns, late Colonial Treasurer of New South Wales, for issuing the last New South Wales loan at irregular interest dates, thereby depreciating the stock. Investors, he says, prefer irredeemable discount stocks.

THE MAORI FOOTBALLERS.

LONDON, MARCH 26.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

AUSTRALIAN WISHES AND INTERESTS.

[BY CABLE.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, MARCH 25.

In the House of Lords, Lord Knutsford, replying to Lord Stratheden and Campbell, declared that the question of Imperial federation was a delicate and difficult one. A full inquiry into the wishes and interests of the colonies must precede a conference. England, he declared, is willing to consider any scheme the colonies may suggest for giving them a more direct share in the councils of the Empire. Lord Knutsford added that it was unnecessary and inconvenient to convene a conference on the question of federation for some time to come, as there were no burning questions at present requiring settlement. He advocated uniform laws, especially upon the points approved by the late Imperial and Colonial Conference.

LONDON, MARCH 26.

It was reported last month that a new bank, to be called the Bank of England and Australasia, was to be established with a capital of £4,000,000 in shares of £10. It was subsequently stated that the project had been abandoned for the present. It is now announced that Mr. W. Howard Smith, jun., on behalf of the Melbourne projectors, is promoting the establishment of the bank referred to, which, however, is to be named the Bank of London and Melbourne. The authorised capital is £2,000,000 in £10 shares. It is intended to shortly issue 100,000 shares on which £2 10s. per share is to be called up. Baring Bros. and Co. are prepared to float the bank if they approve of the directors. The names of Mr. J. Balfour, M.L.C., and Mr. M. H. Davies are mentioned as likely to be Melbourne directors.

THE "TIMES"-PARNELL COMMISSION.

[BY CABLE.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, MARCH 26.

Sir Charles Russell, the counsel for Mr. Parnell at the Special Commission, has denied that he received Pigott's letter, admitting that he was unable to stand cross-examination, until after Pigott disappeared. Sir Richard Webster, on the other hand, declared that he handed the letter in question to Sir Charles Russell two days before Pigott was examined, not five days before, as he had previously stated.

LONDON, MARCH 26.

The Rothschilds have issued a new Russian loan of £27,500,000.

THE STRIKE AT THE PHŒNIX FOUNDRY, BALLARAT.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, TUESDAY.

To-day a deputation, representing the Trades and Labour Council and the Ballarat branch of the Ironworkers' Assistants Association, waited on the directors of the Phœnix Foundry, Ballarat, when it was decided that, subject to the consent of the proprietors of the other foundries, the question of wages purely and simply as between the employers and the Ballarat branch of the Ironworkers' Assistants Association should be discussed, the men to be allowed to return to work under the present rules, pending a decision. A conference of the men on strike was held to-night, and it was agreed to submit the question of wages to the representatives from the masters and themselves, but not to go back to work till this matter had been decided. They argued that being on strike they might as well remain out till the wages question was settled. This is not following the recommendation of the Trades' and Labour Council, to the effect that they should work under the old rules during the negotiations.

THE SOUTH WARATAH MINE DISPUTE.

THE MINERS DISAGREE WITH THE AWARD OF THE REFEREE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWCASTLE, TUESDAY.

At a meeting of the South Waratah miners yesterday, the award of the referee in the case of the local coal company and the miners was discussed, and the following resolution was carried,—"That this meeting disapproves of the award given by the referee, and while we have to bow to his decision, we ask the District to take the matter under their consideration, with the view of getting some redress for deficient working in the South Waratah mine."

FREE TRADE IN KIAMA.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

KIAMA, TUESDAY.

A preliminary meeting, with a view to the formation of a branch of the Free Trade Association of New South Wales, was held in Dymock's Exchange this afternoon, Mr. A. M. Cameron in the chair. Mr. C. W. Craig, Mayor of Kiama, was appointed president pro tem., and Messrs. D. L. Dymock and J. T. Cole vice-presidents. A preliminary committee of six was appointed, and arrangements were made for a meeting of persons favourable to the association on Monday evening next, when permanent officers and committee will be elected, and the association established.

GUNDAGAI AGRICULTURAL SHOW.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

GUNDAGAI, TUESDAY.

The second annual show of the Gundagai Pastoral and Agricultural Society was commenced to-day. There was a large attendance. The day was fine but rather warm. The show on the whole was a great success, which is due in a great measure to the energy of the hon. secretary, Mr. E. C. Allman. The bad season interfered with the exhibits in produce and fat stock.

WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

THE GOVERNMENT PROGRAMME.

The Minister for Works has given considerable attention to the subject of organising public works in order to absorb as much as possible the surplus labour which has been accumulating during the past few days. He has had in view the desirability of finding employment for this labour, and not proceeding with works merely for the purpose of finding such employment. There are a great many works now in the hands of the Department which require to be carried out, and which Mr. Bruce Smith has been enabled to push on in order to meet the emergency that has arisen. The principal work upon which employment will be immediately offered to a large number of people is that of the reclamation of Shea's Creek. It is expected that the men will begin work this day week. The intention is to cut a drain 30ft. wide and 6ft. deep from Rickety-street to Buckland-street, and also to considerably widen Rickety-street itself. It is expected that this work will occupy upwards of 100 men for 12 months. Another important channel in which labour will be employed is in providing spawls for the Centennial Park, the Blackwattle Swamp, the Botany wharf, certain parts of the Parramatta River, and the Spit at Middle Harbour. This, it is anticipated, will occupy 250 men for some months. The third work is the Harrington-street sewer, which will cost upwards of £20,000. Tenders are to be accepted for this immediately. It is expected that this work will afford employment for 100 men for some months. This, it may be mentioned, is part of the general sewerage scheme, and does not require the authority of the Public Works Committee. Following upon this are the three tramways—from Marrickville to Dulwich Hill, from Waverley to the cemetery, and from Bondi to the beach. These tramways are covered by the executive authority of the immediately preceding Government. It is anticipated that about 100 men will be employed upon them some for three or four months. No time will be lost in putting them in hand. Then, in the immediate future, it is intended that the Military-road at Bondi shall be formed. This is now being surveyed, and it will occupy upwards of 30 men for some months. Several works on the North Shore are also in hand, and they will engage the attention of 100 men for some time. Within the last few days the Roads and Bridges department has increased the number of men in its employment in various parts of the country by upwards of 500. On these roads it is expected that all the local surplus labour will be employed, but the work will obviously relieve the surplus labour in the capital by preventing those in the country districts from gravitating to the town. Then there are other roads proposed, which will probably be commenced in a few weeks, and they are likely to employ 800 men for, at any rate, three months. The works of the Roads department generally employ about 10,000 labourers, but the number is much below that at the present time. Every necessary work will be pushed forward until the maximum number is employed. Another work of some importance which the Minister has under serious consideration is the proposed tram line from the town of Yass to the Yass railway station. Mr. Bruce Smith will bring this before the Cabinet at the earliest opportunity, and if it is agreed upon it can be proceeded with in a month. Some work has been recommended by the heads of the department of Harbours and Rivers in the Moruya River, and the only reason for not proceeding with them immediately is the want of dredging plant—a want that also applies to one or two other works, notably the Long Cove reclamation. That will be immediately submitted to the Cabinet, and will in all probability be approved on account of its great sanitary importance. The department is negotiating for the purchase of a quantity of suitable plant which is already built, and if the plant is purchased this work and the work on the Moruya River can be almost immediately proceeded with. Should this be carried out it will occupy as many men as are likely to find employment at Shea's Creek. Mr. Bruce Smith, it may be mentioned, was engaged until nearly midnight last night with the principal officers in the Works Department, the Under-Secretary for Public Works, the Engineer-in-Chief for Roads and Bridges, the acting Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers, and other officials, in making arrangements for these works, which will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible in order to meet the abnormal development of the labour market. Some difficulties such as the necessary executive authority, and the question of ways and means will necessarily involve a little delay, but the Minister hopes that within the next month the works will absorb something like from 1500 to 2000 men.

FIRE AT DIXSON'S TOBACCO FACTORY.

FIREMEN DISABLED BY THE FUMES.

At 12.27 this morning an alarm was conveyed to the fire station of a fire at Dixson's tobacco factory, at the corner of Elizabeth and Park streets. Two steamers immediately proceeded to the scene, followed by the two ladders and the salvage waggon. The premises were opened by the watchman, and after some trouble the fire was found to be in the drying-room on the top floor. Owing to the height of the building, which consists of six stories, a great length of hose was run out, and the firemen had a most trying task in carrying it up the long narrow flights of stairs. The atmosphere was most oppressive, and before the steamer got to work it was found necessary to keep the staircase clear, so that the firemen might be enabled to breathe. When the firemen had reached the top floor the tobacco fumes became almost unbearable. Superintendent Bear and Engineer J. M'Knight were working in the worst portion of the place, and as soon as the water began to play they were choked by the fumes which arose from the burning tobacco. They both lost consciousness. The other firemen immediately noticed their helpless position, and carried them down the narrow flights of stairs into the streets. Medical aid was summoned and the disabled firemen soon regained consciousness, but suffered great pain. Mr. A. Webb, the principal foreman, was twice driven back by the tobacco smoke, and numerous firemen suffered to a greater or less extent. No blaze was visible, and the steamer was only working at intervals up to the time of our going to press. The ladder was run up, but only one steamer and one delivery were brought into action. As far as could be judged the fire itself is not likely to prove extensive, but the firemen had a difficult and dangerous task to accomplish.

KIAMA PASTURES AND STOCK PROTECTION BOARD.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

KIAMA, TUESDAY.

A meeting of the Kiama Pastures and Stock Protection Board was held this afternoon. Mr. R. Miller was unanimously elected chairman for the current year, and Mr. Dymock was re-appointed treasurer. Amongst the correspondence there were several items of importance, the chief amongst which was a letter from the Chief Inspector of Stock respecting the rapid increase of hares in many parts of the colony, and urging the board to at once take action by petition under section 30 of the Pastures and Stock Protection Act to have hares declared noxious animals. The board took action accordingly. A circular from the Ivanhoe Pastures and Stock Protection Board conveyed a resolution passed by that board proposing that the Minister for Lands be asked to call a general meeting in Sydney composed of delegates representing all the boards in the colony to take into consideration the best steps to adopt for dealing with the rabbit pest, and the Kiama board agreed to co-operate in the matter. The secretary was instructed to get all matters arranged for a meeting of the board to be held in May next, for the purpose of levying assessment, &c. The list of stock-owners for 1888 shows that in the Kiama sheep district the acreage of the holdings is 304,196 acres, on which are depastured 8235 horses, 61,874 cattle, 4130 sheep, and 14,134 pigs.

MESSRS. GARLAND AND PLUMB AT MOUNT M'DONALD.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MOUNT M'DONALD, TUESDAY.

Messrs. Garland and Plumb arrived here yesterday en route for Bigga, Tuena, and other places. In the evening they addressed a numerous and appreciative audience. Mr. Garland spoke at considerable length, giving a short review of his past Parliamentary career, and also of the merits and demerits of the late Administrations. He also touched upon the intended future policy of the present Government. During his speech he thanked the electors for returning him at the head of the poll while he was absent from the colony, and announced his intention of shortly visiting England, offering to vacate his seat should the electorate desire it. Mr. Plumb also addressed the meeting, and was accorded a very hearty reception by the miners, who look upon him as a member likely to be of great service to their interests, he having a large experience in this important industry. At the close of the meeting a resolution was unanimously carried that Mr. Garland should retain his seat while absent from the colony.

COUNTRY NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

ALBION PARK, TUESDAY.

Since Friday evening it has been showery; rain is much wanted for vegetation, and the water supply is scarce. The weather is cool, with westerly wind and dense clouds. A change is impending. There is no sickness at present.

BOURKE, TUESDAY.

The rain reports for the last two days are—Brewarrina, 27 points, like more; Goodooga, 69, cloudy; Walgett, 220 points. Heavy rains are reported from the heads of the rivers—Mungundi, 50; Mogil, 39; Collarendabri, 1in.; St. George, 10; Bollon, 30; Kunnopia, 15. Bourke, hot, cloudy, close, like rain, but none has fallen yet. All other district stations report cloudy and like rain.

Great hopes are entertained that the visit of Mr. Brunker, Minister for Lands, and other Ministers will be productive of good to the overburdened pastoralists. The drought is at its height, and no better time could be chosen to show Ministers what disabilities the Western pastoralists have to fight under.

Private information is just to hand that a deluge of rain fell yesterday halfway between here and Cobar on Yanda Creek, which speedily from a dry and dusty gully became a rushing torrent several feet deep. An inch and a-half fell in an hour or so, but so far as can be learnt the storm did not spread over a wide area. These isolated patches of rain are all that have kept the district from utter ruin.

BREWARRINA, TUESDAY.

Dr. Thos. Harrison, the newly-elected medical officer at Brewarrina Hospital, arrived on Sunday, and was inducted on Monday, vice Dr. Hawkins, resigned.

Thirty-five points of rain have fallen. It is still cloudy. Not less than three to five inches of rain will be of much use. The country is very dry over the whole district. In several places the people are carting water some miles for domestic use.

CANOWINDRA, TUESDAY.

The weather continues dry, with no appearance of rain. Grass and water are very scarce. The outlook at present is gloomy.

GILGANDRA, TUESDAY.

It was showery all day yesterday, giving 13 points. The road from Yellow Creek to Bobberah is one sea of water.

Mr. Cusack, acting clerk of petty sessions, who has been located here for eight years, leaves on Sunday; he will be banqueted previous to his departure.

The roundabout mail from Collie, via Bullagreen, due here at 5 p.m. yesterday, has not yet arrived, presumably owing to flooding of the creeks.

GOSFORD, TUESDAY.

It is understood that Sir Henry Parkes will reach here on the morning of Tuesday, April 5.

GRENFELL, TUESDAY.

The Rev. A. R. Raymond, Church of England clergyman, is leaving here for Gippsland. He was entertained at a farewell tea meeting last night, and afterwards at a public meeting, presided over by Mr. Robertson, C.P.S., when he was presented with a purse of sovereigns and an address. Mrs. Raymond was presented with a purse of sovereigns also. Rev. Walter T. Ellis, of Sydney, formerly of Wilcannia, succeeds Mr. Raymond here.

Peter Downey, whilst in a fit of delirium tremens, consequent upon drink, made an attempt to split open his wife's head by means of an axe. Downey has been remanded for medical treatment.

The weather is dry, and present prospects are most alarming.

HILLSTON, TUESDAY.

Robert Watson, resident of the district for 12 years, was accidentally drowned in the Lachlan River, near Hillston, on Sunday.

INVERELL, TUESDAY.

A successful meeting of the Little Plain Protection League was held at Collins's hotel last night. The President (Mr. G. A. Cruickshank, M.L.A.) in the chair. The attendance was very good. Several matters were fully discussed, including the question of seed wheat and other subjects affecting the farmers generally. The President delivered a short address on political affairs touching at length on the land question.

KANGAROO VALLEY, TUESDAY.

On Sunday evening last the Rev. Dr. Corlette, of Ashfield, preached a farewell sermon in connection with the approaching departure of Mr. and Mrs. Alick Osborne, who leave for Europe on Saturday next, accompanied by their daughters and younger sons. A handsome sapphire bracelet was yesterday presented to Mrs. Osborne, as a memento from their tenants in this place and Jamberoo, and also an address, magnificently illuminated by Messrs. John Sands and Co., from the residents here. In the evening some 900 people were entertained at a garden party at Barrengarry, Mr. Osborne's residence. Mr. and Mrs. Osborne's absence will be much felt by the inhabitants of this district.

The Kangaroo Valley Turf Club races will be held on Friday next, having been postponed from the 18th instant.

Mr. Joseph L. Diggins, of the Pioneer Hotel, died to-day of typhoid fever contracted after the Robertson show.

KIAMA, TUESDAY.

At a meeting of the Gerringong Municipal Council, a letter was received from the Board of Health, inquiring what action had been taken in the matter of the administration of the Dairies Supervision Act, and the clerk was instructed to reply that the council had taken no action, as the aldermen did not think it necessary to do so, the milk in this district being converted into butter or cheese, in which case, according to a previous letter from the Board of Health, the Act has no application. A letter was to hand from the Colonial Secretary, announcing that Mr. Hugh Mitchell had been appointed an alderman under the provisions of the 92nd section of the Municipalities Act.

LISMORE, TUESDAY.

At a meeting of the Borough Council last night it was resolved to ask the Government to extend the Sydney-Tenterfield mail to Lismore, as is done to Casino, where they get the Sydney mails four times a week.

63 points of rain have fallen here.

MURWILLUMBAH, TUESDAY.

There were showers here and at Brunswick on Saturday night and Sunday; it is now raining steadily.

NEWCASTLE, TUESDAY.

A respectable girl, named Mary M'Donald, was charged at the Police Court to-day with having attempted to destroy herself at Stockton on the 14th instant, by taking "Rough on Rats." The accused, who said she had taken the poison in mistake, was remanded till Saturday next.

PARKES, TUESDAY.

A magisterial inquiry was held this morning into the circumstances of the death of Richard Dean. It was found that death was caused by "Rough on Rats," self administered.

PATERSON, TUESDAY.

Sixty-five points of rain fell here yesterday.

Thursday will be observed as a public holiday here, in honour of the annual agricultural show of Dungog. It promises to be a great success this year, and will be opened on Wednesday by Mr. H. H. Brown, member for the district.

WAGGA, TUESDAY.

Mr. David Buchanan is announced to deliver an address on protection in the Oddfellows' Hall, on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Protection League.

WILCANNIA, TUESDAY.

The weather to-day is extremely oppressive and sultry. It looked very threatening, but has now apparently cleared up.

YOUNG, TUESDAY.

During two personation cases in connection with the late election, heard at Murrumburrah on Thursday last, in which the defendants were committed for trial, it transpired that Mr. Barnes, who is returning-officer for Murrumburrah, made and swore to a declaration of his having presided at Harden. Mr. Russell, solicitor for defendant, applied for a dismissal on that ground, but objection was disallowed.

PICTON.

A branch of the Free Trade Association has been formed here. Upwards of 100 members have already joined. Messrs. W. R. Antill, J.P., H. Fletcher, J.P., and F. Sprat, have been elected vice-presidents, Mr. G. Bradbury, J.P., hon. secretary, and G. B. Foster, hon. treasurer. The weather for some days has been very threatening, but rain still holds off. Grass and water are failing fast, and the dry weather prevents any winter fodder being got in. The outlook for the coming winter is a gloomy one for stock-holders and farmers.

A FAMOUS GENERAL.

A great general once observed that the English soldiers were in the best humour when they were well supplied with beef, the Irish with wine, and the Scotch with Walker's Whisky.—[ADVT.]

THE MINISTER FOR LANDS IN THE WEST.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BOURKE, TUESDAY.

The Hon. J. Brunker, Minister for Lands, arrived by the mail train to-night, accompanied by Mr. W. W. Davis, junior member for Bourke, who joined him at Byrock. Mr. Davis introduced Mr. Brunker to a large number of the prominent residents. A cavalcade then drove to the Royal Hotel, where the Minister was formally welcomed by the Mayor (Mr. W. H. Daniell), who said they were glad to welcome the Minister for Lands to Bourke. The country was in a deplorable state, and one of the principal things necessary to remedy the existing distress undoubtedly was a good land bill. The drought and defective land measures had worked together. He trusted the visit of the Minister would conduce to the benefit of the district and the colony at large. He proposed the health of Mr. Brunker, which was drunk with acclamation.

Mr. BRUNKER returned thanks. He was pleased to have been able to see as much of the Western country, as he already had from looking out of the train. The country, he could easily recognise, was suffering from drought. His visit to the West would better qualify him for his position. He had no idea that New South Wales was so rich in pastoral lands. He could see that all that was necessary to make New South Wales great and wealthy was that necessary interest and weight should be given to the claims of pastoralists. The laws should be liberal. In this district there were men who had the necessary energy and enterprise to work successfully for themselves and the State. In his position, all he could say was that he would do all he could to assist in rendering more fertile and more useful these Western lands. His only aim was to advance the interests of the country. He recognised no party and no creed whatever in matters relating to the welfare of the colony. Some persons said no good would result from his visit to this district, but he thought that with his previous 30 years' experience, and with what Mr. Davis, their junior member, would show him during his trip round, the experience thus gained must be beneficial. His stay would only be limited, but he would make the best use of his time. All he did would tend to the advancement of the country. All could rely on his advancing as much as possible the important interest under his control.

The meeting, which was a purely informal one, then dispersed. The formal reception of the Minister, together with probably Messrs. M'Millan, Carruthers, Gould, Waddell, Willis, Davis, and about a dozen other members of Parliament takes place on Saturday night next, when all will be entertained at a banquet.

THE FRUIT-GROWING INDUSTRY.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

GOULBURN, TUESDAY.

At a meeting of fruit-growers last evening the following resolutions were carried for transmission to the conference of the Fruit-growers' Union, no local delegates being able to attend:—"That this meeting, considering the very great importance of the fruit-growing industry of New South Wales, believes that immediate legislation is necessary for its progress and full development." "That Parliament be asked to frame and pass without delay a short bill dealing effectually with the codlin moth and other pests, and placing the whole of the fruit industry upon a better footing." "That the delay in forwarding and delivery of fruit consigned to the Sydney market is vexatious, and causes serious loss to the country growers, and ought to be at once rectified, and more central and larger market accommodation provided in Sydney."

THE ALBURY FARMERS' UNION.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALBURY, TUESDAY.

At the last meeting of the Farmers' Union, Tenmile Creek, a letter was read from the kindred association at Wallendbeen, suggesting amalgamation with that body. The letter enclosed a pamphlet setting forth the lines for a general amalgamation of protective organisations. It was decided to postpone consideration of this proposal till the next meeting. An opinion, however, was expressed to the effect that this object of the union might advantageously be extended to a number of questions not hitherto dealt with. One of these was the subject of railway rates for produce. One speaker remarked that the Victorian duty of 9d. per bushel had been spoken of as a great hardship to wheatgrowers, but it was no worse than the injury caused by the heavy railway freights. Empty trucks were continually running which would be filled with produce if the rates to Sydney were not prohibitive. It would be better to reduce the rate to one-third of the present charge, and thus allow the farmers to compete with New Zealand, Victoria, and California, than allow trains to run empty.

TRADES MOVEMENTS.

An adjourned meeting of the Amalgamated Journeymen Tailors' Association was held at the Trades Hall last evening—the president, Mr. James Kelly, in the chair. A letter was read from a female operative stating that she had noticed that the condition of the female workers in the trade had been brought before the association. The lady in question urged that something should be done towards ameliorating the present condition of the female workers, and suggested among other things the formation of an association of female labour that would embrace all classes. It was resolved to refer the letter and the circular dealing with the employment of female labour by certain tailoring firms to the detriment of the unionists to the meeting of the executive to be held on Friday night. Eight new members were admitted to the society.

The executive committee of the Trades and Labour Council met at the Trades Hall last evening, Mr. Lennon in the chair. It was decided to protest to the Government and to the City Council against the proposed leasing of the streets of the city, for the purpose of running trams, to any person or persons.

CASUALTIES.

Yesterday a mariner named Thomas Holmes, aged 54 years, who is the master of the brig Lalla Rookh, was going on board his vessel when he slipped and fell into the water. Fully five minutes elapsed before he was rescued, and he was admitted to the hospital in an insensible condition. After being placed under treatment he was soon in a fair way of recovery.

A labourer named John Medbury, aged 23 years, residing at No. 26, Cornwallis-street, Redfern, was driving a horse and cart along Moore's-road, Miller's Point, yesterday, and when urging the horse uphill he received a kick in the abdomen. He was admitted to the hospital for treatment.

The man John Joseph Farrelly, who was kicked by a horse while assisting to help the animal on to its legs at Circular Quay on Monday, and who was afterwards taken to the Sydney Hospital, died in the institution at about noon yesterday. An inquest will be held to-day.

THE IMPERIAL INSTITUTE.

The question of the Imperial Institute is likely to be brought prominently before the public of Sydney in a few days, owing to the visit of Sir Somers Vine, who is accredited by the Prince of Wales to visit the Australian colonies, to explain the objects of the Institute, and to secure the co-operation of these colonies. Sir Somers Vine, who has only just arrived in Sydney, has already put the matter in train by calling upon the Governor and Sir Henry Parkes, to whom he has explained the object of his visit, and the aims of the institute. There appears to have been an initial difficulty in the fact that an impression had got abroad that the Imperial Institute was a political institution, intended in some way to bring about a federation of the Empire. But the scope of the institute, according to the explanation given by Sir Somers Vine, is altogether of a different character. It does not profess in any way to dictate a political policy. Its objects are entirely of a commercial and material nature. In visiting Queensland Sir Somers thus explained the reasons why he has sought these shores. He said: "The object of my business is to lay the purely business functions of the Institute before the Governments of the various colonies. I would, however, first of all, desire to remove any belief which may have arisen in the minds of colonists that the Institute has any political significance. It is utterly apart from politics, either home or colonial. Its establishment is, of course, commemorative, but it has been organised, and will be carried on, simply for commercial purposes. The Prince of Wales wishes that to be distinctly understood. Now, there are two points in connection with the Institute which it is necessary should be thoroughly clear. One is the organisation or promotion of commercial museums, or perhaps sample-rooms would better describe them; the other the establishment of an intelligence department—a commercial intelligence department which will embrace the whole of the Empire." In order to carry this out, it is contemplated to erect a central building in London, with branches in all the principal towns of the old country. And as regards the central institute in London, funds have already been subscribed to an extent that leads to the belief that the building will be completed in about two years from the present time. Under the charter a capital of £140,000 is to be raised as an endowment fund to carry out the purposes of the Institute, and this sum is already in hand. The idea is to form an exhibition and collection of samples of economic and industrial products from each of the colonies. One of the circulars issued by the Institute says—"It is hoped to obtain from each colony a series of samples of all natural products in the raw state, namely, as first procured from the field or forest, quarry, or mine, and of samples in the various stages of preparation and manufacture, of all products the utilisation of which has been more or less completely developed. It is suggested that specimens of raw materials should be shown in the form of an "index" collection, to correspond with an alphabetical and descriptive catalogue, so as to provide for ready reference and examination. . . . . Another branch of the collection, and which may be appropriately termed the "Commercial" collection, to distinguish it from the "Index" collection, is that which will possess the most direct practical value, and will undoubtedly prove of real service to the commercial interests of a colony. It would consist, in the first place, of a series of samples of all natural products of a known utility in every stage of preparation and manufacture, as developed at the time. In the second place, it would include samples of natural products which are either novel at the time, or have not, up to the date of formation of the collection, been in any way utilised. These samples would necessarily require to be continuously maintained, obsolete specimens being removed and replaced by others representing their condition and commercial position at the most recent date." It is hoped in course of time to establish experiments upon these raw materials, to endeavour to find some utility for those articles which are not as yet used, and to find additional avenues of usefulness for those articles which are at present partially utilised. Sir Somers Vine says it is not intended that the sample rooms shall be mere dry museums, but the products will be so placed that manufacturers will be able to judge whether they can be made available, and if not the reason will be explained to the producers. If wool be shown, for instance, it will be open for the manufacturers to point out what particular qualities are most suitable for particular purposes, and also to suggest such alterations and improvements in the manner of preparation as will increase the commercial value of the article. Should minerals in the shape of ores be exhibited, the smelter or refiner will be informed of the cost of production, the rates of carriage to port of shipment, the freight to England, and the further charges on arrival. In the case of timber, again, the manufacturer will be able to see the sample, and to get information as to the price, supply available, and so on, and, furthermore, he will be allowed to take a sample away with him for the purpose of experimenting upon it. Each separate colony would have a court of its own, and the idea was to exhibit in each court a collection as complete as possible of the products of the colony. A valuable aid to the usefulness of the museum would be the dictionary or catalogue, or index of the articles exhibited. Every care would be taken in the preparation of this work. Each production would be accurately described, and all information concerning it likely to assist in its commercial development would be given. A dictionary of the Economic Products of India has already been prepared, which may be taken as a model upon which the description of colonial products may be prepared. In the case of a plant, for instance, its habitat is given, and mode of growth or cultivation described. A botanic diagnosis is given, and then an account is given of its gum, dye, fibre, or medicinal properties, uses for food, &c. Then, in dealing with the timber, its structure, colour, grain, susceptibility to polish, and general uses are described, and, where possible, statistical information relative to the production, consumption, and export of the articles is added. In point of fact, the dictionary will contain the latest and most reliable information with regard to every article in the exhibition.

Another very important branch of the Institute is that known as the Commercial Intelligence Department. With regard to this branch, Sir Somers Vine says it is proposed to collect in a more systematic manner than has hitherto been done, every possible kind of information with regard to the commercial interests of the Empire. Great Britain, as Sir Somers points out, is essentially a manufacturing country; she can supply the colonies with everything they want in the way of manufactured articles, and she offers to the colonies the best market in the world for the raw materials they produce. In this way the mother-country and the colonies may unite for their mutual and material advantage. It was hoped by means of this department to feel the pulse, as it were, of commerce and trade, so as to see exactly at all times what its present position is, with a view to forecast what it might become. Certain forms had been prepared to be filled up in the colonies from time to time with answers to questions carefully prepared, and the information thus supplied would find its way to every portion of the British Empire. It is proposed to appoint agents in every part of the Empire where there is a trade or a probability of establishing a trade, whose duty it would be from time to time to collect the information required, and forward it on to the central institute. One of the forms alluded to contains questions on the following subjects:—(a) As to harbour accommodation and light dues; (b) railway transport fares and freights; (c) inland navigation (if any); (d) general condition of the export trade; (e) details of foreign-made goods annually imported into Great Britain and re-exported to colony; (f) the extent and value of the import trade by vessels other than British; (g) the expediency of the colony's adoption of a classification, similar to that of the home country Customs Department, particularly in respect of textile fabrics; (h) bounty questions (if any); (j) the law affecting the security or validity of patents, trade marks, registration of designs, &c.; (k) progress of colonial inventions or improvements in manufactures; (l) the progress of industrial developments in the colony. All this information will be embodied in the journal of the institute, as well as the following:—Part 1, export trade; information relating to colonial and Indian demands for home produce and goods imported into the United Kingdom. Such information would embrace prices, modes of packing, overland transport, Customs duties, fresh openings for trade, and information regarding the export trade of Continental States where it competes with British trade, and where it deals with matters new to British trade. Part 2 will deal with the import trade. Part 3, with general commercial information, such as tenders for contracts called in the colonies, &c., with details; information of a special character as to shipping or land transport; legal and legislative matters, including decisions in civil and maritime courts, bounty questions, changes in tariff, &c. Part 4. Notification of changes in patents, &c.; new natural products; adulterations or other fraudulent practices of foreign manufactures. Part 5. Statistics comprising topographical and meteorological details, harbour accommodation, &c. Part 6. Official notifications bearing on trades and industries; information on technical education; and information relating to emigration and colonisation. The importance of information of this kind to merchants desirous of opening up business with the colonies will be apparent at once. It will be seen that the main object of the Imperial Institute is to unite the commercial interests of Great Britain with those of her dependencies and colonies, and from its operations and benefits all foreigners will be strictly excluded, unless, perhaps, at some future time our American cousins, who can scarcely be called foreigners, may be included. Sir Somers Vine will visit all the Australian colonies, and will in each explain the nature of the Imperial Institute and the work it expects to accomplish. He speaks in high terms of his reception in Queensland, where, he says, the leading men listened most attentively to his explanations, which they carefully examined and criticised, finally agreeing with him that the proposed institute was likely to be of service as well to the colony as to the mother country.

In the course of his interview with the Premier, Sir Somers Vine stated that the chief object that he had in view was to organise correspondence branches for the Intelligence Department of the Institute, so that the latest and most accurate information from all parts of the British Empire might be collected and made available for the public; and to secure from each of the colonies a fair representation of their natural and other products for the museum which is to be established in connection with the Institute. He also explained the purpose for which the Institute has been established, and the lines upon which it is proposed to conduct its business. He did not say a single word as to a money grant in any form. Sir Henry Parkes promised to bring the objects of Sir Somers Vine's visit before his colleagues, so that the Government may take whatever action may be deemed advisable with regard to the matter.

THE REFORMATION.

LECTURE BY THE PRIMATE.

The third of a series of lectures on the "Reformation," in connection with the Association of Lay Helpers, which are being given by Bishop Barry, was delivered yesterday evening in St. Andrew's Cathedral. There was a large attendance of the public, and the lecture was prefaced by a short religious service.

The PRIMATE, in commencing his lecture, stated that its particular subject was the "Reformation in the reign of Edward VI.," and before entering on the details of the position at this time, he briefly summed up the state of the Church under Henry VIII., when the stronghold of the Papacy in England had been attacked by the assumption of the Royal supremacy by that monarch. This state of affairs, he showed, marked a complete revolt from the Papal authority, whilst at the same time the work of the Reformation under Cranmer and the other reforming bishops had gone steadily on. First and above all was the publication of the great English Bible, its reading in the churches, and its circulation all over the country. This paved the way for the appearance of the English Prayer-book, and marked a claim on the part of the English Church to determine doctrine for itself. The matter stood in this way when Henry VIII. died and left his crown to a boy of nine years' old. Scarcely was Henry dead when his will was set aside by the assumption of the protectorate by the Duke of Somerset, who held for three years almost unlimited powers in the name of his ward. He was an ambitious man, with great aspirations, and was definitely resolved to push on the reformation of the Church. But he had little strength of character, and although he was able to conceive grand ideas, he could not grasp them and carry them out. The young king was but a boy, and his influence such as it was was indirect, and all the power was in the hands of Somerset. Meanwhile, on the Continent the movement of reformation was gaining strength, and Calvin was about this time at the zenith of his power. After many vicissitudes he had established himself at Geneva, and exercised an austere religious theocracy, which extended its influence over the whole of religious Europe. The Calvinistic system had great power, owing to its severe logical consistency, and seemed for the moment to sweep all before it, being as intolerant on the one hand as the Roman system was on the other. Somerset himself was probably a disciple of Calvin, and certainly he was in correspondence with him. In England it was immediately felt that the strong hand of Henry VIII. was withdrawn, and disasters commenced to accumulate around the domestic and foreign policy of the country, and the revolutionary movement commenced to gain strength. However, the resolution was taken to push forward the great work of religious reformation, and the party represented by Gardiner was reduced to impotence, and Gardiner himself was finally sent to the Tower. The royal supremacy, which formerly had been against the work, was now helping it on, and was a strong influence, doing under God's guidance great work for good. The first step was the issue of instructions for the visitation of the churches, to see that reforms were carried out, and that superstitious observances were abolished. On the whole this visitation, with all its drawbacks, did much good, and at this time the first book of Homilies was published, which contained much strong Scriptural teachings. This book was put forward for compulsory use, to push on the doctrines of the Retormation, and the Bible was set up for reading in all the churches. Parliament, also, was not idle, and several measures in aid of the cause were passed. All this was the work of religious reformation, but the next step of the Government was of a much more mixed and unsatisfactory character. It was called the Chantries Bill, to suppress the chantries and turn their revenues into the royal coffers. These chantries, although private foundations, formed a part of the Church property, and, therefore, this was the first confiscation of Church property. Something indeed was done to make proper use of these revenues, for many of the grammar schools and other great foundations of Edward VI. dated from this period. Foreign divines were also invited to occupy the chairs of theology at the English universities, and there was a tendency to bring in the Calvinistic system of theology. Another effect produced was a sort of passion for what was called simplicity in the religious service, which curiously enough took the form of a vestment controversy. Thus there were two effects produced, one doctrinal, and the other ritual; and the fact that such a man as Hooper should have made these things a matter of principle, shows the importance with which they were looked upon. The next great step was the issue of the First Prayer-book in 1549, but this book of course was not the Prayer-book at present used, for there were very marked differences in the communion, baptismal, and occasional services. One thing, however, was clear—that the great current of English opinion at this time was distinctly conservative in matters of religion. The desire for the Prayer-book was only a concentration and purification of the earlier church services. The substance of the book showed that the desire was to preserve and purify the old, and not to invent new doctrines. The one object of those who drew up this book was to get at the primitive Catholic truth, and they endeavoured to keep very distinctly to the Scriptural Catholic doctrine, and he thought he could undertake, from the preambles of the Collects alone, to make out a distinct doctrine of the Catholic faith. The book laid hold of the truth as expressed in days gone by, and set forth purely the relations of man to God. The Prayer-book was almost universally received in the churches, only two objections being made to it, and only a few of the clergy refusing to use it; and even afterwards, in the reign of Elizabeth, the Pope offered to recognise the English Prayer-book, if only his supremacy were acknowledged. These reforms marked the protectorate of Somerset; but when the new administration of Northumberland came in, matters were much changed, although the Reformation still continued to make progress, for a revolutionary spirit in matters of religion was abroad. Against Cranmer's wish, and largely in consequence of foreign influence, it was determined to revise the Prayer-book, and a new one was issued in 1552, although the book had hardly been two years in use. The most important change made was in the service of Holy Communion, which was brought somewhat near to our present form. The whole service was recast, with the view of keeping out even the very slightest approach to the doctrine of "Transubstantiation." Still the character of the book remained practically the same; and whether the changes were for the better or not, is a matter for controversy. This book could never have come into very general use, for six months after its issue King Edward was dead, and the reaction under Queen Mary had set in. Edward also died before the religious articles which were drawn up at the close of his reign could be put in force, and they only remained of interest to us because they formed the originals of the Thirty-nine Articles finally drawn up and adopted in the reign of Elizabeth. To the death of Edward a wonderful reaction set in, and what that reaction was he would trace in his next lecture. Summing up this reign of Edward, it would be seen, the Primate stated, that the Reformation had become firmly established, and that the religious freedom which the Church enjoyed at the present day was inaugurated, the independence of the national Church of England being for the first time recognised. In conclusion he pointed out that the three permanent benefits resulting from this reign were the issue of an English Bible, an English Prayer-book, and the recognition of the independence of the National Church, and these advantages thus gained had never been lost. However, in spite of all these benefits, there was much that was to be regretted mixed up in this work of reformation, which had, perhaps, been carried on too rapidly, and this undoubtedly paved the way for the unhappy reaction which set in during the next reign, and on which he would dwell during his next lecture.

FRUIT GROWING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—During this week we are to have a conference of "fruit-growers" (so they style themselves). May I suggest that one of the first papers read should be, "How to grow their fruit," and the next, "How to handle and pack it." How is it we never see any first-class pears in the fruit markets? Such sorts as Marie Louise and Winter Nelis are worth 20s. per case. There's money in this; but time is necessary for this class of fruit and superior cultivation. "Plant pears for your heirs" is as true now as it was of old; but we must do everything in a hurry here, and where a man should only plant one hundred trees he goes in for a thousand—too much land and too many trees, my friends. There ought to be an experimental nursery for the trial of fruits, so as to find out their names and qualities, and also for young men to learn horticulture in a thorough manner. All thanks to such men as Mr. C. B. Cairnes, of Parramatta, who has not spared time or money to improve the condition of the fruit-growers. I am, &c.,

GEORGE MORTIMORE.

WELCOME TO THE REV. JOHN FORDYCE, M.A.

The Rev. John Fordyce, M.A., the newly-appointed pastor of the Congregational Church, Point Piper-road, Woollahra, was welcomed last evening by the congregation and a large number of friends in the diocese. The ceremonies took the form of a tea and public meeting, the former being held in the old church building, and the latter in the imposing edifice, the Point Piper-road Congregational Church. Elaborate preparations were made for receiving the rev. gentleman, who last evening found himself surrounded by some hundreds of wellwishers and friends at the tea meeting, which opened at half-past 6 in the schoolroom. After this meeting the public meeting was held in the church, which was filled in every part by members of the congregation anxious to see and eager to hear their new pastor, who has come from Belfast at the express wish of the congregation to administer the affairs of the parish. Mr. J. R. Fairfax presided, and there were also present upon the platform the Revs. Dr. Jefferis, J. W. Davies, T. S. O. Mell, G. Campbell, J. G. Fraser, S. Savage, and the secretary (Mr. Richardson). After addresses had been read from the deacons, the members of the Sunday School and the church, the Chairman, on behalf of the Church, welcomed the reverend pastor and his family, hoping that he would enjoy long continued health, strength, blessings, and power to teach the Gospel of salvation and the way of life eternal, and that in this milder climate Mr. Fordyce would find increased health; and though scenes and people might seem strange at first, a loving circle would subsequently surround him. The deacons expressed their desire that he should never feel anxiety respecting the temporal matters of the Church. They believed it to be their duty, being supported by the Church and congregation, to retain the whole responsibility in that respect, being convinced that the solemn duties connected with the pastoral care devolving upon a Christian minister were sometimes more than sufficient for him to bear. By God's help, the deacons, the church members, and people, by their devotedness, affection and sympathy would strive to lighten his work. In the letter written to give information about the church, which Mr. Albert Spicer duly forwarded, the deacons endeavoured to state very clearly and truthfully the condition of things as they were at the date of writing. A church without a pastor, and consequently weakened organisations, was difficult to keep together, and since the retirement of the late esteemed pastor, the Rev. S. Bryant, the deacons had had times of anxiety, but God had been with them, and they felt that He would direct them and send a new servant of His to them. Although months of uncertainty had passed, he was now with them as their pastor, chosen, they believed, by the Great Master, and they were led to believe this from the evidence which came to them not only from Belfast and from London, but also by the voices of some ministers and friends present with them that night. His fame had preceded him, and they knew of his work and usefulness in the old lands. The Belfast papers told them of his work in that city, not only in the Church, but in philanthropy and in temperance movements. They read, too, of friends who parted with him in affectionate sorrow. In conclusion, they trusted that the joy with which they welcomed him, and those so dear to him, might do a little to assuage the grief of breaking his ties in the old country. Finally, they wished—in the name of Him in whose service he had come to the church—a loving welcome. The deacons and members of the church had a debt of gratitude to pay to the ministers in this and other colonies, who had helped them since Mr. Bryant's retirement. It was owing to the constant and kindly aid thus given that the church and congregation had been kept up. Now that they again had a settled pastor, under God's guidance, with an increased population in the neighbourhood, not many years might elapse before they would be able to complete the full design of the church building. (Applause.)

The Revs. Dr. JEFFERIS, J. G. FRASER, T. S. O. MELL, and G. CAMPBELL delivered short speeches, welcoming Mr. Fordyce, of whom they spoke in the most congratulatory terms.

The Rev. J. FORDYCE, in replying to the addresses and kindly sentiments expressed by those present, said he hoped that he would long be their pastor not alone in that sense, but in respect of fellowship and Christian feeling. He had visited them, and he hoped they would visit him, and that they would allow him to teach the young people, and to use his religious knowledge and experience to their best advantage. He was going to try and do the work of an Evangelist and teacher to them, and to emulate the teachings of Christ in asking them to work with him for the general good of the people. He hoped to have the strength that the chairman made allusion to, to aid him in his work, and being one of the old-fashioned fanatical teetotallers, that he would be able to stir them up to his way of thinking. This colony, he believed, had the unenviable notoriety of spending more per head in drink than any other colony in Australasia, and his only consolation was that it was very dear. (Laughter.) They would find him with a warm heart in the old-fashioned way of trying to make their lives lives of sobriety and happiness. (Applause.) In conclusion, he thanked them all for their hearty sympathy and cordiality, and said he would do all he could in this new and beautiful land to further their and its interests.

The Rev. S. SAVAGE also addressed the meeting, which terminated shortly before 10 o'clock.

PICNIC TO MR. J. JOHNSON.

On Saturday last, Mr. James Johnson, one of the oldest wool buyers in the colony, who is about visiting Europe, was entertained at a picnic at Sandringham. The attendance numbered about 50 gentlemen, representing the following companies and firms, viz.:—Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, Hill, Clark, and Co., Dalgety and Co., J. H. Geddes and Co., John Bridge, New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company, Winchcombe, Carson, and Co., A. Hinchcliffe, Son, and Co., Montefiore, Joseph, and Co., Hick and Co., Johnson and Vicars, Eve Brothers, Haigh and Son, Flood and Co., M. Metcalfe and Co., China Traders Company, Ostermeyer, Dewez, and Co., A. Lamb and Co., G. Anderson, C. Swinbourne, F. L. Barker, Mason Brothers, and Chas. Stead.

Mr. Joseph Abbott, M.L.A., presided, being supported in the vice-chair by Mr. John Hinchcliffe.

Mr. ABBOTT, in proposing the health of the guest, said he felt peculiar pleasure in meeting them on that occasion, indeed it was always a pleasure to meet those connected with the trade; but on that occasion he had no "lots" to offer, no "wares" to sell, and the only "bids" he would crave of them were that they would bid their esteemed friend and guest godspeed and bon voyage. They were all more or less attached to the wool business, primarily of course because it afforded to many of them a means of livelihood; but associations had grown up round them in their daily work which rendered their occupation attractive in itself. Strange as it might appear to some, friendships had grown up side by side with the severest competition. They opposed each other fairly and actively, but they respected good qualities wherever they found them. Their guest had witnessed the birth of the wool trade in the Australian colonies. When the late universally respected Mr. T. S. Mort inaugurated the Australian wool sales some 45 years ago, Mr. Johnson was in the field, and he had seen the colonial wool market in all its vicissitudes. He had witnessed the rise and decline of various individuals and firms connected with the trade, and he had seen the steady progress of others, until they had attained the colossal proportions which existed to-day. Their guest had commenced at the bottom rung of the ladder. He had had his reverses as well as his successes, but to-day held a position he might well be proud of, and which was mainly attributable to his incessant labour, indomitable courage, unswerving honesty, and straightforwardness. They entertained him that day not as possessing a monopoly of the good characteristics he (the speaker) had alluded to, but as a worthy representative of those qualities as they were found, he was proud to think, to exist to a large degree throughout the trade. He would not trouble them with many figures, but he found—and he referred to the matter as showing the importance of the trade—that for the year ending 31st December last the export of wool from this colony (not including that sent across the border) reached 397,271 bales of a value of between £5,000,000 and £6,000,000 sterling, and of this number some 200,000 bales were sold in the colony through the various brokers. With judicious management he anticipated that before long nearly the whole of the season's clip would be realised in Sydney. They were gratified to find that representatives from all the world's busiest centres visited the Sydney wool sales, and it would be the endeavour of the selling brokers to render this market increasingly attractive to all classes of buyers. He gave them the health of their guest, Mr. James Johnson, after a personal knowledge of that gentleman of some 26 years.

The toast was received with enthusiasm.

Mr. JOHNSON responded in feeling terms, remarking that he had been connected with the wool business for over 50 years.

"The Wool Trade" was proposed by Mr. JOHN HINCHCLIFFE in a pithy speech, and responded to by Messrs. HOPE, BUSCH, ANDERSON, and STEAD, in appropriate terms.

In proposing "The Foreign Buyers," Mr. HINCHCLIFFE alluded to the good feeling that existed between them and the other sections of the trade, and expressed the opinion that Sydney was destined to become the leading wool centre of Australia.

The remaining toasts were "The Parliament," "The Press," "The Ladies," and "The Chairman."

An agreement has been come to between Her Majesty's Government and the Belgian Ministry for regulating marriages between English and Belgian subjects. A form of declaration has been agreed upon which is to be signed by Belgians desiring to marry British subjects, to the effect that they are, according to the law of Belgium, capable of contracting a valid marriage. The declarations will be issued only from the Belgian Legation in London, and will not be obtainable from Belgian Consuls, as had at first been intended.

MUNICIPAL COUNCILS.

HURSTVILLE.

A meeting of the Municipal Council of Hurstville was held on Thursday. There were present the Mayor, H. Patrick, with Aldermen Milsop, Humphrey, Halstead, Osgood, Fripp, Bull, M'Rae, M.P., and Sproule, J.P. Correspondence: From the Department of Public Instruction, regarding the request made by a number of residents to establish a girls' department in connection with the Public school at Hurstville, and stating that the Minister having considered the matter, has acceded to the request. From the council clerk, Rockdale, intimating that his council could not approve of any tender for the Harrow-road unless the specification comprised the making up of the footpath on the Rockdale side, which was distinctly agreed to by the joint works committee. A discussion arose as to this matter. Alderman Fripp asked whether the engineer had submitted the specifications to the Rockdale Council, and if he did whether the footpaths on the Rockdale side were included. The Mayor, upon inquiry from the engineer, said the footpaths were included, and afterwards eliminated by this council. Alderman M'Rae held that this council must carry out the same under the circumstances, and it was finally decided to call for fresh tenders as per specification as approved of by the Rockdale Council in the first instance. From Mr. Daniel Treacey upon the subject of the vacating his premises as council chambers, and claiming two weeks' rent under various circumstances. It was resolved to give Mr. Treacy the two weeks' extra rent provided he gave the council a clear receipt of all demands. From the Australian Gaslight Company, informing the council that notwithstanding the serious loss sustained by the company last year in connection with the miners' strike, they would be willing to make a further reduction in the price of the public lights supplied to the Hurstville municipality, to the extent of 5s. each lamp per annum from the 1st of April next, on condition that the council agrees to increase the number of lights by 10 per cent. before 1st July next, and also the following addition to the existing contract as follows—that in lieu of three months' notice, the contract be terminated on 12 months' notice. The matter was referred to the lighting committee for report. Tender: Inspector of Nuisances. Mr. James Beaney's application was accepted at a salary of £80 per annum.

MARRICKVILLE.

The fortnightly meeting of this council was held on Monday, when there were present, the Mayor (Alderman J. Graham, J.P.), and Aldermen Farr, J.P., M'Coy, J.P., Catts, Davenport, Hardy, Harrison, Smith, Josephson, Cook, Bullock, and Moyse. Correspondence: From the Water Supply and Sewerage Department requesting the favour of the council taking charge of all standpipes erected in the borough, and intimating to that department monthly the quantity of water used therefrom. From the Gas Company, stating that, notwithstanding the loss that had been sustained by the recent strike, they were prepared to lower the cost per lamp per annum to the council from £5 10s. to £5 5s., to date from the 1st proximo, on condition that the council increase by 10 per cent. the number of lamps from July 1. Also, that a clause be inserted in the council's agreement with the company, that in the event of strikes they should not be called upon to supply the public lights, and specifying that the company should terminate the contract on giving 12 instead of three months' notice. Referred to the lighting committee. The finance committee's report containing the following recommendations was adopted:—"That accounts, amounting to £247 14s. 9d., be passed for payment; that an estimate be prepared of the cost of a plan of the different wards in the borough, to a size of about 5 x 4ft.; that the assistant council clerk receive an increase of salary from £32 10s. to £52 per annum; that the full committee had examined all the books, papers, vouchers, receipts, and documents connected with the late inspector of nuisances' department, and find that there was no ground for the charges made by the late inspector of nuisances against the council clerk, and that we entirely exonerate the council clerk from all blame." The report was adopted unanimously. The following recommendation from a committee appointed to re-name certain streets, when there are more than one street of the same name, was laid upon the table:—Albert-street, eastward, Clarence-street; Charles street, off Livingstone-road, Enfield-street; Fitzroy-street, westward, Oswald-street; Gordon-street, Pfoeffer's Estate, South-street; James-street, Beer's Estate, Beer-street; Maud-street, off Francis-street, Ann-street; Park-road, Warren Estate, Carrington-road; Park-street, East Ward, King-street; Meeks-street, York-road; Short-street, West Ward, Lincoln-street; Stanley-street, Yule's Estate, Hastings-street; Victoria-street, West Ward, Princes-street; William-street (Moyes), Leslie-street; William-street, eastward, Joseph-street; Woodland-street, South Ward, Gladstone-street; lane south of Norwood Park, Norwood-lane; Glen-street West, Bruce-street; Glen-street East, Wallace-street; Glen-street West, Beach-street; lane past Norwood Park, Norwood-lane, from Neville street to Park-road. The lighting committee's report, recommending that lamps be placed in a number of streets was adopted. The treasurer reported that there had been banked to borough account since last meeting £27 11s.; gas account, £4 16s. Balances: Borough account, dr. £2060 18s. 10d.; gas account, dr., £61 15s. 1d. The following motions were dealt with:—By Alderman Josephson,—"That the Fire Brigades Board be asked to connect the Dulwich-hill post-office with the Marrickville fire station direct by a telephone fire alarm." Carried. By Alderman Moyes,—"That the sum of £27 sterling be voted from the funds of the South Ward for a stone crossing in Harnett-avenue." Carried. By Alderman M'Coy,—"That the sum of £1427 be voted from the general funds of the borough (proportionately from each ward) to be placed to special or sewerage account for the purpose of more effectively carrying out the object of the council in improving the sewerage of the borough." Carried. "That whenever any ratepayer desires to have kerbing and guttering laid, and shall accompany his application with a contribution of 2s. 6d. per yard, the said application shall have a preference in being carried out, provided there are sufficient funds to credit of sewerage account to carry out the work." Carried. "That the sum of £50 be voted from the funds of North Ward from sewerage fund for a crossing to Middleton-street from Stanmore-road, as per report from the works committee." Carried. By Alderman Catts,—"That the sum of £25 be voted from the funds of North Ward for the purpose of relaying the kerbing and guttering in Stanmore-road in front of Mr. Brownlow's property." Carried. "That the sum of £10 be voted from the funds of the North Ward for forming portion of Malakoff-street as per report from works committee." Carried.

THE NAVIGATION OF THE HAWKESBURY AT WINDSOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Twelve years ago the Harbours and Rivers Department caused a survey to be made of the Hawkesbury River at Windsor. Again, in November last, the same department caused a flying survey to be made, and in the report submitted to the department on 29th idem, the district engineer, Mr. Kerle, reported very favourably of the probability of remedying the evil. Mr. Kerle recommended the formation of a bank so as to narrow the channel "by the use of fascines of ti-tree scrub, and the mud or sand dredged up from the cutting, as by the intelligent incorporation of these simple materials walls could be built sufficient to withstand the action of the current." And further, he says "I have not the least doubt that it would be successful." The Acting Engineer-in-Chief for Harbours and Rivers says, in a minute addressed to the Minister, "It would seem that although the information is lacking to enable me to state the extent of shoaling that has taken place, it is beyond question that the river for a distance of some five miles below Windsor is considerably shallower than it has been for some years. This, of course, is only what might be expected, owing to the dry seasons, and the calling off of the natural flow of the Nepean, which was a factor in assisting to keep the Hawkesbury deep. As this latter state of affairs may now be looked upon as a permanency, it is clear that if the channel is to be deepened we must look to artificial means to accomplish this end. I am quite with Mr. Kerle in his statement as to the utter uselessness of dredging unless the channel is confined to its limits, thus obtaining the full benefit of the small quantity of water coming down, and see no reason why a system similar to that adopted at Cook's River would not be successful." And I may say that the acting engineer estimated the probable cost at £8000. This, then, is the present position. A deputation from Windsor waited upon the Minister, and he promised to have a thorough survey made. The Christmas holidays caused delay, and the then Parkes Government shortly afterwards left office. In the Estimates for this year we find the following:—Trial Bay Harbour works, £10,000; bridge and punt, Myall River, £800; Macquarie Harbour, £13,500; improving navigation of the Darling and Murrumbidgee, £20,000, in addition to which latter quoted sum £17,500 has already been spent in the years 1883-6. These sums may be available for the purposes named, whilst, through want of proper representation, no money (with the exception of the cost of working a useless dredge some few years ago) has ever been spent upon the Hawkesbury at Windsor. This work should be claimed upon national grounds. It is acknowledged to be one of the finest, and certainly the most beautiful, rivers in Australia; and it is just as certain that to allow a river like the Hawkesbury to silt up, without some effort being made to remove the obstruction, is a national disgrace. If it were impracticable, or exceptionally costly, it might and should cause serious consideration. But when it is considered necessary to spend £37,500 in improving the navigation of the Murrumbidgee, it should not be considered unreasonable to spend £8000 upon "the Rhine" of Australia. This shutting up of the river at Windsor is a complete bar to tourists and others fully enjoying the whole 100 miles of beautiful scenery. They now disembark at Sackville Reach, and thus lose 25 miles of magnificent river views.

Turning from this aspect of the matter, we must also view it in the light of what it has done for Windsor. This town is the second oldest in the colony. For very many years it was most flourishing. For the past 10 years it has gradually but surely been drifting into decay. Why? Simply because the main avenue of access to the splendid districts lying beyond it is practically closed up. Why should the people here be thus fenced off from those who would naturally be the means of drawing supplies, and otherwise trading with residents in this town? No place can be prosperous unless constant communication and ready and easy access is available to those places from whence its support and trade are drawn. When I advisedly say that the difference made to Windsor by the loss, total loss, of its river trade is something considerably in excess of £120,000 per annum, you will see that the consideration is of some value. Only the other day one of the leading officers of the Railway Department, when on a visit to Windsor with Mr. Eddy, stated that the loss of traffic to the railway was very great, and that he well remembered seeing the railway yard crowded out with drays and carts filled with produce for despatch by rail. This is another consideration which should guide the Government in this matter. I need only add that no Parliamentary influence is required to aid those who desire the well-being of this community, as it must be patent to everyone that such a work as that mentioned herein must sooner or later be accomplished.

SHIPPING REPORTS, &c.

The steamer Fernmount, Captain D. Anthon, crossed the Port Macquarie bar at 2 p.m. on the 25th instant, and entered Sydney Heads at 5.30 p.m. on the 26th instant. Cargo: 341 bags maize, 3 hides, 35 pigs, 6 coops poultry, 10 cases eggs, 37 logs cedar.

The steamer Kiama, Captain W. Baxter, left Batemant's Bay at 10 a.m. on the 25th, called at Ulladulla, passed Cape St. George at 6.40 p.m. same date, and arrived at company's wharf at 5.40 a.m. on the 26th. Cargo: 30 pigs, 29 calves, 190 kegs butter, 180 bags bark, 3 bags oysters, 200 cheeses, 12 cases eggs, 8 coops fowls, and sundries.

By way of contrasting the coal consumption of steamers the following is striking, as showing what is being accomplished in marine engine improvements:—The Etruria, one of the well-known Cunard steamers, or greyhounds of the Atlantic, was only built in 1884, and yet her capacious furnaces require a daily votive offering of 350 tons of coal. The latest-built White Star liner, the Cufic, though not constructed as a greyhound, still designed to travel at fair speed, and of the same size as the Etruria, will only require about 35 tons a day, or one-tenth of the consumption of the older steamer. Not only does this economy of fuel mean so much money saved in purchase of motive power, but also a large additional freight-earning space, and a largely-diminished crew; the Etruria's hands, all told, amounted to 237—the Cufic will be run with 43.

The reports to hand of the direct home passenger trade from New Zealand are encouraging. The homeward tendency at this season of the year was exemplified in the last departure of the N. Z. S. Company's Tongariro. Several days before sailing date all her berths were engaged, with the exception of two in the saloon, five in the second-class, and seven in the steerage.

The Captain of the Orlando, through the Admiral, sent to the Auckland Harbour Board the following suggestions upon the Calliope Dock, which had occurred to him after consultation with the staff commander and carpenter of the ship. They related to marking the height of the water, latrines, pier for emptying refuse from, a pier to place the ship alongside when entering and leaving the dock, a camber and landing-place for boats, floating stages, six punts for cleaning down shorelines, docking guys and hawsers, a fresh-water service, and other requisites. The whole of the dock enclosure required cleaning up and fencing. Railings or iron stanchions with chains were required round the dock for the security of the crews of ships in dock. The workshops should also be completed.

It will be remembered that the red funnel (Union S. S. Company) steamer Rotomahana, now in this port, ran from Hobart to the Bluff at an average of over 14 knots speed the other day. The Rotomahana only had four boilers in for part of the trip, and five for a finish, so that she was not at top speed having a boiler (No. 6) unused. Now she was running against the big direct boat Arawa, which only beat her by five minutes, though the weather was bad, giving the great direct liner a big pull on the comparatively insignificant red funnel boat. In smooth water the latter passed the Arawa, but in a heavy sea the tables were turned, and yet in face of all this the navigating officer of the Arawa calmly observes "the Arawa came on at her usual rate of speed, no attempt being made to increase it. Had there been any racing, the Arawa would have left the other boat out of sight, and as it was, the Rotomahana was not in sight when the Arawa cleared Foveaux Strait."

The president, speaking at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Shipping, held in London on the 8th ultimo, said that a time might come when the Government would interfere less with shipping than they now did; but if the shipowner was to claim relief with hope of success he must conduct his business with such manifest consideration for the safety of ship and cargo, and the safety and comfort of the lives on board, that the State would have no justification for troublesome interference.

The Ardmore, from Newcastle, arrived at Anjer, February 8; The Airlie, at St. Nazaire, from Port Pirie, February 3; Belle of Arvon, at Valparaiso, from Newcastle; Gulf of Guinea, at Singapore, February 8, from Sydney; Northern Empire, at Manila, from Newcastle, February 15.

The schooner Buster, under charter from Mr. John Williams, will most likely get away to-day on a cruise to the South Seas.

The Gehon, 840 tons, Captain Louis Cosulich, cleared for Newcastle at Melbourne March 23. The Charlotte, 920 tons, Captain Charles Stern, cleared same day.

THE MAIL STEAMERS.

The P. and O. Company's R.M.S. Ballaarat left Melbourne yesterday, for Sydney, at 4.25 p.m.

The N. G. L. mail steamer Nurnberg leaves for Bremen, via usual ports of call, to-day.

The P. and O. Company's R.M.S. Carthage arrived at Plymouth on the morning of the 25th instant.

The R.M.S. Rome arrived at Suez on the morning of the 25th instant.

The R.M.S. Arcadia arrived at Colombo on the morning of the 25th instant.

PASSENGERS PER NURNBERG.

The North German Lloyd Imperial Mail Steamer Nurnberg, to leave here to-day for Bremen via ports, will have the following passengers:—From Sydney for Genoa, Southampton, and Bremen: Mrs. Fein, Mrs. Sander and infant, Mrs. Heinemann, Miss O. Heinemann, Miss L. Heinemann, Mrs. Schwarzburger, Mrs. Engler, Mrs. Fabian, Miss Anna Fabian, Miss Helena Fabian, Messrs. Otto Fein, Otto Sander, J. Hertz, A. Forsythe, Robt. B. Smythe, F. Betz, Engley, Carl Schwarzburger, George Schwarzburger, Walter Schwarzburger, John Kline, C. R. Wester, Colonel Hobbs, Captain Jackel, Messrs. Heynemeire, W. Nauen, R. Fabian, Gustav Fabian. From Melbourne to Genoa, Southampton, and Bremen: Mrs. Katzmaier, Miss Katzmaier, Mrs. Gregorson, Mrs. A. Hubner, Misses Hubner (2), Mrs. N. Hubner, Mrs. Rolser and 3 children, Messrs. Katzmair, Gregorson, von Dobejewsky, Dewez, A. Hubner, N. Hubner, Frommel. From Adelaide to Genoa, Southampton, and Bremen: Mrs. Cave, Misses Cave (3), Mrs. R. Bickford, Miss Bickford, Miss A. Cave, Miss Korff, Miss E. Bickford, Messrs. Steiner, H. Cave, A. Cave, L. Cave, R. Bickford, E. Bickford, and about 200 in the other classes for all ports.

A FREE STEAMER FERRY.

The first free Thames ferry at Woolwich may now be reported almost complete, says a home paper. The ferry steamers will carry horses and carriages on a raised saloon deck above the deck for passengers. A double approach road has been formed at North Woolwich, as the public highway runs parallel with the river, but on the south side the centre of the town is entered at once by widening an old and narrow lane called Nile-street. One of the steamers has been at Woolwich running trial trips. There are two of them, and they are both ready to commence. In expectation of a large traffic they have been built of ample size, and they will each be furnished with powerful electric lights, by the aid of which it is hoped they will be able to cross the river during fogs such as frequently stop railway steamers. The Great Eastern Railway Company do not propose to continue their steamers after the ferry is opened, and their crews and pier-men are applying to the Metropolitan Board for employment. The extent to which the new ferry will be resorted to can only be conjectured, but it is thought probable that much of the carriage traffic which now passes over London Bridge to the east of London will pass through Woolwich, and the local authorities are fearing a block of their narrow thoroughfares, especially in the lower road, which is mainly occupied by the tramline. The ferry is provided and will be maintained at the cost of the metropolis, as are the West-end bridges. It is proposed to run the steamers every 10 minutes.

NIGHT SIGNALS AT SEA.—MELANCHOLY INCIDENT.

Attention has from time to time been called to the somewhat remarkable fact that there seems to be no definitely established code of signalling at sea by which ships can communicate with each other at night, or make known their requirements to people on shore. To this remarkable deficiency the loss of many ships and hundreds of lives must be attributed, and lately another melancholy instance occurred of the urgent necessity for promptly settling a comprehensible code. At Ilfracombe flash-lights were observed from some ship in the Channel; but the coastguards thought that she was merely signalling for a pilot. Late, however, information was received that the s.s. Lymington was on the Penstone Rock, and the coastguard started to her assistance with the rocket apparatus; but before they arrived the vessel sank with her crew, the cries of the drowning men being heard distinctly on shore. There can hardly be a doubt that, if the vessel's signals had been understood, some at least of the victims would have escaped.

NEW ZEALAND SHIPPING.

The Durisdeer, from Brisbane, arrived at Lyttelton on March 22; the Presto, from Newcastle, at Auckland March 16. The Pactole left Lyttelton March 20 for Sydney. The W. F. Witzman, for Sydney, and the Welcome and Menona for Melbourne, were reported as having left Kaipara March 20. The Mathilde Hennings left Timaru for London March 19. The Notero and Vivid, from Lyttelton, are bound to Sydney; the Wild Wave from Napier. Having had good despatch with her inward freighting of coal, the brigantine Oamaru cleared at the Customs for Sydney March 15, from Auckland. She proceeds thither via Matakana, where she is to take in 50,000ft. balk and 40,000ft. sawn timber for the New South Wales metropolis. She was towed out of port in the afternoon by the tug Awhina.

ARRIVALS OF HOMEWARD BOUND SHIPPING.

The arrival at London from Sydney of the Rodney appears elsewhere. She appears to have beaten the Sophocles, the Largo Law, and the Cicero, with a passage of 90 days. The Professor Johnson, from Sydney, arrived at Antwerp after a passage of 111 days. The General Gordon, from Melbourne, made a very fair run home of 90 days. All the other arrivals are over 100 day passages. They include the Alcestis, Eva, and Chili, from New Zealand ports; the John Rennie and Bertrand from South Australia; and the C. Tobias, from Brisbane.

DRY IMPERIAL CHAMPAGNE.

Messrs. Moet and Chandon are the largest vineyard proprietors and champagne producers in the world. Their Dry Imperial 1884 vintage is the pure juice of selected grapes from their own vineyards of 2500 acres in the choicest districts in France. It can now be obtained through any wine merchant in Australia. The Imperial Crown is in each corner of label, and 1884 branded on cork and label.—[ADVT.]

The thirty-fifth half-yearly report of the Civil Service Co-operative Society of New South Wales, for the period ended 31st January, to be submitted at a meeting of shareholders, states that the half-year's transactions had resulted in a net profit of £1058. From this the directors recommend the payment of a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum. This would absorb £349, leaving a balance of £709 to be applied in such manner as the shareholders may determine. The total receipts had amounted to £18,520.

It will be seen by our cable news that the abandoned project of a new Anglo-Australian Bank under the name of the Bank of England and Australia is revived under the name of the London and Melbourne Bank, the capital to be £2,000,000, of which a fourth is to be called up on an issue of 100,000 shares. The project, it seems, has been promoted by a Melbourne syndicate, probably as the result of the action of the banks in suddenly suspending accommodation some time back, a proceeding which was known to have given umbrage to certain persons who could not obtain the necessary assistance to carry on their land speculations. The success of the project will not improbably depend on the amount of criticism to which it may be exposed in the financial journals. A bank that will keep to legitimate business may find profitable scope for its operations; but if it is to help speculators to tide over difficult times, or in any way to support the land boom, its success will not be so assured.

In the case of Levy v. Richardson, heard before Mr. Justice Kay (says the Economist), the salutary rule was emphasised that when a man deals with an agent knowing him to be an agent, he is bound to inquire as to the extent of the agency, and if he does not inquire, he must be taken to know the limits of the agent's authority, and anything done by the agent beyond those limits is not binding upon the principal of that agent. The facts of the case were simple enough. The defendant, Miss Richardson, owned 30 Cape copper shares, and she instructed a Mr. H. Weerden to buy for her 25 more shares, the money to be obtained at 3½ per cent. from a firm of bankers upon the security of the original 30 shares. Weerden, however, deposited the transfers for the whole of the 55 shares with a Mr. Levy, from whom he obtained the specified advance, and also other advances, upon which he paid 5 per cent. interest. There was no evidence to show that Weerden had any authority to pursue this course, and it was also made clear that Levy had made the advances without due inquiry as to Weerden's position in the matter. It was rightly decided, therefore, that Levy had no claim against Miss Richardson for any advances made by him to Weerden, apart from the original advance which the latter was authorised to obtain.

In the Import market to-day there was very little business doing. The advance in the flour rates has not been maintained; and Australian roller is selling at £12 10s. to £13 10s.; New Zealand, at £11 10s. to £12; stone-makes, Australian, £11 10s. to £12; and New Zealand, £10 15s. to £11; South Australian and Victorian wheat, 5s. 3d. to 5s. 6d.; Californian, 4s. 10d. to 5s.; and New Zealand, 4s. 9d. to 5s. There is still some little inquiry for common tea for price; but there is little or none in the market, and so far no transactions have transpired, the day's business being confined to small sales. We note the sale of a quantity of elemes at 5d., 50 boxes of an auction catalogue sold at 4½d., and 100 cases currants at 4d. A parcel of large boxes of figs, 1½lb., sold at 8s. 6d. Morton's jams moving off at 6s., other brands from 5s. 6d. to 7s. Condensed milk, Dairymaid brand, is selling from 6s. 4½d. A moderate inquiry noticed for fish; sardines moving off at from 3s. 4½d. to 3s. 6d. quarters, and 6s. 3d. to 6s. 6d. in halves; tinned salmon from 8s. 4½d., bulk from 5½d. to 6½d., the latter for trade parcels in half-barrels, very prime fish; ling from 5d. for good quality; lobsters rather scarce, and worth 9s. 3d.; oysters, 5s. 6d. 100 tons of coarse salt placed for export; the quotations rule from 80s., fine from 90s., and rock from 85s., in truck-loads. Keen's mustard, 15s. 9d., 7s. 7½d., and 4s. 4½d., for lbs., halves, and quarters respectively; 5lb., 6½d. per lb. Salad oils in limited request—English at 4s. 10½d. to 5s. 3d., and French from 4s. 3d.; the demand being chiefly for the cheaper oils. Morton's castor oil, 3s. 9d. to 3s. 10½d. A moderate inquiry for Whybrow's pickles at 6s. 9d. to 7s.; others from 5s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. The trade in brewers' materials was of little importance, being limited to small parcels. In liquids we note sales of Foster's ale at 10s. 6d. for quarts, and 7s. 3d. for pints; also of Tennant's, the range of prices for all brands being from 7s. 6d. to 10s. 3d., and from 5s. to 7s. 3d., quarts and pints respectively. Hennessy's and Martell's brandy moving off in small parcels at unaltered rates. A line of AVH geneva sold at current rates. Of Vergniaud clarets a parcel of No. 0 moved at agents' prices, and there was rather more business in champagne, Krug's being mentioned. A good parcel of Manila cigars was placed on private terms, from 42s. 6d. to 44s. being given as the current rate of quotations. In metals nearly all lines are about as dull of sale as they well can be. A shipment of Bangor slates (20 x 10) moved off at £11 10s. A parcel of Tunnel's cement to land was sold at 17s. Moderate sales of Baltic lumber at late quotations.

The ship Fifeshire cleared at the Customs to-day for London with 5023 bales wool, 1 bale skins, 124 bales glue pieces, 36 bales leather, 2 bales basils, 2754 hides, 24,200 horns, 840 casks tallow, 2131 bars silver lead (78 tons 10cwt.) bullion, 206 bags chrome ore, 174 bags bones, 6 tons 2cwt. 1qr. 15lb. loose bones, 1 ton 4cwt. 0qr. 6lb. hoofs, and 1 ton 0cwt. 3qr. 6lb. piths.

The following was the Customs revenue received to-day:—

Spirits, £1042 11s. 1d.; wine, still, £27; wine, sparkling, £3 13s. 4d.; ale, porter, and beer (in wood), £312 10s.; ale, porter, and beer (in bottles), £165 11s.; tobacco and snuff, £162 12s.; tobacco (for manufacturing purposes only), £123 7s.; cigars, £317 0s. 8d.; cigarettes, £22 0s. 8d.; tea, £191 1s. 3d.; coffee, 18s.; sugar, refined, £1 6s. 2d.; sugar, unrefined, £117 7s. 10d.; sugar, molasses, £3; opium, £143 5s.; rice, £142 15s. 8d.; dried fruits, £509 11s. 7d. SHEEPSKIN SALE.

John Bridge reports.—I submitted an unusually heavy catalogue of butchers' sheepskins to-day. A very large attendance of buyers present, and the market extremely spirited, in sympathy with the brighter news from Europe. Every lot on my catalogue was cleared. Best shorn pelts: Large, 29d to 34d; good, 24d to 28d; fair, 18d to 23d; medium, 19d to 18d; bare and small, 9d to 14d; lambskins, to 28½d. Dry station skins sold at 5d to 5½d per lb.; shorn to medium, 6½d.—[ADVT.]

KANGAROOSKIN SALE.

John Bridge reports:—I offered to public competition to-day 14,992 kangarooskins and 6936 opossumskind Kangarooskins sold splendidly, every buyer being present. Every lot on my catalogue sold readily under keen competition, largest at 115d each topping the market. I obtained for next largest 78d to 100d, large 66d to 76d, large medium 46d to 59d, medium 36d to 46d, small medium 17d to 34d, small 19d to 26d, small and light 9d to 18d, very small 2d to 8d. Red-furred kangarooskins: Largest 50d to 60d, large 40d to 50d, medium 36d, small 15d to 25d, smallest 7d. Wallaby skins: Largest 14d to 16d, large 9d to 12d, medium 5d to 7d, small to 4½d. Rock wallaby skins 6½d. Bearskins 4½d, fair 4½d to 5½d, small 3½d to 4d. Goatskins: Large 21d, fair 15d, small 6d, very small 3d to 6d. Emu skins 30d each.—[ADVT.]

OPOSSUM SKIN SALE.

John Bridge reports:—I offered 6963 opossum skins to-day, an unusually large attendance of buyers present. Values unaltered, the American demand being strong. Superior 12d to 16d, good 9d to 12d, fair 7d to 9d, small 5d to 6½d, very small to 4½d. Every lot was cleared accordingly.—[ADVT.]

LATEST COMMERCIAL TELEGRAMS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

MELBOURNE, TUESDAY.

Wheat sold down to 5s. 6d., but recovered to 5s. 7d., at which there is a strong speculative demand. Oats are further depressed, at 3s. 10d. to 3s. 10½d. for New Zealand good ordinary feed. Maize sold at 4s. 7½d.; peas at 4s. 8½d. to 4s. 9d. At auction, ordinary Fiji brown sugar brought £18 15s.; Mauritius, good whites, £24 10s. Castor oil is scarce and selling at 4s., duty paid. Business generally is quiet.

A fair extent of business was done to-day in investment stocks, which were firm. Higher prices were paid for Commercial and City Banks, and Royal were taken at full rates. Mercantile Finance were in good request at rising prices. Australian Finance were easier, and sold lower. Castlemaine and M'Cracken's Brewery were placed at improved quotations. Commercial Bank, £9 0s. 6d., £9 1s. 6d. Tramway and Omnibus, 52s. 6d.

ADELAIDE, TUESDAY.

There is no business of importance to report in wheat or flour. Shipping parcels of wheat at Port Adelaide are worth 4s. 11d. to 5s.; farmers' lots, 4s. 9d. to 4s. 10½d.; outports, 4s. 7d. to 4s. 8d. Patent-roller flour, £11 10s. to £12 10s.; ordinary superfine, £10 15s. to £11 10s.; household, £7 15s. to £8 5s. Sugars are still firmly held.

PRODUCE MARKET—TUESDAY.

This morning at Darling Harbour auction sales there was only a limited attendance of the trade. The consignments of forage to hand amounted to eight trucks; the principal portion was of straw. This supply was sufficient for the day's requirements, the demand being slack. Business in the wood market was fairly animated. At the wharfs small shipments were received, principally from the Hunter River and southern ports. Trade was moderately active, and yesterday's prices were fully maintained. The following values were realised at Darling Harbour sales:—

Wood.—Fair market. Steady, at per ton: Billet, 7s 6d to 10s; bundle, 9s to 12s 6d; foot, 7s 6d to 12s 3d; bakers', 8s to 11s 6d.

Hay.—Only two trucks of oaten descriptions to hand, and were disposed of at 6s 3d and 7s 11d per cwt.

Straw.—Five trucks received. Clean and bright wheaten, in bundles, realised 5s per cwt.; other kinds ranged from 3s 6d to 4s 6d.

Chaff.—One truck of oaten, in bags, which sold at 8s per cwt.

At the wharfs the following were the wholesale quotations:—

Maize.—A good local demand, principally for inland districts, was experienced. This season's crop quoted 3s 6d to 3s 9d per bushel.

Oats.—Feeding sorts are moving off steadily at 2s 9d to 3s 3d per bushel, according to quality; seed, to 3s 6d.

Bran.—Quoted 1s 1½d to 1s 3d per bushel.

Pollard.—Scarce, 1s 5d to 1s 6d per bushel.

Hay.—The wharfs are amply supplied. Prime, dry, green lucerne, £4 10s to £5 per ton; other descriptions, £3 15s to £4 5s.

Chaff.—Further Victorian shipments received last night. Straw chaff ranges from £4 15s to £5 5s per ton; oaten, £6 to £7 5s; New Zealand, to £6; Adelaide, £7 5s to £8.

Onions.—A New Zealand consignment arrived yesterday afternoon. Quoted at £13 to £14 per ton; Victorian, £13.

Potatoes.—The bulk of supplies are of Tasmanian sorts, Circular Head in fairly active demand, £5 10s per ton; New Zealand, £5 5s; Warrnambool, almost unsaleable, £4.

Butter.—This market continues firm. Illawarra dairy kinds, 1s 5d to 1s 7d per lb.; factory-made, 1s 8d to 1s 9d; intercolonial packed in better inquiry, from 1s to 1s 3d.

Cheese.—Colonial descriptions saleable, 5d to 7d per lb.; second qualities, from 4d; New Zealand, 6½d to 8½d.

Bacon.—Hand-cured Southern maintains a fairly good demand at 8d to 10d per lb.; machine-cured, 6d to 8d; New Zealand, 8d to 10d.

Lard.—The scarcity of the supplies and high prices of butter have created a stronger inquiry under this head. Finely rendered (in bladders), 5d to 6d per lb.; bulk, 5d to 4d.

Eggs.—Southern districts ice still quoted to 2s per dozen; Northern rivers, 1s 8d to 1s 10d.

Poultry.—In moderate demand. Fowls, 2s 9d to 4s per pair; ducks, 3s to 4s 3d; geese, 5s to 1s 6d; turkeys, 6s 6d to 13s 6d.

LEATHER AND SKIN SALES.

At the weekly auction leather sales yesterday the market throughout was very quiet. The demand was exclusively confined to a few lines of really light and well-dressed leather. All other classes were extremely dull of sale, especially medium and inferior lots. Sole leather was lower in value. Shippers operated only on a limited scale, at a reduction of about ½d below last week's prices. There are large stocks of harness lines on hand, which are difficult to dispose of. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, Hill, Clark, and Co., and F. L. Barker report holding sales. Quotations—Sole, heavy, 9d to 10d; medium, 7½d to 7¾d; damaged, 6d to 6½d; kip, 10d to 14d; tweed, 12d to 16d; calf tweed, 21d to 24d. Harness, 10d to 12½d. Bag, 8s 6d to 10s 6d. Bridle, 10s to 11s. Basils, 5s to 8s. Large supplies both of butchers' and dry sheepskins were also brought forward to a very full attendance of buyers. Competition for all descriptions was animated, especially for sound well-grown merino skins, of which a large assortment was available. Messrs. J. H. Geddes and Co., Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, Winchcombe, Carson, and Co., Brunker and Wolfe, and Hill, Clark, and Co. report sales. Quotations: Best butchers' full-woolled skins, 60d to 75½d; good, 48d to 60d; fair, 36d to 48d; short, 20d to 32d; pelts ranged 9d to 31d; lambskins, 14d to 36d; best dry skins, 4½d to 5½d; exceptional lots, 6d to 6½d; medium, 3½d to 4½d; short, 1½d to 3d. Attractive catalogues of marsupial skins were submitted. There was a strong demand, and prices were firm. Messrs. F. P. Barker, Winchcombe, Carson and Co., and Hill, Clark, and Co., report the clearances of catalogues:—Extra large gray kangarooskins were rather scarce, 90s to 115s per dozen; a few superior skins, to 120s; large, 65s to 86s; medium, 32s to 58s; small, 12s to 30s; very small, 3s to 11s. Wallaby: Extra large sizes, 13s to 18s; fair, 7s 6d to 12s; small, 1s 6d to 4s; bear, 2s to 8s. Opossum: Best worth 10s to 15s; good, 7s 6d to 9s 6d; small to medium, 2s to 5s 6d. Catskins, 3s.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

MELBOURNE, TUESDAY.

In gold mines, Mount Morgans were easier. Lower prices were accepted for Johnsons and North Johnsons. Chesney Cobar were taken and wanted at higher quotations. In silver shares Block 10, South, and Centrals were in strong demand, South selling to 33s., but closed a shade easier. Block 14, Junction, North, and Cross quitted at lower prices. Mount Bischoff tin wanted at late rates. Brothers No. 1 in request at a further advance. Lion's Den changed hands at reduced rates.

Sales: Broken Hill, £28 4s., £28 10s.; Block 10, 41s. 6d., 45s., 44s.; Block 14, 94s., 96s. 6d., 95s.; Junction, 11s 9d., 12s. 6d., 12s. 3d.; South, paid, 25s., 33s., 31s.; British, 63s., 64s. 6d.; Centrals, paid, 14s., 16s.; Centrals, new issue, 11s. 3d., 11s. 6d; Cordillera, 6s. 3d., 6s. 6d.; Costigan, 7s.; Lewis Ponds, 2s.; New North Brokens, 19s. 7½d.; Pinnacle Tribute, 9s. 7½d., 10s. 3d.; Peelwood, 2s. 10½d., 3s.; Victoria Cross, 5s. 3d., 5s. 6d.; Band and Albion Consols, 41s. 6d.; Mount Morgan, £8; Chesney, 22s. 6d.

ADELAIDE, TUESDAY.

Share Report.—Sales: Baker's Creek, 83s. 9d., 84s. 3d., 84s.; Mount Moor, 3s. 5d., 3s. 4½d.; Mount Carrington, 1s. 10d., 1s. 8d.; Brokens, 78s. 3d., 78s. 5d.; Block 14, 94s., 95s.; British, 64s. 9d, 63s. 3d.; Block 10, 42s. 3d., 43s. 6d.; South, paid, 22s., 31s. 3d., 29s. 9d.; North, 20s. 3d., 19s. 6d., £1 0s. 4½d.; Central, paid, 13s. 4½d., 14s. 10½d., 14s. 6d.; Pinnacle Tribute, paid, 12s. 3d.; Junction, 11s. 7½d., 12s.; Central, contributing, 11s., 11s. 10½d.; Silver King 8d.; Silverton Trams, contributing, 62s. 6d., 63s.

BRISBANE, TUESDAY.

Number 1 North, Great Eastern, Gympie, crushed 144 tons, yielding 111oz. of smelted gold. Mount Morgans are lower, but the market is tolerably steady. Sales to-day were made at £7 10s. to £7 12s. 6d. Buyers now quote £6 15s., seller £7 15s.

ALBURY, TUESDAY.

Mining reports from Cotton Tree diggings, Upper Murray, allow that the prospects in that quarter generally are improving. A number of new claims recently taken up forwarded small trial crushings to Messrs. Grant and Sons' mill, with the following results:—A small parcel from Button and Co. yielded at the rate of 1oz. per ton; another lot from the same party gave 12dwt. per ton; and a third parcel 3½oz. per ton; 5½ tons from Hawkins and Co. 1oz. 1dwt. per ton; 5 tons from D. Maginness 8dwt. per ton. The above are all from within one and a half miles of the Murray.

BROKEN HILL, TUESDAY.

The following quantities of mineral products have been exported from Broken Hill during the past week:—Proprietary, 13,500 bars bullion, 497 tons 9cwt. 3qr. 13lb., value £28,419; North, 169 tons 2qr. ore, value £845; Blocks 14, 6600 bars bullion, 249 tons 6cwt. 2qr. 6lb., value £8477, also 5 tons 14cwt. 2qr. ore, value £33.

LISMORE, TUESDAY.

Messrs. Wilkinson and Slee, of the prospecting board, returned to town from Peter's Grass, and report favourably as to gold-bearing prospects. They also speak highly of other mining centres visited. They start on Wednesday for Black Rock, Ballina, visiting the mining properties en route.

SILVERTON, TUESDAY.

The furnace of the Cornwall Smelting Company is now practically ready. It is intended to make a start on ore from the south line in about a week. Ore is being carted to the floors and picked free from mullock. The foundations for the water tank to supply the boiler and water jackets are being built. The diamond drill on the Brisbane Blocks has reached a depth of 1311ft. It is still in the Gulissic rock, of which the country on the eastern side is composed. Pumps are being fixed in the main shaft, which may be ready in the course of a month. The water to supply the boilers and diamond drill is baled from the shaft. No. 1 shaft on Block 10 of the Proprietary is now down 244ft. For the last few days it has been passing through mineralised material resembling what might be taken for the cap of the lode. The formation is going down so vertically that it is not expected that the body of the lode will be touched until it is opened out upon at the 242ft. level. No 2 shaft is down 283ft., and has struck water, although the quantity as yet is not much. It may, however, cause a temporary stoppage in sinking until the machinery has been erected, as even a small quantity of water is a serious matter to deal with at that depth. The engine and winding gear lately erected on the Gem Silver-mine made a trial start. Everything went smoothly. There is one of the neatest plants on the Barrier at the Alberta mine, No. 1 shaft, at the 160ft. level. Good progress has been made in the stope during the week. The lode carries a nice face of clean ore. No. 2 winze has been sunk 19ft. The lode for the last few feet consisted principally of oxide of iron, but the face shows signs of improvement. Small bunches of carbonate of ore are now showing. Twelve tons of clean ore have been despatched, and a considerable quantity of good seconds has been added to the concentrating pile. Twenty tons of clean galena, and 16 tons of concentrates have been sent away from the Gipsy Girl mine during last week. The Pioneer mine sent away 48 tons of clean ore, and a large quantity of good seconds have been added to the concentrates pile.

YOUNG, TUESDAY.

On the 24th, a private gold escort for the Bank of New South Wales left with 1141oz. of gold. 710oz. were purchased from the New Burrangong Goldmining Company, and 470oz. since the middle of January. The entire quantity was locally obtained. About 50 men are employed on the south and the new Burrangong claim. This number is to be largely added to shortly. The escort was the largest from Young for years past.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

One Tree Cordillera Silver-mining Company, No Liability, March 23.—The 147ft. level north extended 6ft. 6in., total 85ft. Ground a little harder. Signs of a further change. Making more water. Bad air most of the week. Drive south at the tunnel, total 8ft. Come on some nice black oxide of copper (melaconite) mixed for about 2ft. wide in very soft ground. Sample sent you.

Royal Standard Gold-mining Company, No Liability, March 23.—Driven 25ft. in the No. 2 drive; good size reef showing nice gold. Stopes are looking same as last week. Raised 35 tons of stone for the week. Battery stopped for want of rain.

Webb's Silver-mining Company, Limited.—The main shaft has been sunk a further depth of 19ft., making a total of 338ft 6in. During the months December to February inclusive, 72 tons of ore were forwarded to Dry Creek, the average of which was 84oz. per ton. This ore was raised by two men driving in the 250ft. level.

Cordillera Extended Silver-mining Company, No Liability, —No. 3 shaft: The level north at 187ft. has been holed through to the winze, giving good ventilation. No change in the appearance of lode. The winze from 120ft. level has been sunk 14ft. The lode is still broken up.

Costigan Consols Silver-mining Company, No Liability.—The contractors have sunk the main shaft 7ft., total 215ft. 6in. The lode is 2ft. 6in. wide, and appears to be making larger, and shows iron pyrites and quartzites.

Mount Costigan South Silver-mining Company, No Liability.—No. 1 shaft is down 151ft. 6in. The country is very hard, and the lode continues about the same. The tunnel has been driven 6ft., total 280ft., but through a quantity of quartz in the last 6ft. The rock continues to show pyrites.

Monks Gold-mining Company, Limited, Ironbarks.—No. 1 shaft: The south level has been extended 4ft. 6in.; total from shaft 34ft. 6in.; reef from 14in. to 18in. thick. The reef is opening out as we drive south, and shows gold. Have about 20 tons of quartz at grass. A sample of quartz from the reef at 80ft. level has been assayed with the following result:—Gold, 9oz. 7dwt. 10gr. per ton; silver, 4oz. 5dwt. 8gr. per ton.

Morning Star Company, Redan, Ballarat, March 23.—North drive on course of lode driven 20ft., stone small and broken up; crosscut extended 5ft. for week, with a little water coming from the face.

The Day Dawn Gold-mining Company, Limited, Goulburn, March 23.—Since my last a pentice has been erected in the main shaft, which permits of working with three shifts of men. The pump has been lowered 14ft., and the shaft sunk a further depth of 5½ft., making a total of 41ft. from the plat. If all goes well we should be able to open out in another fortnight. Steel rails have been laid in the western level, a great improvement and saving of labour. A pass for quartz has been put in 50ft. west of No. 8 shaft. The pass in this shaft is now being brought up for the purpose of filling in the stopes, and stoping will be resumed on Monday next. A crosscut south-east has been commenced in the western level for the purpose of intersecting the reef previously reported as discovered in the stopes. About 35 tons of quartz have been raised during the week. The machinery has been running fairly well, and there are about 150 tons stone at grass. No cleaning up will take place this week, as the running time has been so short and the table for the new mill being expected daily, when a final clean up of the old mill may be effected. The new mill-shed has been completed as regards the roof and part of the walls.

Big Oakey Gold-mining Company, Limited, Sofala, March 23.—During the week we extended the east crosscut 6ft. 6in., making the total 181ft. 6in., and extended the north end on vein 5ft., making total 35ft. 6in. We have a cross leader come in showing a lot of coarse gold. It ought to make a good patch when it joins the vein we are driving on. Shall take the stone down on Monday. No new vein in east end yet; still have water coming in.

Mount Morgan North Gold-mining Company.—The contractors have sunk shaft 6ft.; total, 131ft. Ground much softer; formation the same. Contractors should finish in a month.

Duke Timor.—North drive: Good progress made with repairs and laying road. West drive: Laid permanent road to face contract let and driven 12ft. On washing the dirt from the bore put up in this drive, washed few specs of nice gold. Yield, 13loz. 8dwt.

Last Chance Tribute, Ballarat East.—No. 2 level: The contractors are making good progress in driving south to meet the rise from No. 3 level, having driven 42ft. for fortnight. Davis and party are stoping on stone of poor quality. No. 3 level: Grainger and party are rising slowly; are also driving on good payable stone. Rookman and party have squared up this block at their south boundary and proved this make of stone to be 20ft. thick of good payable stone, they are also rising main rise slowly. Owing to the prevailing northerly winds last week some time was lost through bad air, which makes the yield of gold less than it would have been. Yield, 81oz. 8dwt.

North Woah Hawp, Ballarat East.—Crushed 304 tons for 452oz. 2dwt. Mine looking well.

New Normanby Company, Ballarat East.—Crushed 65 tons for 33oz. 10dwt. gold. It has been decided to resume sinking the shaft, which will be proceeded with as soon as possible.

High water at Fort Denison: 4.34 a.m., 5.15 p.m.

H. C. RUSSELL, Government Astronomer.

This lift will give sufficient depth for stone worked by the North Woah Hawp on south boundary.

Central Broken Hill Silver-mining Company, Limited, March 21.—Since last week the main shaft has been sunk 4ft., and now has a depth of 294ft. 6in., and we have commenced widening the excavation for the plat at the 300ft. level. The material in the bottom is oxidised or decomposed in its nature, consisting of brown hematite, oxide of manganese, and soft honeycomb rock containing no sulphurets, but is slightly improving in silver assay, though still of very low grade; the daily quantity of water pumped is about 90,000 gallons. The south winze was sunk but 2ft. deeper, making the depth 76ft., the ore in the bottom consisting of kaolin, manganese oxidest silica, &c., the bulk sample of the same yielding by assay 26oz. 10dwt. 2ugr. Water coming in the winze from the rising of the water in the shaft, while hoisting ore and waste rock, rendered further sinking very disadvantageous until the shaft attains greater depth. This winze was consequently temporarily discontinued soon after closing last weekly report. No work has been done in the north winze on the parallel drive, for the same reason, during the week. The main west crosscut 250ft. northerly from the plat on the 200ft. level, has advanced 8ft., making the length of the crosscut 195ft. from the main drive to the face, which is in the same garnet-bearing material as before reported, and very hard in character. The work has been somewhat irregular as the contractors in both the crosscut and north drive threw up their contract (forfeiting 10 per cent.), and others have been supplied by day labour for the present. The progress made in the main north drive for the week was 7ft., making the total length of the drive 507ft. 6in.; the face of the drive containing more oxide of iron than a week ago. At a point 500ft. north of the main shaft, in the drive a new crosscut has been started to cut the parallel vein at this distance north. Eight feet of progress was made during the past week. The character of the rock is the ordinary intermediary schistose rock found elsewhere in this mine, between the two parallel veins.

THE PASTEUR LETTERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The explanation given by the Principal Under-Secretary re the opening of the Pasteur letters in your issue of 21st instant, evades the most important part of the whole matter. The explanation given leads one to infer that these letters were all addressed care of Colonial Secretary's Office, and that by accident they were cut open. This is not in accordance with the facts. The first was so addressed, and the explanation, so far as that letter is concerned, if it were the only one, might be accepted; but with regard to the other two letters, the matter is quite different. They were not addressed to the Colonial Secretary's Office, but to the Post Office, Sydney; and here is the part of the affair that requires explaining. Why were these two letters addressed to the Post Office, and externally marked as being sent from the Pasteur Institute, marked in pencil "Government," and sent or taken to the Colonial Secretary's Office, while other letters from France, addressed in the same manner, but not marked as coming from the Pasteur Institute, which arrived by the same mail, were delivered from the Post Office in the usual way? Dr. Germont and M. Loir have advice of a cablegram having been sent to them by M. Pasteur in June last, which they have not received. Is this another oversight? I notice by the papers that Dr. Germont and M. Loir will be in Sydney shortly, when I have no doubt they will, if an opportunity is offered them, give their version of what has taken place.

I have confined myself strictly to facts which have not and cannot be denied, and I now leave the matter in the hands of those whose duty it is to obtain a satisfactory explanation, before the representatives of M. Pasteur leave the colony.

March 25. I am, &c., A. A. DEVLIN.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

are universally admitted to be worth a Guinea a Box for Bilious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Scurvy and Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c. The first dose will give relief in twenty minutes. Every sufferer is earnestly invited to try one box of these Pills, and they will be acknowledged to be WORTH A GUINEA A BOX.

For females of all ages these Pills are invaluable, as a few doses of them carry off all humours, and bring about all that is required. No female should be without them. There is no medicine to be found equal to Beecham's Pills for removing any obstruction or irregularity of the system. If taken according to the directions given with each box, they will soon restore females of all ages to sound and robust health. This has been proved by thousands who have tried them, and found the benefits which are ensured by their use.

For a Weak Stomach, Impaired Digestion, and all Disorders of the Liver, they act like magic, and a few doses will be found to work wonders on the most important organs in the human machine. They strengthen the whole muscular system, restore the long-lost complexion, bring back the keen edge of appetite, and arouse into action with the rosebud of health the whole physical energy of the human frame. These are FACTS testified continually by members of all classes of society, and one of the best guarantees to the Nervous and Debilitated is, BEECHAM'S PILLS have the Largest Sale of any Patent Medicine in the World.

Prepared only, and sold Wholesale and Retail, by the Proprietor, Thomas Beecham, St. Helens, Lancashire, England, in Boxes 1s 1½d and 2s 9d each.

MONA VALE.

Gazette, 22nd March, 1889.

NOTIFICATION OF RESUMPTION OF LAND under 44 Victoria, No. 16.

NEW SOUTH WALES, to wit. By his Excellency the Right Honorable CHARLES ROBERT, BARON CARRINGTON, a Member of her Majesty's Most Honorable Privy Council, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of New South Wales and its Dependencies.

(L.S.) CARRINGTON, Governor.

WHEREAS the parcel of land hereinafter described is required for the purpose of the erection thereon of a Public School and of buildings to be used in connection therewith: And whereas I, as such Governor as aforesaid, with the advice of the Executive Council of the said colony, have sanctioned the acquisition of the said land for a site for a Public School: Now, therefore, I, Charles Robert, Baron Carrington, the Governor aforesaid, with the advice of the said Executive Council, in pursuance of the power and authority given to or vested in me by the Lands for Public Purposes Acquisition Act, by this notification, published in the Gazette and a newspaper circulated in the police district wherein the said land is situated, that is to say, in the Sydney Morning Herald newspaper, declare that the parcel of land hereinafter particularly described has been resumed for the purpose of the erection thereon of a Public School and of buildings in connection therewith: And that the said land hereinafter described is resumed with the intent that by the publication in the Government Gazette, and in a newspaper circulated in the Metropolitan Police District, of this notification of the said land being so resumed, the said land shall forthwith become and be vested in the Minister of Public Instruction of the said colony and his successors, on behalf of her Majesty, for the purposes of the said Act, for an estate of inheritance in fee simple, in possession, freed and discharged from all trusts, obligations, estates, interests, contracts, charges, rights-of-way, or other easements whatsoever, and that the legal estate therein, together with all powers incident thereto or conferred by the said Act, shall be vested in the Minister of Public Instruction as a trustee, as in the said Act is provided: And I declare that the following is the parcel of land hereinbefore referred to as resumed by this notification, that is to say:—

All that piece or parcel of land situated at Mona Vale, Pittwater, containing 2 acres and 12 perches, being allotments 11 to 14 inclusive, of section D of the new marine township of Newport, in the parish of Narrabeen, county of Cumberland: Commencing at the intersection of the south-west side of Stuart-street with the south-east side of the Queen's-parade, and bounded thence on the north-east by the south-west side of the first-mentioned street, bearing south 10 degrees 30 minutes east 5 chains 71 links; thence on the south-east by the north-east side of Beaconsfield-street, bearing north 83 degrees 59 minutes west 4 chains 13 6-10 links; thence on the south-west by allotment 10, bearing north 10 degrees 30 minutes west 4 chains 66 8-10 links to the south-east side of the Queen's-parade aforesaid; and thence on the north-west by that side of that street, bearing north 79 degrees 31 minutes east 4 chains, to the point of commencement.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my Hand and caused the Great Seal of the Colony to be hereto affixed, at Government House, Sydney, this eighteenth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, and in the fifty-second year of her Majesty's reign.

By his Excellency's command.

Public Companies.

PROSPECTUS of the IMPERIAL ARCADE COMPANY, Limited.

To be Registered under the Companies Acts.

CAPITAL, £80,000, in 40,000 SHARES of £2 EACH, Of which 17,000 are now offered to the public, to be paid on the following terms:—2s 6d on application, 2s 6d on allotment, and thereafter by calls not exceeding 2s 6d per share on not less than three months' notice, but it is anticipated that it will not be necessary to call up more than £1 per share.

Provisional Directors:

WM. BEAUMONT, Esq.
G. C. CHALMERS, Esq. (Messrs. Roberts, Chalmers, and Co.)
JOSEPH BURTON GIBBS (Messrs. Gibbs, Shallard, and Co.)
J. R. LINSLEY, Esq., M.L.A.
GEORGE MERRIMAN, Esq. (City Solicitor)
Hon. BRUCE SMITH, M.L.A.

Solicitors: Messrs. FISHER, RALFE, and SALWEY.

Bankers: THE ENGLISH, SCOTTISH, and AUSTRALIAN CHARTERED BANK.

Brokers: THE COLONIAL FINANCE, MORTGAGE, INVESTMENT, and GUARANTEE CORPORATION, Limited, 72, Pitt-street.

The object of this Company is to construct an Arcade in the very heart of the city, from Pitt-street to Castlereagh-street, on a scale hitherto not attempted in any part of Australia; the entrance in Pitt-street being opposite Messrs. Hordern Brothers, midway between King and Market streets.

The magnificent site which has been secured consists of—
A freehold property, having 64 feet 5 inches frontage to Castlereagh-street, by a depth of about 161 feet, and
A leasehold (21 years) property, having 67 feet frontage to Pitt-street, by a depth of about 163 feet to the freehold in Castlereagh-street.

Pitt-street is well known to be one of the busiest streets in Sydney, and at that particular part where the main entrance to the new Arcade will be placed, there is ceaseless traffic, and a continual stream of people by day and night. The Arcade must, therefore, become a prominent landmark in the city, and open up a thoroughfare of permanent attraction to foot passengers desirous of reaching Castlereagh-street, who have now to go round by way of King or Market streets. It is tolerably certain that the public will avoid the narrow and generally crowded footpaths in Pitt-street, and prefer the more cheerful, sheltered, wide, and well paved passage, afforded by the improvement now sought to be carried out at, comparatively speaking, so little expense.

Further than this, an Arcade in a central position is certain to attract visitors and residents alike, and from being always more or less thronged with people, to create a business peculiarly its own. Experience has shown that by means of such a thoroughfare a district becomes even more full of life and activity; as a natural consequence business premises in such thoroughfares are now in demand, and command high rentals from a superior class of tenants who rarely desire to vacate.

The success which has attended the erection of Arcades in suitable positions in London and large cities in all parts of the world points to them as the finest description of property to hold, and amongst the most remunerative investments of the day. We need not go far for an illustration. The results of the "Sydney Arcade," from George-street to King-street, and of the "Royal Arcade," from George-street to Pitt-street, have exceeded the promoters' most sanguine expectations, and rewarded their enterprise with a return on the invested capital much beyond original calculations.

Regarding, therefore, the very excellent site of the proposed "Imperial Arcade," which is in every way as good as that of the "Sydney" or "Royal," and considering its extreme length (about 330ft.), and available letting space, which will be superior to that of either of the two Arcades just mentioned, there is sufficient reason to anticipate the same good fortune for the "Imperial," without reckoning the unearned increment that must follow with the growth of the city and attendant increasing traffic. The promoters of the "Imperial Arcade," and all concerned in its ultimate success, therefore confidently recommend it as a legitimate and promising investment.

Calculating the cost of building from first to last at about £40,000, for which sum the promoters are persuaded, after careful inquiry, it can be built, they look forward to a net result of at least 14 per cent. after paying ground rent on lease, providing interest, and allowing for vacant tenement and expenses of management—an opinion which is confirmed by a report from Messrs. Richardson and Wrench, one of the leading and most prudent valuing firms of property in Sydney.

The following estimate of probable receipts and expenditure shows it more clearly:—

RECEIPTS.

	Per week.	Per annum.
Rentals from two five-storied buildings at entrances, with about 50 rooms to each ...		£2,400 0 0
Rentals from interior shops (ground floor) ...	£96 0 0
Rentals from shops or offices (first floor) ...	48 0 0
Rentals from corner shops (Pitt-street) ...	12 0 0
Rentals from corner shops (Castlereagh-street) ...	12 0 0
Rental from large cellar or basement ...	6 0 0
	£174 0 0	9,048 0 0
		£11,448 0 0

EXPENDITURE.

Ground rent ...	£2,900 0 0
Management, lighting, insurance, &c. ...	900 0 0
Interest on £40,000 to be borrowed (for purpose of building Arcade), at 5½ per cent. ...	2,200 0 0
		6,000 0 0
Leaving net annual income, at lowest estimate		£5,448 0 0

Equivalent to 14 per cent. on the paid up capital of £40,000.

A dividend of 10 per cent. would absorb £4000 and leave £1448 per annum, which at 5 per cent. per annum will create in 19 years a sinking fund of £45,000.

Bricks and building materials being unusually cheap at the present time, the Company will be enabled to contract for the building on the most favourable terms.

£40,000 has been fixed upon as a sum more than sufficient to cover all the expenses of erection and completion. With that object, competitive plans have been invited from a number of firms of Architects, and a premium of £350 offered for that Design which shall, in all respects, meet with the approval of the Committee appointed by the promoters for that purpose.

At each of the main entrances to the Arcade in Pitt-street and Castlereagh-streets, it is intended to erect buildings of five stories, which can be utilised as Hotels, Restaurants, or Coffee Palaces, and to each of them will be allotted about 50 rooms, which alone, at moderate rentals, will yield large returns.

The Ground Floor of the Arcade will consist of shops.

The First Floor—shops or offices, as tenants may desire with balcony entrance.

The Third and Fourth Floors will be let out with the hotels as bedrooms.

Throughout, every care will be taken to afford plenty of light and ventilation, and to the whole Arcade a pleasing and imposing appearance.

The Arcade will probably be completed in about 10 months.

The only expense of floating will be the cost of registration of the Company, and the incidental charges of advertising, printing and distributing the prospectus, and the only contract existing is contained in letters from Messrs. Withers and Callaghan, dated respectively 8th November, 19th November, 21st November, 27th November, and 29th November, 1888, and replies thereto of the Colonial Finance, Mortgage, Investment, and Guarantee Corporation, Limited, dated 21st November, 28th November, and 4th December, 1888, all of which can be seen on reference to the Colonial Finance, Mortgage, Investment, and Guarantee Corporation, Limited, 72, Pitt-street. Its short effect is to provide for the sale to the Imperial Arcade Company, Limited, of the vendors' title in the Freehold and Leasehold Properties described in the prospectus, in consideration of a cash payment of £25,000 and the allotment to the Vendors of 15,000 £2 shares in the Company, paid up to £1 each, the Vendors agreeing that they or their nominees will subscribe for 8000 additional shares in the Company at par. In this way the Vendors show their entire confidence in the undertaking, and accept their profit in shares.

A number of shares having already been applied for, early application for the few now offered is invited by the Colonial Finance, Mortgage, Investment, and Guarantee Company, Limited, from whom prospectus and any further information desired can be obtained.

DECLARATIONS.

I hereby certify that the foregoing Statement of the Revenue and Expenditure of the Borough of Marrickville is correct and that it corresponds with the Books of Accounts and Vouchers in the possession of the aforesaid Borough.

JOSEPH GRAHAM, Mayor.

Town Hall, Marrickville, 25th March, 1889.

We hereby certify that all Books of Accounts and Vouchers in the possession or power of the Borough of Marrickville have been exhibited to us, and that the foregoing Statement of Revenue and Expenditure for the half-year ending the 4th day of February, 1889, corresponds with the same, and is a correct and true statement.

GEORGE B. WHITELAW, THOS. C. READ, Auditors.
RICHARD M'COY, Treasurer.
GEORGE E GILL, Council Clerk.

Town Hall, Marrickville, 25th March, 1889.

BOROUGH OF ASHFIELD.

NOTICE is hereby given that SUMMONSES are now being issued indiscriminately for all Rates remaining unpaid.

By order of the Council.
THOS. GLASSOP, Council Clerk.

Council-chambers, 25th March, 1889.

BOROUGH OF BALMAIN.

ARREARS OF RATES.

NOTICE is hereby given that stringent measures will be taken for the recovery of ARREARS of RATES due to the Borough Council. To prevent unpleasant proceedings, the Council's Collector will call ONCE on each defaulter, and if payment is not made either to the Collector or to the Council Clerk, final measures will be adopted without delay. Tenants are equally responsible with the owner for the rates; therefore, occupiers should protect themselves by seeing that the rates are duly paid.

By order of the Mayor.
H. S. MACINTOSH, Council Clerk.

Town Hall, Balmain, 22nd March, 1889.

BOROUGH OF WOOLLAHRA.

NOTICE is hereby given that Plan and Section of proposed Permanent Levels of Hegarty-lane are lying at this Office, and will so remain for fourteen days from this date within office hours, for public inspection.

Any objections thereto must be in writing and lodged with the undersigned for the consideration of the Council before the expiration of such period.

WATER STORAGE CAPACITY WITHIN THE METROPOLITAN AREA.

At the meeting of the Water and Sewerage Board held yesterday afternoon a report which had been prepared by Mr. Trevor Jones, the Board's engineer, in compliance with the president's instructions, was read. It dealt with the proposal to increase the storage capacity of water within the metropolitan area, and it was as follows:—

"Low Level.—In reference to the above subject and the opinion gaining ground that the present storage capacity of the Crown-street, Paddington, Woollahra, Waverley, and Petersham reservoir, in all about 9½ millions gallons, is disproportionately small for so large a community, it is due that I should set before the board such facts in relation to the subject as will aid in forming an opinion as to the necessity for amplifying the present storage. The condition that would necessitate further capacity is the supposition that some accident were to happen to the large trunk main feeding the Crown-street reservoir, because it must not be lost sight of that a reservoir to contain 100 million gallons is in course of completion at Potts Hill which, when so completed will tide the city over several days in the event of accident to any of the works beyond that. It is, therefore, clear that so long as the trunk main from Potts Hill remains intact no want will be felt when the above work is completed. But further, in case of accident happening to the trunk main it should also be remembered that it is in contemplation to duplicate the trunk main; which will render the supply practically safe, as it is difficult to conceive of accident occurring to both mains at the same time. Meantime, such safety only applies to the immediate future, say, the next 15 years, when it may be conceived that the requirements of Sydney may mount to the joint capacity of both mains, and the following conditions will arise and afford cause for increasing the local storing capacity, viz., that during the day when the consumption is at its maximum, the trunk mains will be doing full duty, but, as night approaches, the consumption falls off and, in order to prevent overflow and waste, it will be necessary to restrict the inflow by means of check valves. This checking the inflow means simply reducing the capacity of the mains by not allowing them to do full work during the whole 24 hours. In order to secure, therefore, the mains doing their full work, it will be necessary for the board to construct reservoirs of large capacity, so that the overflow at night may run into such reservoirs and serve for the following day's consumption. Such a reservoir, to contain 10 million gallons, could be built on the sand hills south of Mount Rennie, the level being about the same as Crown-street (which is a necessary condition), and I roughly estimate the cost of such work at £30,000, roofed. With reference to storage of high level water circumstances are somewhat similar, as an accident might happen to the pumps, or rising mains; no doubt the consumption of high level water will greatly increase, and I am of opinion that it will be found expedient to provide additional storage capacity at or above the level of the Paddington reservoir. The large pumping plant in contemplation, as well as that about to be erected, will be found disproportionate unless storage room be provided for them to display their immense power upon. When these pumps shall have filled all the existing reservoirs, they could, if storage capacity were available, continue to work until the larger reservoirs were also full, which would obviate the frequent starting and stopping of these ponderous engines. Such a reserve would be available for letting into the low level mains (when proper modifications of those mains have been made) in the event of a great fire. I had the honour in 1885 to submit to the City Council a scheme for constructing a reservoir to contain 20 million gallons on a level plateau at the Centennial Park, where the trench indicating its position is still clearly discernible; this site was afterwards selected for the State house by Government, but I am not aware whether it is intended still to apply it to that purpose; if not, it will be admitted by the board if they viewed it as an admirable site for a high level reservoir, which could also be made a handsome feature of the park. Such a reservoir would probably cost £45,000 to £50,000 roofed, if made to contain about 20 million gallons, or about £30,000 for 10 million gallons. If the board think well of the project I would ask permission to effect surveys, designs, and estimates, with such further information for the board as will enable them to determine on the proper course, as, whether the scheme is carried into execution or not, the expediency of reserving suitable sites for such work will no doubt be acknowledged.—I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient servant, J. TREVOR JONES, Board Engineer. The Secretary.—P.S. In relation to Mr. Landers's motion that the Paddington reservoir be extended so as to amplify the high level storage, I have not been able in the short time to prepare plans and specifications; but with regard to the general expediency of carrying out such work, I am of opinion that the remaining space at Paddington should be utilised for storage from the New South Head-road to the back fence if the ground prove sound and suitable. J. TREVOR JONES, B.E."

A brief discussion followed the reading of the report, and it was eventually, on the suggestion of the chairman, decided to leave the whole question in abeyance until the return of Mr. Darley, when a conference between him and Mr. Jones could take place with a view to perfect the proposals if necessary.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have read with much interest the correspondence in your columns respecting woman's suffrage, and agree with your correspondents that we are sure to obtain it sooner or later; but there is one paragraph in a letter signed "Eucalypta" that I fear will not help the cause, viz., "There are many wrongs that will be righted when Sydney sends female representatives to sit in her House of Assembly," &c. Now, Sir, the ladies with whom I am associated (and who are about to organise a woman's suffrage league) do not for one moment anticipate that women will ever seek a seat in the House.

All we want is that women shall have a vote in electing the members. This is done in the municipal elections, and why not in Parliament? I believe that when the ladies have the power of voting they will vote intelligently, and only for those men who will use their best endeavours to pass good and righteous laws. Perhaps some would be astonished if they knew what an influence ladies exert even now upon their gentlemen friends in the matter of voting at election times. Mothers influence their grown-up sons, wives their husbands, &c. I will only add that I do not agree with your correspondent's remarks "that the women of this colony are in a state of bondage." On the contrary, I think that we have many privileges that were denied to our parents. Thanking you in anticipation,

Yours, &c., E. J. WARD.

Surry Hills, March 23.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am quite one of those who believe in the granting of the franchise to women, and am glad that many of my own sex come forward to advocate it. Soon may the day come when the daily and hourly wrongs that women have to endure may be set right, and they will take their true position in the world. It is intolerable to think of the oppression and injustice some noble wives endure. Their lives are one martyrdom. If they would seek redress they shrink from the publicity they and those they most love must undergo. The idea of matrimony is distasteful to many a younger sister and daughter on account of the misery they have too often, alas! been witnesses to. I hope that Sir Alfred Stephen's divorce bill may be passed. His sympathy and experience, which is so highly valued, is still cheerfully given to many in trouble. A "North Shore Wife" should thank God every day of her life that she has a good husband, whose love and respect she enjoys. No happier lot can this world give to any woman. One good effect of the higher education of women in the present day is to give girls some other object in life than matrimony, which is not now looked upon by them as the one aim of a woman's existence. I sincerely hope, with "A True but Much-injured Wife," that our legislators may come forward in the matter of woman's suffrage, and allow New South Wales to set the example in this respect to our other colonies. All honour to our veteran Sir Henry Parkes.

I am, &c.,

A LOVER OF JUSTICE AND RIGHT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Allow me through your columns to express my pleasure that some have been found to advocate the woman's suffrage in New South Wales. As her right to it is indisputable, and as the old plea of her mental incapacity has long ceased to be alleged for incontestable reasons, it can only have been deferred on the score of expediency. Emerson remarks that all fashions are reached by degrees, so that we should see our lady friends walking about in Bloomer costume without a qualm as to the propriety of the dress, if only the necessary stages led up to it; in the same way now that women, by their successes in college and university have shown their capacity for arduous and long-sustained study, and have taken a respectable position in the ranks of the medical and legal professions, we can scarcely feign horror at the idea of their engaging in such "unwomanly" pursuits as electing representatives to Parliament, or sitting in the House themselves. The assertion that the cradle or housekeeping must in the latter case be neglected is a mere bugbear, for everyone knows that there are thousands of women without either the one or the other to occupy their attention; and besides do we either inquire or care whether men leave their legitimate business to attend the House?—that is simply a question for the individual. But it behoves the nation at large to be just in all things. And can that nation be called just which keeps one-half of its subjects in bondage—in bondage because it is forced to obey laws in the framing of which it has had no hand, and which in some instances militate directly against its welfare. The women of New South Wales have not clamoured for their rights, but steadily and surely have made their individuality felt by works, not words. Few need to be reminded of Mrs. Browning's criticism of her sex, that a woman cannot do the thing she ought, which means whatever perfect thing she can in life, in art, in science, but she fears to let the perfect action take her part, and rest there: she must prove what she can do. Before she does it—prate of woman's rights, of woman's mission, woman's functions, till men (who are prating, too, on their side) cry a woman's function plainly is to talk. Let us throw open to our women the voting booths and the senate halls. With the new privileges will come an additional sense of responsibility, and the men of New South Wales will never regret calling to their assistance the clear vision, wide grasp of things, and power of logical argument which characterise the educated and thoughtful of the female sex.

I am &c.,

March 23. M. M.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I shall be glad of the favour of a small space in your issue re the above subject. I have waited in patient hope for some abler pen than mine to express appreciation and follow up the able letter which appeared in your columns on Saturday last, signed "M. W." I feel convinced that its sound common-sense, wisdom, and justice, and its telling truths will be heartily endorsed by every thinking woman who has read it. It may not be widely known that, as the constitutional law of Great Britain formerly stood, women were not incapacitated by reason of sex from voting at Parliamentary elections. Strange to tell, their exclusion from this most important right is due to the present century. Stranger still, that it was the great Reform (?) Bill of 1832 that first excluded women from the extension of political rights by using the term "male person" instead of "people" (expunged) in all the new franchises created by that Act. Surely, when Henry III. and Edward I. summoned abbesses to appear in Parliament, and Edward the III. commanded peeresses to appear by proxy, the idea of disqualification by reason of sex cannot have entered the common law of England. Thus it is to regain that which without right or reason the masculine maker of laws has deprived us of, that our struggles and efforts should now be directed. Moreover, who will deny that from time immemorial women have been essentially law-abiding citizens, governed by its mandates, subject to its taxations, and liable to its penalties, whilst statistics prove beyond all dispute that they are at all times less given to infractions of law than the other sex. Does it not therefore follow that woman constitutes the more desirable element in the law-making class of the community, and that she should have a direct voice in whatever concerns her equally with man. Depend upon it, laws thus jointly manufactured would be purer, more just, and better for both sexes, and many of the vices now corrupting the land would altogether disappear. Suppose our present electoral body were denuded of its better and more intellectual section, and the powers now exercised by the whole were left in the hands of the ruder portion only, just such a loss as this is now suffered by society in consequence of the denial to women of the rights and duties which they should have the power to discharge for the public good—rights and privileges which, while they are denied to good and worthy women, are bestowed upon any brainless young fop of 21, or any besotted heap, whose only necessary qualification is sex. Neither brains nor morals count. Believe me, Sir, this subject is one of the burning questions of the day, and in spite of masculine ridicule, and ofttimes scurrilous abuse—which, by the way, is always a sign of defeat, "No case," say the lawyers "abuse the other side"—the franchise of women will as assuredly come to pass as did the wiping out of that foul blot, American slavery.

There are thousands of women totally ignorant up to the present hour of the degraded position they hold under British laws; there are other thousands who, knowing it, do not realise it, because they are personally untouched by it, their lot having been cast by chance (not by law nor right) in pleasant places. It is John Stuart Mill who writes: "If men were as bad and despotic towards women as the law gives them license to be, life would pass the bounds of human endurance." I appeal to my sex to shake off the apathy they have hitherto evinced upon this subject, and to throw over for ever the chains—be they ever so flowery—that they are accused of hugging, and which at the masculine change or caprice may be made to fret and gall to unbearable torture." There can be no better time than the present, while at the head of affairs we have one who with broad-minded and unselfish liberality—for which we women should at least be grateful—declares himself in favour of the franchise to women.

I am, &c., E. C. B.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am under the impression that a great number who write under the above heading cannot, or do not, think what the Almighty Creator made woman for. Woman was intended to be the helpmate of man, and such being the case, educate the women that they may not lack in knowledge or understanding, so that, should necessity demand it, they may turn their talents to account. But should the day ever come when Sydney shall place women into her Houses of Assembly, to debate on politics and govern the country, then, alas! our wives, mothers, and sisters, instead of being helpmates to cheer our fathers, husbands, and brothers on their toilsome road, we will find debating women and dirty homes. Again, what will become of the men? They will surely show more spirit than allow any woman to meddle with what is their right and has been since the beginning of the world. I am, &c., D. A. E.

SPLENDID SITE and COTTAGE, BANKSTOWN.

About 30 ACRES of superior LAND, in respect to both quality of soil and situation, every foot of it is good. It occupies an elevated position on Main Liverpool-road, next but one to Public school, near Rossiter's Store, and enjoys extensive and remarkably pretty views over varied scenery. The district ranks one of the healthiest in the whole county, the air is dry and elastic, possessing all the elements for a sanatorium. It is an easy drive from the City, or a short run from BURWOOD, HOMEBUSH, or ROOKWOOD RAILWAY STATION, BELL'S route for railway line, ST. PETERS to LIVERPOOL, surveyed through it; or Kennedy's line is conveniently close. When this railway facility is provided great appreciation of the district will follow, and so values will largely enhance; every foot of this block would cut up for subdivision. Part of the land is an Orangery and Orchard.
The COTTAGE is of wood and brick, having verandahs all round, hall, 8 rooms, pantry, bathroom, washhouse, with stables, fowlhouse, piggery, &c.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the ROOMS, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 12th APRIL, at 11 o'clock,

FOR POSITIVE SALE.

FAMOUS ADDERTON ESTATE,
commanding lovely views in the charming and healthy district between Parramatta and Pennant Hills, fronting Kissing Point-road, only 15 minutes' drive from Parramatta, and a little over one mile from the boundary of the borough.
ADDERTON Homestead is a comfortable Cottage, with verandahs, hall, 11 apartments in all, besides kitchen, laundry, spacious stabling conveniences, barns, fruit store, man's room, milking bails, &c., &c. It occupies a lovely site on the hill, having a gentle slope to the main road (almost opposite Wesleyan Chapel), and from which there is a wide-stretching panorama of captivating views. The property was known as the country seat of the late Hon. Captain Robert Towns, and is now occupied by Neil Harper, Esq., J.P. It is surrounded by a well-grown plantation of border trees, shrubs, &c., and there is about 20 acres of excellent orchard included in this property.
The TOTAL AREA of land is 115 ACRES 1 ROOD 24 PERCHES.
The above property occupies a front position (cleared or improved) in an undoubtedly healthy and picturesque district, with the great advantage that the soil is very superior, and capable of yielding large valuable returns of such products as may be sought to be gathered from it.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH (in conjunction with Messrs. MILLS and PILE) will sell by public auction at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 12th APRIL, at 11 o'clock,
The above celebrated ADDERTON ESTATE.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—Times, July 13, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See Lancet, December 31, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne "is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"—Medical Times, January 13, 1886.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, colds, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

KILL THE INSECTS AND THEIR EGGS with Clayton and Co.'s Great American Insect Exterminators. It paralyses the first touch and then kills. If blown into their haunts (crevices), or where their eggs are laid, death is instantaneous for Beetles, Ants, Silver Fish, or any other insect. It is perfectly harmless to birds or animals, and may be placed under the wing of a pet canary, and rubbed on dogs, cats, or monkeys, killing the parasites that infest them. If burnt in a room or in a camp, it kills flies and mosquitoes. If placed on window-sills you can see the large "blow fly," as well as the common fly, give up the ghost. If placed under the edges of carpets, silver fish and all other insect vermin die. It is used in the mattresses and bedsteads of all the hotels and steamboats of the United States and this colony. Sold everywhere in tins, 1s and 1s 3d, and in large boxes 1s 6d. In large cannons to blow into crevices, 1s 6d each. Wholesale and retail, WASHINGTON H. SOUL and Co., 158, 160, 162, and 268, Pitt-street. Can be sent by steamboat or railway if not to be obtained of your druggist or storekeeper.
